MacDonald's Arrival in The U. S.

Britain's Real Ruler. Old-Fashioned Daughter. And Rosie Rosenberg. Drugs in That Prison?

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE

RAMSAY MacDONALD, elected head of the British empire by the Labor party, is here, the first British prime minister to visit the United States while in office.

Mr. MacDonald's reception will be that accorded to royalty, which is not exaggerating his importance.

The prime minister is the most powerful man in England. The King, addressing his Lords and Commons, says exactly what the prime minister tells him to say.

MISS ISHBEL MacDONALD, here with her father, will seem hopelessly old-fashioned to many of our rising female generation.

She does not smoke or drink alcoholic liquors and does not paint or powder her face.

And most old-fashioned of all, she does look after her father and take a serious interest in public affairs.

IF you see Ramsay MacDonald, Labor prime minister of Great Britain, you may also see Miss Rosie Rosenberg, vivacious, able young woman, the Prime Minister's private secretary.

Miss Rosenberg joined the Socialist party in London eleven years ago and has been MacDonald's secretary nine years.

OBSERVE the difference between "democratic America" and "conservative Great Britain." Here, if you join the Socialist party, and talk "that way," you stand a fair chance of being locked up. In Britain you may become secretary to the prime minister.

THE tragic rebellion of convicts in the Colorado State Prison ended yesterday morning with 150 convicts walking out, hands raised above their heads, in surrender.

FOUR leaders of the rebellion had killed themselves. During the night the convicts, at intervals, had thrown out of an upper window the bodies of guards captured and murdered by them, the warden having on each occasion refused to let them go free.

ONCE a prison inmate was a poor and miserable creature, with poor and miserable friends, if any.

Some woman, sad-faced, might come to see the man in jail, bringing her child to see him, through the bars, giving him, perhaps, a few cents' worth of tobacco.

THAT is all changed in these bootleg days. Convicts have, outside the prison walls, gangster friends that control money unlimited. Convicts can afford to buy privileges, including drugs, even at the high prices charged in prison traffic.

THAT drugs played a part in the Colorado outbreak, with its reckless disregard for death, and its suicides, seems probable.

Guards will learn from the Colorado tragedy to watch their prisoners carefully, and to watch, with especial care, any guard or other person engaged in the prison drug trade.

IN six days Chicago must send an electric current through the bodies of three Negroes and send the three murderers we don't quite know where.

Recently lights went out in the jail where the electric chair is kept. The city spent $2,500 to make sure of plenty of electricity to kill the three men on October 11.

It would be embarrassing to strap a murderer into the chair and have the current fail.

Without hesitation civilization spends $2,500 to make sure of killing three Negroes. It would not spend so willingly to save them from a criminal life.

In California an unfortunate young moving picture star, recently known all over the world, is dying and the government seeks those that sold her drugs that ruined her career and her health.

The medical examiner, Dr. Gonzales, examining the corpse, says "Nothing unusual. Alcoholic psychosis."

Nothing unusual, with prohibition in the Constitution and all the power of government trying to enforce it. The old saying about leading a horse to water seems to apply to human beings.

MEXICO'S government seizes estates of those engaged in the revolt of last March and will give them to the University of Mexico.

Thus national education will be financed at the expense of those that opposed national education.

THE idea is old. Rome gave confiscated estates as bribes to soldiers, kings have rewarded their favorites with the lands and money of traitors put to death.

WATCHMAN DRUGGED BY TRIO

Trucks Haul Cleaning Plant Loot; Two Homes Robbed In Beechwood Boulevard

In three raids in the East End district early today, burglars got loot valued at $13,000. Victims were the Washington Cleaning and Dyeing Company, Attorney Delmont K. Ferree and Milton A. Mackay.

At the cleaning plant, 1125 Washington boulevard, three Negroes drugged the watchman, Joseph Rubrecht, 41, and after binding and gaging him, drove away in two company trucks loaded with several hundred suits and dresses, valued between $5,000 and $6,000.

DOOR PRIED OPEN

The visitors pried open a rear door of Attorney Ferree's home, 176 Beechwood boulevard, and made away with jewelry and clothes valued at $2,600. This included a $500 diamond ring.

Mr. Mackay, a real estate operator, reported that his home at 1606 Beechwood boulevard had been ransacked some time before midnight and that the loot valued at $3,475 included a silver fox fur worth $1,000; 17 suits of clothing valued at more than $100 each, and pieces of jewelry.

The Mackay robbery recalled the theft of $10,000 worth of jewelry from Mrs. Mackay six months ago in New York. Her maid later was arrested in Atlantic City.

HANDS AND FEET TIED

Rubrecht, the watchman, told police that shortly after midnight, as he was returning to the plant from luncheon, he locked the front

PIRATES CLOSE SEASON HERE

The baseball season in Pittsburgh will come to a close this afternoon with a doubleheader. The Cardinals are in town to assist the Pirates in dropping the curtain.

The Pirates need one victory in their three remaining games to clinch second place. The Giants were rained out yesterday and the best they could do is force a deadlock. To do this they would have to win their three remaining contests while the Pirates were dropping the same number.

The Pirates will leave for Chicago tonight, where tomorrow they will meet the Cubs in the final clash of the season.

Play in the first game this afternoon begins at 1:30.

'Man to Man' Peace Parley Opens Today in Seclusion Of Retreat in Blue Ridge

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The silent peaks of the Blue Ridge Mountains will close in today upon the peace conferences between President Hoover and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain.

The British Premier will accompany his presidential host this afternoon into the fastnesses of the Virginia mountains. At the Hoover camping retreat in the Virginia wilderness the American President and the Prime Minister will talk man-to-man concerning mutual understanding between the two great English-speaking nations.

The presidential lodge is 100 miles from the capital and may be reached only by traversing 12 miles of tortuous roadbed. The Alpine lake region, with its rough and tangled verdure, may well remind the "Fighting Pacifist" of his homeland on the rugged shores of the Moray Firth in Scotland, overlooked by the dark forests on the slanting Grampian mountains.

MRS. HOOVER WITH ISHBEL

It is in such surroundings that men get to know each other, and in the silence of the Blue Ridge forests will be threshed out those international problems which may lead a mechanical age to golden peace.

Mrs. Hoover and the premier's daughter, Ishbel MacDonald, whose cheeks are tinted like the red of autumn leaves, will accompany the party. What these two hostesses of leading statesmen will talk about may never be known but it is hardly audacious to predict that it will not be entirely international relationships.

Before the prime minister leaves for a week-end isolation in the wilderness he was to complete his formal social duties in the capital, with calls upon the Vice President, the Chief Justice and the speaker of the House. He was to be accompanied by Sir Esme Howard, ambassador of Great Britain.

The prime minister also was to make a courtesy call on Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson at the Department of State. Following a lunch at the British embassy, he was to go to the White House as a guest for the remainder of his stay in Washington.

FLASHLIGHT SALUTE

In addition to the colorful pomp and ceremony attached to the formalities, Washington contributed a new sensation to the prime minister in the activities of the newspaper cameramen.

When the Premier left the White House after calling on President Hoover, flarelights made a miniature Coney Island of the lawn and speed flash powder detonated like the 19-gun salute he received when coming up New York harbor.

INQUIRY BEGUN IN PRISON RIOT

CANON CITY, Col., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—The tragic drama of the Colorado State Prison riot gave way today to a commonplace routine as the rap of carpenters' hammers replaced the staccato of machine guns, an eight-fold investigation of the mutiny got under way and preparations were made for funerals of 12 who lost their lives in battle and massacre.

Of the 12 dead, seven were guards who died to uphold law and order. The other five were convicts, one fatally wounded by a guard, three slain by the ringleader of the revolt, and the leader who ended his life. With his death the mutiny ended as suddenly as it began.

While hundreds of convicts, not participants in the mutiny, bent to tasks of rebuilding cell houses and other buildings, plans were taking

First South America Air Mail Plane Off

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 5.—(INS.)—The first regular air mail between the United States and Buenos Aires departed from the Pan-American airport here today. The flight will follow the Canal Zone route and then will take the west coast of South America to Santiago, Chile. From there it will cross the Andes to the Argentine capital.

The schedule provides only eight days, as compared with 35 by steamer.

TUNNEY'S BRIDE UNDER KNIFE

BERLIN, Oct. 5.—(INS.)—Mrs. James J. (Gene) Tunney, wife of the former heavyweight champion of the world, underwent an operation for appendicitis here today. The operation was entirely successful.

The operation was performed at the clinic of Prof. A. W. Meyer, the famous German surgeon who saved Mrs. Tunney's life when she was close to death from an abdominal abcess, on Brioni Island, in the Adriatic, this spring.

Mrs. Tunney, the former Polly Lauder, Greenwich, Conn., heiress, was taken to the clinic by her husband yesterday. There was no emergency, but an operation was deemed advisable.

TUNNEY UNAWARE

Tunney left his wife at the clinic last night and returned to his apartments in the Hotel Esplanade. He was still at the hotel when reached by International News Service on the telephone at 9 o'clock this morning, and was unaware that Dr. Meyer had already begun the operation.

"You certainly caught me this time," the elusive ex-champion

LINEMAN KILLED IN POLE FALL

Two Duquesne Light Company linemen were injured, one fatally, today when they crashed to the ground with a pole that fell at Kendall avenue and the Ohio River Boulevard, Bellevue.

Joseph E. Nock, 29, of Perrysville road, Ross township, succumbed from his injuries shortly after being admitted to the Suburban General Hospital.

His fellow-worker, E. J. Bauer, 28, of 2901 Frederick street, was taken to the hospital suffering from shock and bruises. He is not seriously hurt, hospital attendants said.

The two were removing wires from a pole to clear the route of the boulevard when an embankment gave way, causing the pole to topple, the company reported.

STOCKS STAGE STRONG RALLY

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—The stock market, which had sustained one of the worst breaks in its history this week, rallied in sensational fashion today in response to the strong buying support that had been placed overnight. Initial gains of $2 to $10 a share were scattered over a wide list of issues.

The sharp break on heavy volume yesterday, which many traders had been waiting for to end the current decline, apparently had sufficiently corrected the market's weakened technical position to encourage buying operations on a broad scale. Some banking support also is believed to have been supplied to prevent the utter demoralization of the market after nearly a month of steadily declining prices.

$22,000 Gems Stolen From Theater Party

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Five robbers today held up a theater party and stole jewelry valued at $22,000. Mr. and Mrs. James G. Hodgkinson, their two young daughters and Mrs. Hodgkinson's mother, Mrs. C. A. Roberts, were the victims. Hodgkinson is an insurance broker.

The party had just driven up to the Hodgkinson's, home when the bandits called to Hodgkinson that they were policemen.

County Assessment Offices Reorganization on Efficient, Business-Like Basis Urged

The grand jury investigating phantom voters today made a presentment to court containing seven recommendations for corrective legislation and changes in the method of making assessments and registering voters.

It urged:

Reorganization of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes on a more businesslike basis.

Fixing of the last registration day 21 days before the marie sand legislation requiring the county treasurer and delinquent tax collector to provide tax receipts perforated with serial numbers.

No indictments were handed down. The jury was discharged with the commendation of Judge Harry H. Rowand.

Laxity in assessments is laid by the grand jury at the door of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes.

The jury declares that only three of the board, George J. Schatz, chairman; Charles J. McBride, secretary, and Emil C. Starke are actively engaged in attending to their duties and that the other four members "appear to be interested chiefly in the matter of drawing their salaries."

CROSSING CRASH KILLS 1, HURTS 2

One man was killed and two were injured seriously when their auto was struck by a Pennsylvania Railroad train at a crossing in West Elizabeth today.

Roy Stewart, 23, a millworker, of Bunola, was dead when taken to McKeesport Hospital.

The injured men, also in McKeesport Hospital, are George Adamson, 31, of Elizabeth, who suffered fractured ribs and internal injuries, and Paul Brancoline, 35, of Bunola, whose collarbone was believed fractured.

The train, which was traveling on the Monongahela Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, was eastbound when it collided with the automobile.

The automobile was demolished.

Lloyd George Ill, Ordered to Bed

NOTTINGHAM, England, Oct. 5.—(INS.)—David Lloyd George, wartime premier of England, has been ordered to bed by his physician because of a chill, it was learned today. He is staying at the home of a friend here.

An official statement by his doctors states that the patient is improving, but that his temperature is high and his pulse abnormal.

Mussolini Pays High Tribute to Stresemann

By BENITO MUSSOLINI,
(Special Cable)

ROME, Oct. 5.—The name and work of Gustav Stresemann, foreign minister of Germany, who died Thursday, will remain indissolubly bound to the most intense and most fecund period of the political and economic reconstruction of Germany.

I first met Stresemann in March, 1922, in Berlin, where I went for purposes of study some months before my assumption of power. He welcomed me hospitably to his home where we conversed one hour very cordially on various subjects. We touched on various questions, the European situation as well as the Fascist movement in particular.

Recalls Locarno

Berlin h I still rather a sad outlook. It was on the eve of the great inflation. The mark was already on the down grade and within a few months of that time it attained its astronomical velocity of descent to a point where 4,000,000,000 marks were required to buy one dollar.

Stresemann was not yet a minister, but was only an influential and respected leader of his party. Several years passed before I saw Stresemann again when he was foreign minister, in autumn, 1925, at Locarno, when the famous pact between France and Germany was consummated and guaranteed by England and Italy.

Dr. Stresemann

In my position as foreign minister I have followed attentively Herr Stresemann's policy. I do not wish now to recall the quarrelsome tilt I had with him when he replied to my speech provoked by a German boycott on Italian goods. I reiterate my viewpoint, but this great cloud which appeared unexpectedly on the horizon of Italo-German relations disappeared rapidly so that at the end of the same year, 1926, I had the satisfaction of signing the Italo-German protocol of arbitration and conciliation which supplemented the commercial treaty, which I myself negotiated, governing the important trade relations of our two countries.

100 Per Cent German

I remember Stresemann with sympathetic tenderness. His end before its time has profoundly saddened me. Stresemann was 100 per cent German—German in his physical aspect, German in his spiritual and moral constitution. Although he spoke French and English well, he spoke German regularly even in private conversations with foreigners as well as in public assemblies attended by other nationalities.

Though he was thoroughly German, though he was Pan-Germanist during the war, Stresemann, after the defeat of the German aims, after the turbid period which Germany went through during the "Spartachist Putsch," oriented his ideas toward a European entente and acceptance of the new republican constitution.

It is natural and comprehensible that Stresemann's policy of rapprochment with France and of the general European entente had caused violent discussions in Germany, even recently. He who would live again this first post-war decade must obviously objectively see that Stresemann's policy closes with a noteworthy balance in favor of Germany.

The fact remains that Germany today finds herself in the international situation in a quite different position from that of seven years ago.

Reparations Victory

Germany has entered the League of Nations, obtaining as was logical and as I maintained since 1925, a place on the permanent league council. The burden of reparations was constantly being put off and was settled neither as regards the final sum nor duration.

Stresemann obtained through the Dawes and Young plans a stabilization of the figures in the reparations annuities to be paid. This sum is not excessive for Germany's economic capacity with the powers of a great people which has already healed its wounds of war.

Mussolini

The Zeppelin has not made its trip around the world in vain, whilst a ship of the rehabilitated German Merchant Marine has won the derby of the ocean. Alongside this progress and these successes in the economic and financial field, Stresemann has been able to obtain the evacuation of the Rhineland.

Destiny has wished to fall upon him when the first detachments of allied troops are abandoning the German soil five years before the period fixed by the Treaty of Versailles. There is no doubt this settlement of financial and political relations with Germany has given a powerful momentum to the movement for European reconstruction, not alone economic but also political and moral.

Terms Softened

Stresemann's policy appeared to aim at accepting the Versailles Treaty with its most drastic clauses mitigated, clauses which in 1919 were dictated rather by sentiment than by reason which now, with changed conditions, were applicable no more.

The truth is that Stresemann in accepting and submitting to it, has succeeded in fulfilling the work of a true and real revision of the Treaty of Versailles.

His political adversaries, have maintained and still maintain that "the game is not worth the candle," and that the acceptance of the Versailles Treaty is not overbalanced by a few and unimportant revised clauses. This viewpoint is a product of an ardent passion for discussion but it is not objective judgment.

PANTAGES TRIAL RESTS, WIFE CALLED FOR SENTENCE

FACES TERM OF 1 TO 10 YEARS

Woman, in Collapse, to Be Carried Into Court; Girl Dancer Tells of Attack

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Interest in the trial of Alexander T. Pantages, 54-year-old theater magnate, on a statutory charge brought by a 17-year-old dancer, shifted today to the fate of his wife, Mrs. Lois Pantages, who was to appear in Superior Court to hear herself sentenced to from one to 10 years in San Quentin Penitentiary for manslaughter.

Pantages' trial was adjourned yesterday until Monday with Eunice Pringle, co-ed dancer who brought the charge against him, still on the stand. Miss Pringle recounted her version of the alleged attack the multimillionaire made upon her August 9 in "the stairway cubby hole" in his theater building and resisted efforts of defense attorneys on cross examination to impeach her. She will take the stand for further questioning Monday.

FIGHT NEW TRIAL

Mrs. Pantages was found guilty of responsibility for the death of Juro Rokumoto, Japanese gardener fatally injured June 16 in a collision of their automobiles. Her sentencing has been postponed twice, once because she had not recovered from a physical collapse which came with the reading of the verdict, and again last Monday to allow preparation of arguments on a defense motion for a new trial.

The woman has been in precarious health since the collision, which occurred, the state alleged, while she was intoxicated. It was indicated she would be carried into the court room today.

Repeated intimations that Mrs. Pantages would not ask for probation have been given at her home where she is under the care of doctors. The state was prepared to resist efforts to obtain a new trial.

GIRL SOBS ON STAND

In the trial of Pantages Miss Pringle broke into tears once as she related the alleged occurrence in Pantages' private office. Under defense questioning she denied she ever had been taken to the tiny office before August 9, or that she acceded to the wealthy theater man's advances willingly.

"He smothered my screams with his hands," the girl said. "I kicked him as vigorously as I was able and struggled until I fainted."

STOWE FIREMEN WIN DAMAGES

HARRISBURG, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Volunteer firemen injured, and dependents of those killed, when a truck of the Stowe Township (Allegheny County) Fire Department was wrecked while responding to a general alarm in Heidelburg, December 26, are entitled to compensation, John L. Morrison, a member of the Workmen's Compensation Board, ruled today.

Three firemen were killed and seven injured and the 10 cases growing out of the accident are disposed of on the testimony adduced in the case of John Caputo vs. Stowe Township.

Insurance carriers resisted compensation on the ground that the firemen were not within the limits of Stowe Township when the accident occurred.

"In our opinion," Morrison wrote, "a volunteer fireman's course of employment is not restricted to the geographical area of the particular unit in which his headquarters is located and that when acting under orders of a duly appointed superior, within reasonable bounds, and under customary circumstances, he continues within the course of his employment, even though he be beyond the confines."

Adolph J. Sennett, Thomas C. Moyer and Joseph DePerro were the firemen killed when the Stowe township truck overturned on Windgap road, between Ingram and McKees Rocks, while en route to the $500,000 fire in the plant of the Carnegie Refining Company.

PRISONERS LACK SHELTER

Sanford Bates, director of Federal Prisons; J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Bureau of Investigation of the Federal Department of Justice; Gov. W. H. Adams, of Colorado; Colorado Board of Corrections; coroner's jurors; State Civil Service Commission; state military authorities and Warden Francis E. Crawford, were to co-operate in a sweeping study of the situation, hoping to ascertain why, by whom and where the tempest started.

Nearly 1,000 prisoners were without shelter as a result of fires that swept the buildings. Twisted steel work was scattered about the granite buildings. Damage of $300,000 to $400,000 was caused by fire and the subsequent attack by National Guardsmen and volunteers on the stronghold of the felons.

The mutiny started Thursday noon in the Prison Mess Hall when one of the convicts, James Pardue, seized a guard's gun and shot the guard dead. Four other convicts, A. H. Davis, Melvin Majors, Albert Morgraidge and Danny Daniels, ringleaders, captured several unarmed guards in the Mess Hall.

HELD AS HOSTAGES

Meantime, they herded other convicts into a group. Another guard was shot from the prison wall, dead. Continuing their march, the five desperadoes captured a total of 10 guards. These men they held as hostages for their freedom.

Out of the chaos and confusion there rose a figure above all others in heroism. Father Patrick O'Neil, who cried "I can stand this no longer, let me go in," displayed rare bravery in going into the prison yard under a protecting barrage from Colorado National Guardsmen outside, and placed two charges of dynamite with which the beseigers hoped to blast the building to open the way for a massed attack.

Divorced Few Hours Kills Wife and Self

Woman's Wish to Die In Old Home Fulfilled

The oft-expressed wish of Mrs. Margaret Leidner, 72, that she die in the home which had been hers for 37 years is fulfilled.

She had been troubled recently, neighbors said, because they and her children did not think it advisable for her to live alone any longer at the homestead, 7626 Frankstown avenue.

Fond memories bound her heart to the old home. Her four children had been born and reared there. Her husband had died there some years ago. The children had left home and married, had urged her to take up her abode with them but still she clung to the home that had been hers through the years.

Finally the advice of her children and friends seemed to point to the inevitable course. She must leave. Yesterday was the day set for her to depart to live with her daughter, Mrs. Margaret Surrell, of Freedom, Pa.

When neighbors entered her home to help her prepare for the journey and for the ordeal of bidding adieu to the abode she had held dear they found her in bed—dead.

"Heart disease," the coroner's record said. "Heart broken, perhaps," her friends ventured.

Wife, 16, Drinks Poison as Man Spurns Cards

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 5.—(AP.) To play or not to play cards has become a very real question for the Kansas City husband.

Several days ago a Kansas City woman shot her husband fatally after an argument in a card game. Today Mrs. Edna Hodges, 16, was in a hospital because her husband refused to play cards. She took poison.

High barometer, central over West Virginia, covers the Atlantic states and the Ohio Valley states, while low pressure areas are influencing the weather over most of the West. There is a disturbance centered over Mississippi, causing showers and thunderstorms over the Lower Mississippi Valley states, and a center over Saskatchewan and Manitoba, causing cloudiness and scattered light showers over the far Northwest. Light to heavy frost occurred over the lake region and over Northern Illinois and Eastern Iowa. There is no indication of cold weather in the next two or three days.

The rivers are falling. Stage at Franklin is 3.7 feet; Lock No. 7, 22.3; Pittsburgh, 18.4; Dam No. 2, 14.1; Dam No. 6, 19.4; Dam No. 9, 20.9, and Dam No. 12, 21.9. The dams are down.

Senator, 3 Others Hurt in Auto Crash

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 5.—Four persons were hurt, one probably fatally, when a car driven by John E. Kunkle, Jr., son of Senator John Kunkle, of Greensburg, and another driven by Lester Good, 18, of Manor, collided on the Lincoln highway, a short distance west of here. Harry Good, 5, a passenger in Good's car, was taken to the Westmoreland Hospital here hurt probably fatally. The driver and Senator Kunkle, with Mrs. Paul George, a daughter of Senator Kunkle, were less seriously hurt.

door behind him and a Negro leveled a revolver at him.

The three Negroes then bound his hands and feet to the chair and tied the chair to a gas pipe and a desk.

Rubrecht held his breath.

"I'll knock you out!" one threatened.

Rubrecht breathed and went to sleep.

ASLEEP THREE HOURS

Three hours later he awakened and in a few minutes dozed off to sleep again.

When an employe, Charles Robinson, reported at 7 o'clock he found Rubrecht asleep.

In the meantime, the burglars emptied the clothes racks. They ignored only a few suits in the office in which the watchman was a captive.

The Negroes carried the clothes to the two trucks in the company's yard and drove away. A broken window panel in a rear door indidated how they had gained entrance.

THIEVES HUNGRY

One of the proprietors, Max Levine, estimated that the loss was between $5,000 and $6,000.

A complete check of the Ferree loot extended the loss to a half cantaloupe and a glass of milk.

One of the burglars apparently had lifted the food from a refrigerator. The empty glass and the cantaloupe skin were abandoned on the kitchen table.

RUSSIAN FLIERS SAFE IN STORM

CRAIG, Alaska, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—The four Russian aviators flying from Moscow to New York were safe here today after monoplane, Land of the Soviets' had been forced down by motor trouble at Waterfall, 12 miles north of here.

Flying through a severe electrical storm and fighting a terrific wind, the airmen narrowly escaped disaster after both motors of the monoplane stopped.

TO REPLACE MOTOR

Resumption of the flight to Seattle, the next stop in the 12,000-mile air journey, probably will not be possible for a week because a new motor must be installed in the monoplane. The motor and supplies will be shipped from Seattle. The left engine will be replaced and the right motor repaired.

The Russians left Sitka early Thursday for Seattle, taking off at 6:42 a. m. (Pacific Coast time). During the flight of approximately 200 miles the plane encountered bad weather, rain blinded the pilots and the huge plane flew only a few feet above the water.

The left motor suddenly stopped and the plane was swung around and headed for Waterfall Bay, on the southeastern end of Alaska. As the haven was reached the other motor also quit.

BATTLE AGAINST WIND

Two Russians remained with the plane, which was moored after considerable difficulty in a heavy wind. Their companions made their way yesterday to this small settlement on Prince of Wales Island with the first word of their safety.

Before their arrival anxiety for the airmen caused the coast guard cutters Unalga and Cygan to put out from Juneau and Ketchikan to search near Southeastern Alaska.

WATCHMAN BOUND

CHARLES ROBINSON UNTYING JOSEPH RUBRECHT

Rubrecht, 41, night watchman, was drugged, bound and gagged by three Negro thugs who drove away in two company trucks loaded with several hundred suits and dresses, valued between $5,000 and $6,000, which had been sent to Washington Cleaning and Dyeing Company, Washington boulevard.

PLANES HOP OFF ON NATIONAL AIR TOUR

Three Women Among More Than 20 Fliers Starting 5,000-Mile Airways Jaunt

DETROIT, Oct. 5.—Flying a red Trainer biplane, C. W. Meyers, of Cleveland, piloted the first plane from the Ford airport at 10 a. m., today, inaugurating the 1929 National Air Tour.

One minute after Meyers took off, Capt. William N. Lancaster, also flying a Trainer, was sent away on the 5,017-mile tour. The more than a score of planes entered in the tour were given the starting signal at one minute intervals.

The fliers headed for Windsor (Ontario), the port of entry to Canada, where they will go through the Canadian customs. After luncheon at Windsor they take off for Toronto, where they will spend the night.

UNBROKEN LINE TO CANADA

The effect of starting the planes off at one-minute intervals on the short hop from the Ford airport to the Windsor field, about 15 miles' distant, was to put a continuous string of planes into the air, the first plane off reaching Windsor before the last plane had made its takeoff.

Three women pilots were among the group taking off. They were Mary Haizlip, of Kansas City, piloting an American Eagle biplane; Frances Harrell, of Houston, Tex., in a Moth Aircraft biplane, and Mrs. Keith Miller, of New York, in a Fairchild KR-34, open biplane.

TRIP TO LAST 16 DAYS

The itinerary, which embraces virtually all the eastern, central and middle western states, with a portion of Canada, is planned to cover a span of 16 days, bringing the tour back to Detroit October 21.

Among the cities to be visited are Ottawa, Ontario; Montreal, Quebec; Portland, Me.; Springfield, Mass.; New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Jacksonville, Murfreesboro, Tenn.; Cincinnati, St. Louis, Wichita, St. Paul, Chicago.

MRS. TUNNEY UNDER KNIFE

said. "I was just going to call the clinic to find out about it."

Tunney at first refused to confirm or deny that the operation had been decided upon, but finally added:

"You may consider this my confirmation."

The Tunneys arrived here early this week from France, and immediately called to see Dr. Meyer. The visit gave rise to erroneous reports that Tunney himself had to undergo an operation, but this was ridiculed both by the surgeon and the fighter himself.

ISLAND CRISIS RECALLED

At the time, Dr. Meyer said that both Tunney and his wife were in good physical condition, but their repeated visits to the clinic culminated in the decision to remove the appendix of the millionairess bride.

When Mrs. Tunney was stricken at Brioni, Dr. Meyer told International News Service that an operation for removal of the appendix would eventually be necessary, but the weakened state of her condition prevented the operation at that time.

In contrast to the Brioni operation, Mrs. Tunney was tended today in one of Berlin's most modern and up-to-date private sanitariums. At Brioni, Dr. Meyer was forced to operate upon the fighter's bride on a rough deal table hauled in from the kitchen of the Tunney's honeymoon cot, using borrowed instruments hastily brought by motor launch from the Italian mainland. On that occasion it was a life or death matter.

NOT TO SEE WIFE

Through his secretary, Tunney later gave to International News Service details of the operation.

"The operation lasted half an hour and was a full success," the ex-fighter said. "Mrs. Tunney's appendix was removed because of its condition due to the abcess.

"The operation proceeded normally, and there were no complications whatever. Things turned out exactly as Prof. Meyer predicted when he operated on Mrs. Tunney at Brioni.

"My absence during the operation was more or less according to plan, Dr. Meyer wishing to spare me too much excitement. Mrs. Tunney behaved most bravely, I am told."

Tunney proceeded to the clinic as soon as he was informed the operation had taken place, but he will not be able to see his wife for some little while.

Man Asphyxiated While Taking Bath

Fumes from an open gas stove in the bathroom of his home late yesterday caused the death of Fred Kerr, 35, of 821 Freeland street, according to a report at the morgue. He was believed to have been overcome while taking a bath. Police sent him to South Side Hospital where he was pronounced dead.

SERVICE STAR MEETING ENDS

Passing of resolutions demanding adequate national defense, but indorsing movements toward arbitration of international misunderstandings, and telegrams of congratulations to President Hoover and Ramsay MacDonald, British premier now visiting Washington, featured the closing sessions of the Service Star Legion in Webster Hall yesterday.

Another resolution asked proper legislation to permit relatives to visit soldiers in government hospitals under lower transportation rates, while one requested the Battle Monuments Commission to place tablets in American government cemeteries.

Mrs. Jessie B. Zimmerman, president of the Allegheny County Council, was made a life member of the organization in recognition of her work during the convention.

YORK FEUD WINS FOE MEDAL

Sergeant Who Started Furore Against Tennessee Hero Is Awarded Decoration

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—As a direct result of the flare-up over the congressional medal awarded Sergt. Alvin C. York, Tennessee mountaineer, credited with killing 15 Germans and capturing 132 at Chatel Chehery, France, Oct. 8, 1918, Sergt. Bernard Early, Company G, Three Hundred Twenty-eighth Infantry, of Connecticut, York's platoon commander, probably will receive the Distinguished Service Cross today.

Sergt. Early it was who started the furore against York's claim for which the Tennessean was given the highest award this government has to bestow for exceptional valor. The decoration Early is expected to get, is the next coveted by soldiers.

SPECIAL SESSION

The army's decoration board held a special session and is understood to have recommended that Secretary Good grant the award at today's reenactment of the battle which made York famous. A letter in the files of the war department dated back in 1920, was dug out and it was used as the basis for the decoration board's action on the suggestion of Maj. Gen. Wells, deputy chief of staff.

The letter called attention at that time to a belief held by many officers and men of the brigade to which the Three hundred and Twenty-eighth Infantry was attached, that Early, was the noncommissioned officer who gave the original order to advance with 17 men against the German stronghold held by 200 Germans, should have been given the D. S. C. Some held that he should have received the congressional medal along with York without detracting from York's feat.

FEUD DELAYS AFFIDAVITS

The letter, signed by a colonel in the War Department, and addressed to a general officer, suggested that efforts be made to get affidavits from York and others who took part in the attack.

For some reason the affidavits were not forthcoming, presumably because of a dispute between Early and York as to when Early had been wounded. Early maintained he was wounded toward the end of the combat, while York declared, according to the letter, that his superior had been put out of action with the first fusillade from the Germans. On this point hinged, apparently, Early's failure to get a decoration.

MISSING FRENCH FLIERS FOUND

PARIS, Oct. 5.—(INS.)—Capt. Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, famous French airmen given up for lost in a sensational attempt to shatter all nonstop distance flight records, landed at Kowchinza, a tiny village near Tsitsi-Har, Manchuria, a dispatch from Harbin revealed today.

If the dispatch is true and the fliers safe, it means that they have broken the existing distance record by more than 400 miles.

In addition to the dispatch from Tsitsi-Har, the French Air Ministry has received an unofficial communication in which the fliers were quoted as saying they landed at 3 p. m. yesterday.

There obviously is some miscalculation in time, or else the landing in Manchuria was not made after a direct non-stop flight from Paris.

State Fish Official Dies as Boat Upsets

ALPENA, Mich., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Dr. Jan Metzelaar, 37, member of the staff of the University of Michigan Museum and state custodian of fishes, drowned yesterday while fishing in Grand Lake, near here.

He and G. McCrinimon, a companion, were out in a heavily-loaded boat about half a mile from shore. The boat capsized, throwing both into the lake. McCrinimon clung to the overturned boat for nearly three hours before he was rescued.

High Waves Balk Police Chase by Sea and Air

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—High waves on Long Island Sound and a marine engine that went dead last night frustrated a police chase by airplane, speedboat and coast guard pilot boat, the objective of which was the arrest of William G. Baker, captain of a Boston-bound tug, on a charge of complicity in the killing of a barge captain.

The barge skipper, William Mehaffey, 56, of Ipswich, Mass., was found dead on his craft, allegedly from a beating given him by Baker. A barge employe told police that Baker's tug, heading toward Long Island Sound, scraped against the side of the anchored barge and that in an altercation which followed, Baker beat Mehaffey with his fist and pieces of coal.

The Police Department borrowed a plane, and the first air chase in the history of the department took place over Long Island Sound. The plane overtook the boat off New London, Conn., but the water was too rough to land, and the police officers continued to New London, whence they put out in a speed boat.

The waves also proved too much for this craft, and the pursuing police turned to a coast guard boat for assistance. But word came from New London that this craft had developed motor trouble.

The police put back to New London, sent a message to Boston authorities to arrest Baker on the tug's arrival there, and then arranged to fly to Boston to obtain the prisoner.

MISS ISHBEL MacDONALD SMILING UPON NEW YORK

Hoover, MacDonald to Go To Hills to Talk Peace

Ishbel also has had her first thrill. Her automobile became separated from the procession between the White House and the British embassy and swerved in and out of traffic in an effort to catch up. Several times collisions with other machines were narrowly averted.

RETIRE EARLY

In order to be refreshed and ready for the strenuous program mapped out for today, Premier MacDonald and his daughter retired early last night. Ambassador Howard made a special point of having a light program prepared for last evening, realizing that the distinguished visitors would be extremely fatigued after the ordeal of going through the receptions accorded them by New York City and Washington immediately after their arrival.

But their first evening in Washington was not devoid of incident, for Premier MacDonald and his daughter both paid informal visits to the White House and later attended a formal dinner in their honor at the British Embassy, where they spent the night.

Both had different missions at the White House. That of Miss MacDonald was to be presented to her hostess of the coming week—Mrs. Hoover—and that of the Premier was to accomplish the "international handshake" which he had stressed as the symbol of the present conferences ever since Ambassador Charles G. Dawes set its wheels in motion in London, months ago.

Lady Isabella Howard, wife of the British ambassador, escorted Ishbel to the White House, while her husband conducted Premier MacDonald to the Presidential residence in his car.

TWELVE-MINUTE TALK

President and Premier met and talked for 12 minutes, shook one another by the hand and in the smiles that wreathed the faces of both was reflected the genuine pleasure each took in being the guiding figure in this great move toward Anglo-American amity and eternal peace.

Although the President afterward granted no interview, Premier MacDonald did, and in it he divulged so far as possible the details of his mission and left no doubt in his hearers' minds of the pride and joy he takes in the historic enterprise on which he has embarked.

The Premier received Washington newspaper correspondents at the British embassy. He spoke with the informal, spontaneous ease characteristic of him, but at times betrayed considerable emotion, particularly when he besought his listeners not to write anything that might in any way make the other nations of the world feel that through his conferences with President Hoover, Britain and America were conspiring at plans hostile to other countries.

It was then that he stressed the fact that he was not here to form a written entente between Britain and America. His mission, he said, was merely to clear away obstacles to permanent peace, and these obstacles he summed up in one meaning word—misunderstandings.

"The trouble in the world today," the premier said, "is misunderstanding, and the great purpose, the main purpose, of my visit to Washington at the present moment is that I am to try and make misunderstanding impossible."

GRATEFUL FOR GREETING

Premier MacDonald started by expressing his heartfelt gratification over the welcome that New York and Washington had accorded him.

"There is one thing that is uppermost in my mind," he said, "and I should like to express it to you straightaway. That is, I really am deeply moved by the magnificent reception that your people have given me since I landed in New York.

"It has been very touching to me and it is almost impossible for me to put into words how grateful I am for the warm as well as friendly reception which I have received all along the line of my route."

The Premier then pointed out that he was not here as a party leader or a statesman, but as a representative of "the whole body of public opinion in Great Britain."

"Their desire for cordial friendship with your people," he continued, "is very great and very profound, and they were praying, they have been praying for weeks since they knew that this visit was likely to take place, that a way might be found to bring them in heart and spirit closer and closer to your people here.

NO ALLIANCE IN VIEW

"Do not make any misunderstanding about that because I see that sometimes it is said elsewhere that either one or other of us have the idea of coming to an alliance. There is no idea of alliance; none whatever.

"America is blessed beyond words in occupying such a special position that she does not require to consider anything in the nature of an alliance. Alliances belong, as I said in New York today, to the old diplomacy.

"What we want and believe what your people have shown that you want, is just understanding, and I might appeal to the American press, I should appeal to them in this way. You have a tremendous power in your hands to remove misunderstanding."

Neither Mr. Hoover nor himself, the Premier said, has any idea of spending much time discussing details.

RISKS FOR PEACE

"We would like to survey together the large and wide, the high and deep problems of international peace.

"We have had our experiences of international war. We have all taken risks in the making of war and in the going into wars. Isn't it time, my friends, that we should take some risks to secure peace?"

In conclusion, the Premier said:

"Nothing, I am sure, would please both of us more than that any successful removal of misunderstandings between America and Great Britain should be at once followed by removal or other misunderstands with or between other nations."

FEDERAL COURT SESSIONS OFF

After a week of "wild rumors" relative to reconvening the Federal grand jury next week in Erie, Pa., the special session was called off.

This was done by United States Attorney John D. Meyer, after receiving a telephone communication from Washington, advising him the Department of Justice was not going to present before the grand jury a certain "matter" for its investigation. Having no other urgent business for the jury the government attorney notified the jurors their services would not be required.

Attorney Meyer and other government officials in a position to know what the contemplated investigation concerned remained reticent, and others who usually know what is in the "air" maintain they had not heard.

The government attorney, after the calling off of the special session, lifted the veil of mystery a little, by saying that none of the rumors was correct; that the matter was to have been placed before the jury pertained to a investigation being carried on in various parts of the country by the Department of Justice. He said there was an important angle of it in this district, which would be taken care of before grand juries in other parts of the country.

The call for the special session of the jury came from Washington while the Federal District Court was sitting in Erie last week. The members of the grand jury, when dismissed September 27, received instructions to reconvene on October 8. Now notices are being forwarded to them that they need not meet.

Marathon Dancers Trot to Safety As Hall Burns

TUCSON, Ariz., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—While two tired couples tottered through the one hundred and forty-third hour of a marathon dance which started last Sunday, the $30,000 dance hall at Clearwater in which they were performing, burned to the ground.

One couple broke and dashed for safety at the cry of fire. The other pair fox-trotted through the door and claimed victory. Sponsors of the dance decided the couple who broke step merely had displayed commendable caution and ordered the contest resumed in a roped arena.

Whereupon, the protesting couple quit in a huff and the non-stop mentors changed their ruling to "no contest." Both couples said they would sue for prize money.

PITTSBURGHERS ON BERENGARIA

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—With such a distinguished personage as British Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald as a fellow-passenger, Homer D. Williams, president of the Pittsburgh Steel Company; Emil Winter and E. H. Harris, of Pittsburgh, returned to the States last evening on the S. S. Berengaria, after an extended stay in Europe. Another fellow-traveler of the Pittsburgh tourists was James W. Gerard, former United States ambassador to Germany.

The Williams party was abroad nearly two months.

TARIFF RATES BATTLE NEXT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—By voting to retain a bi-partisan tariff commission of six members, the Senate disposed of the last important administrative feature of the tariff bill and left the way virtually clear for consideration of rate schedules early next week.

No record vote was taken on the committee amendment which rejected the House plan for a non-partisan commission of seven members.

Added to the amendment was a clause drawn by Senator Norris (Rep.), of Nebraska, declaring it to be the intention of Congress that the commission, in "all its official functions shall act judicially and that in determination of any matter submitted to it no consideration whatever shall be given to partisanship or party policy."

The Nebraskan described his amendment as a "step in the direction of trying again to take the tariff out of politics."

A three-hour session today was agreed to in order that the few amendments left relating to the administrative provisions may be acted upon and the controversial rate schedules taken up next week.

Senator Thomas, of Oklahoma, a Democratic member of the Finance Committee, served notice that he would offer a modification when the rate sections are reached to recommit the bill with instructions to confine the revision to farm products. Adoption of this resolution would leave the way open for the offering of individual amendments on the floor to the industrial rate schedules.

Ishbel's Call Scores Beat For Dolly Over Alice

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The place of Mrs. (Dolly) Gann, sister of Vice President Charles Curtis, in the social sun of the capital again loomed across the horizon today.

Ishbel MacDonald, daughter of the visiting British prime minister and his official hostess when he is in London, resuscitated the question by announcing that she would make three social calls before leaving for President Hoover's fishing camp.

Miss MacDonald will visit:

Mrs. Edward E. Gann.

Mrs. Henry L. Stimson, wife of the secretary of state.

Mrs. William Howard Taft, wife of the chief justice.

This may or may not be the order of the calls and the possible combinations may be juggled.

The calling upon Mrs. Gann by the daughter of the prime minister was seen as a graceful diplomatic gesture inasmuch as Mrs. Gann had voluntarily waived her potential place at formal functions during the MacDonald stay in favor of Lady Isabella Howard, wife of the ambassador from Great Britain.

Mrs. Alice Longworth, wife of the Speaker of the House, who clashed with the sister of the Vice President over the social precedence of table position, is out of town and will not return to the capital until after the MacDonald party has departed.

Miss MacDonald arose early on her first morning in the capital, held a conference with women newspaper correspondents and then started her round of calls.

Actress Requests Alimony Cut; Court Gasps

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Mrs. Carter De Haven, actress and divorced wife of the comedian, asked Superior Court to reduce her alimony.

"Why, I never heard of such a thing," the court gasped. Mrs. De Haven explained that while she had been given custody of their two children, the husband was taking them on the stage and "I want to help him."

ORIE'S APPEAL TO BE ARGUED

Arguments on the appeals of John W. Orie, former police magistrate, from his conviction and sentence in the Federal District Court for evasion of income taxes, and of some of those convicted in the North Side, South Side and Union Fishing Club rum conspiracy cases, will be made Tuesday by a large array of defense counsel before the United States Circuit Court in Philadelphia.

In opposing the appeals, the government will be represented by Assistant United States Attorney Joseph A. Richardson. Orie and Martin J. Grady, both under six-months jail sentences for income tax fraud, will be represented by Attorneys A. M. Oliver and John M. Henry.

The appeals of Thomas C. Johnson, Fred Stratman, Daniel McLaughlin, Oscar Reister and Thomas F. Wills, convicted in the North Side liquor conspiracies; Gus, Micky and Sam Meyers and James Swift, convicted in the South Side conspiracy, and John Coney, Frank C. Peters, M. Alshouse and V. Przekalas, convicted in the Union Fishing Club case, will be argued by Attorneys B. B. McGinnis, Arthur F. Schmidt, Edward G. Coll, W. W. Stoner and Henry.

Richardson, who this week tendered his resignation as an assistant federal prosecutor, is on annual vacation leave to October 15, when his resignation becomes effective, but agreed to give up part of his vacation in order to appear before the Circuit Court, after he had a conference with Louis E. Graham whose nomination as successor to John D. Meyer as United States attorney has been sent to the senate for confirmation.

SEEK TO QUASH PASTOR'S SUIT

SEATTLE, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Arguments on a motion to dismiss the $50,000 breach of promise suit brought by the Rev. H. H. Clark, formerly a Seattle minister, against Mrs. Minnie E. Kennedy, occupied the attention of Superior Judge J. T. Ronald here today.

The motion was offered yesterday after Gordon McGauvran, attorney for Clark, completed his case, by John S. Robinson, attorney for Mrs. Kennedy, mother of Aimee Semple McPherson, the evangelist. Judge Ronald deferred action on the motion until after the arguments today.

Clark put in another hard day on the stand yesterday under cross-examination by Robinson. He appealed to the court after he had left the stand for "protection" from the smiles of Mrs. Zena Lomer, sitting in the courtroom. She was one from whom he testified he had borrowed $200 during one of his many admitted times of dire need.

"Well, there isn't going to be any smiling," Judge Ronald remarked. "I'm not finding that she did smile—I'm just telling her not to. Every witness is going to be protected."

Clark contended in his complaint that Mrs. Kennedy secured his promise to marry her on the strength of a promise to provide him with a tabernacle in Seattle and a gospel ship for use along the Pacific Coast, but subsequently had refused to marry him. Her alleged refusal to marry him wrecked his plans for religious work, he said, and left him feeling "as though a moral hit-and-run driver had struck me and sped away into the darkness."

Man Hurt in Fall Sues for $10,000

Samuel Gross, of Roberts street, filed suit in Common Pleas Court against the City of Pittsburgh, asking $10,000 for personal injuries. He alleged he suffered a fractured ankle and other injuries when he tripped on a loose brick in the sidewalk in front of 41 Roberts street July 4 last.

Jewish New Year Marked By 122,000 in District

Special services were being held today in the 32 synagogues of Pittsburgh in observance of the Jewish New Year, which, according to the Jewish calendar, marks the year 5690. The holiday was ushered in at sundown yesterday, the signal for celebrating by Jews throughout the world.

Next to the Day of Atonement, Rosh Hashanah, the New Year, is the most solemn and sacred observed by the Jewish race. The observance ends at sundown tomorrow.

There are more than 60,000 Jews in Pittsburgh, and an estimated 122,000 in the metropolitan district.

The next religious holiday to be observed by Jews will be Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, October 13.

Swindler Buried Alive By Avenging Band

PARIS, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Paris police wonder if they are not being made victims of a hoax in a strange case of a dead man apparently buried alive which was revealed to them yesterday.

The dead man is Clement Passal, alias the Marquis of Champaubert, who had a long criminal record and had just served a sentence for swindling.

Led on by letters signed by the "Knights of Themis," the police found what appeared to be the body of Passal, dead, in a shallow grave in Verneuil woods, only a few miles from Paris. A rubber hose led from the face of the man in the rude coffin to the open air.

The body had every appearance of death by starvation, but police, who wondered if they were not being duped, handed it over to consulting surgeons to determine if the man really were dead or just in some sort of a cataleptic trance. The surgeons pronounced him dead.

The "Knights of Themis," in letters sent to Paris newspapers, purports to be a secret organization of French aristocracy with the purpose of punishing French swindlers and criminals whom the laws of France have failed to deal with adequately.

The entire case is one of the most fantastic the Paris police have ever been called upon to handle.

FIGHT BY RIVAL ON PERMIT EXPECTED

Franchise Sought for Route From Downtown District To West View and Ingomar

Pittsburgh is to be given de luxe bus service on a 15-cent fare, T. W. Jones, organizer of the proposed line, announced last night. Permission to operate the line from downtown Pittsburgh through West View to Ingomar will be asked of the Public Service Commission within 10 days.

The 15-cent fare will apply on the route through the North Hills to West View. A proportionately higher rate will be charged to more distant points.

START WITH 10 BUSSES

Jones plans to start operation of the new line with 10 busses, which are to be equal in comfort and speed to the equipment being used by the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company on its 25-cent lines, he said. The new busses will be made by Studebaker and will seat 22 passengers.

The 15-cent fare zone on the new line will cover a distance of over six miles, which is greater than the average length of the routes operatd at the higher fare, it was declared.

No date can be set for the starting of operations over the new line, since this is dependent on the granting of a certificate of public convenience by the commission.

OPPOSITION EXPECTED

The Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company and the Pittsburgh Railways Company are expected to contest the application, as they have done in the cases of all independents which have asked for permission to operate local bus lines in Pittsburgh.

In attempting to justify the charge of 25 cents, officials of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company have claimed that their service is luxurious and is not comparable to bus operations in other cities, at lower rates. They stated that it would be impossible to give the type of service now being offered at less than a 25-cent fare.

Elisha Lesson Topic At Salvation Army

"Elisha's Early Miracles" will be the lesson topic for the afternoon service tomorrow at the Salvation Army headquarters, Second avenue. Adjutant Clifford Lockwood will be in charge of the Men's Bible closs. The day's exercises will open with a holiness meeting at 11 a. m. and close with a meeting at 8 o'clock in the evening. Both programs will be in charge of Adjutant George Brooks. "Sheave Gatherings" will be the subject for the young people's meeting at 6 o'clock.

Dr. Voss to Preach In Cleveland Church

"The Cheerful Pilgrim," will be the theme of the German sermon tomorrow morning at the German Evangelical Protestant Church, Smithfield street. The Rev. Dr. Carl August Voss, pastor of the church, has been asked to officiate tomorrow at the golden anniversary celebration of the Independent Evangelical Church, of Cleveland, O., and in his absence, the Rev. Fr. Baltzer will have charge.

Congregation to Join In Union Services

Tomorrow morning, following the lectures of Dr. G. Campbell Morgan, the Rev. Dr. William M. Woodfin, pastor of the Third United Presbyterian Church, will speak on the subject "Translating the Christ of History into the Christ of Christian Experience." In the evening the members of the congregation will attend the union services being held in the Asbury M. E. Church.

PAUL M'KEEVER RALPH FRANK HUGH JONES

Members of the recounting committee appointed by the county courts snipping the lock from the ballot box of the sixth district of Sharpsburg, one of 80 districts' boxes to be broken and rechecked. The process is going on in Room 218, Courthouse.

VOTE RECOUNT NEAR END

The recounting board investigating alleged irregularities in the primary election probably will complete the count today of the first four ballot boxes they have opened.

Opening of the box from the First District, Sixth Ward, disclosed that the tally sheet in the box gave Judge Thomas C. Jones 12 votes and Max V. Schoonmaker five votes. The official return sheets recorded 524 votes for Harry R. Phillips, the other candidate for County Court judge, and no votes for either of the other two.

Three districts in Sharpsburg which the recounting board is investigating had not been completed late yesterday. Sixty-four ballot boxes have been brought in for recount by the board, most of them for city districts.

The board is composed of 15 members of the returning board under the direction of Ward Bonsall, Paul McKeever and John A. Witt, appointed by Common Pleas Court under the act of 1927 which provides for bringing in of suspected boxes by posting $50.

The ballot boxes of 16 additional districts, embracing the Fourteenth and Nineteenth wards, were ordered brought before the special recount board for a recount by Judge James R. MacFarlane in Common Pleas Court late yesterday. Petitions of electors were presented by Attorney Robert Averbach, representing Michael Muldowney, who defeated Councilman P. J. McArdle for the Republican nomination in the official returns.

The districts involved are: Fourteenth Ward, Third, Eighth, Tenth, Twenty-first and Twenty-second; Nineteenth Ward, Seventh, Eighth, Ninth, Eleventh, Seventeenth, Twenty-fifth, Twenty-eighth, Thirtieth, Thirty-third, Thirty-fourth and Thirty-fifth.

Thirty-six boxes have been ordered before the recount board on behalf of Muldowney and 40 have been ordered in on behalf of McArdle.

Sacred Concert At Trinity M. P.

A program of unusual interest will be given at Trinity Methodist Protestant Church, North Side, tomorrow. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. Clarence L. Daugherty, will speak at the morning service on "The Shearer Shame." At the evening service a sacred concert will be given by the Trinity choir, assisted by Mrs. Ruth Bower Gibson, violinist.

Mt. Lebanon Lays Cornerstone Today

County and township officials were to take part today in the cornerstone laying of the new municipal building at Washington road and Municipal way, Mt. Lebanon. The building, when completed, will represent a cost of $175,000, and will house the offices of the township commissioners, police and fire departments.

Couples Seeking License Aided By Radio

Couples awaiting their turn in the marriage license office need no longer bite their nails while waiting for the nerve-wracking call of "Next."

Music is now provided and goes far to relieve the tension always noticed in the office. The entertainment, coming from a radio in the tax lien department adjoining the marriage license office, is not intended for the applicants, but nevertheless is quite audible. The radio, owned by Paul Ryan, of the Tax Department, was installed to bring in accounts of the world series.

DRYS MUST PAY FOR SEIZED CAR

Judge R. M. Gibson in Federal Court signed an order directing the government to pay the C. I. T. Corporation $220.04 to satisfy a lien held by the corporation against an automobile confiscated and used by prohibition agents in enforcing the Volstead act.

The machine was seized from J. Ray Austin, convicted bootlegger, near Uniontown, May 9, by prohibition agents, while Austin was using it in transporting 60 pints of whisky. Under a forfeiture libel brought by the prohibition officials the automobile was condemned as forfeited to the government on May 27, when Mrs. Anna Saito, Library, alleged owner, failed to appear in court and show cause why it should not be condemned.

A few days later, on petition of the United States Treasury Department, it was turned over to the prohibition department to use in enforcement work. Subsequently the C. I. T. Corporation filed its lien, contending the money was owed by Mrs. Saito. The United States attorney consented to the order to satisfy the lien.

Communion Service At Trinity Cathedral

Holy Communion will be administered at the morning service tomorrow at Trinity Cathedral, Sixth avenue, by the dean, the Rev. Dr. Percy G. Kammerer. "The Use of the Sacrament in Personal Religion," will be the Communion meditation theme by Dean Kammerer. At 4 p. m., there will be a Bishop's service for the children of the diocese, and at 7:45 there will be evening prayer and sermon by Canon Gookin. The subject will be "Forgiveness."

Pastor Continues Series of Sermons

Continuing his series of sermons on "Modern Religion," the Rev. Dr. Robert MacGowan, pastor of the Bellefield Presbyterian Church, will occupy his pulpit tomorrow morning and preach on the subject "The Creative Influence of Jesus." At the evening service the Rev. Dr. MacGowan will discuss "A Good Sport."

'The Christian Way' Dr. Wishart's Topic

"The Christian Way—Easy or Hard?" will be the subject for discussion at the morning service tomorrow in the Eighth United Presbyterian Church. At the evening service the pastor, the Rev. Dr. W. L. Wishart, will speak on "Who Is Jesus?"

Films of Egyptian Work to Be Shown

The Rev. Dr. James M. Ferguson, pastor of the Bellevue United Presbyterian Church, will administer the Communion service tomorrow. At the evening service motion pictures of medical work in Egypt will be shown by Dr. Frank C. McClanahan.

MARTIN SPEAKS TO CHURCHMEN

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 5.—"There should be an educational process spread throughout the land that would make a man or woman ashamed if he or she did not vote," said Judge Richard W. Martin, of the Allegheny County Common Pleas Court, in addressing 300 laymen of the Pittsburgh Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The campaign was proposed as a means toward ending corrupt government in the large cities, which the judge declared to be one of the greatest menaces to the American people.

Officers of the laymen's organization were elected as follows: President, William B. Pratt; vice presidents, E. L. Kidney, of the Allegheny District; W. S. Riall, of the Blairsville District; W. T. Forrester, McKeesport District; Dr. D. W. Flint, Pittsburgh District, and C. N. Tone, of the Washington District; secretary, John W. Ingold; treasurer, W. G. Madore.

Members of the executive committee, elected for three years, are: Allegheny District, A. E. Umsted, of Pittsburgh; Blairsville District, S. W. Bierer, of Greensburg; McKeesport District, Mrs. Harry G. Samson, of Pittsburgh; Washington District, Clarence B. Nixon, of Washington, Pa.; Albert Horne, of Pittsburgh was elected to fill the unexpired term of William E. Conroy, of the Allegheny District, who died recently.

Much of the business session of the ministers' conference yesterday was taken up with consideration of the qualifications and fitness of candidates for the ministry, at the conclusion of which it was announced the following had been received:

Young men, on trial, Lyola C. Matthews, George A. Fallon, William E. Ziss, Charles A. Tracey, Ronald Mosely, Francis M. Kees, Harold F. Kellogg and Harold A. Wise.

Full membership was granted Oscar M. Polheums, Franz O. Christopher, Arthur C. Schultz and Howard W. Jamison, all graduates from the course of study, and Ralph E. Spangler.

Elected to the elders' order were Franz O. Christopher, Arthur C. Schultz, Clay J. Bland and Edward L. Boettticher.

George A. Fallon, Ronald Mosely and Ralph E. Spangler were elected to the deacons' order, and the entire group will be ordained tomorrow at the First Methodist Episcopal Church by Bishop Charles Edward Locke and the cabinet.

Life Adaptation To Be Discussed

The Rev. Dr. William J. Reid, pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church, will speak on "God's Hearthstones" at the 11 o'clock service tomorrow. At the evening service Dr. Reid will talk on "The Adaptation of Life."

Harris to Lead Campaign For Voting Machines

Voting machines not only will go a long way to eliminate election frauds but will prove an economical investment, Senator Frank J. Harris declared at a luncheon in the William Penn Hotel yesterday. The luncheon was held for the purpose of forming an organization to direct the fight for the machines. The question will be voted upon at the November election.

Senator Harris was elected chairman of the Citizens' Voting Machine Campaign Committee; Mrs. J. O. Miller, vice chairman; Councilman Daniel Winter, secretary; Mrs. Della B. Hershey, executive secretary, and Mrs. John W. Lawrence, treasurer.

Walter Rosenbaum presided at the gathering, which was attended by representatives of all factions and political parties. W. L. Mellon, former chairman of the Republican State Committee; Mayor Charles H. Kline and Judge Richard W. Martin were unable to attend. Senator Harris announced.

The speakers included Councilman James F. Malone, Alexander P. Lindsay, Senator William D. Mansfield, of McKeesport; P. J. McGrath, Commissioner C. C. McGovern, Councilmen John S. Herron and Robert Garland; D. Ardolini, G. W. Harvey, Joseph Reich, Harry Bastow and the officers.

All of those present pledged their aid in an aggressive campaign to secure the support of the voters in November.

RIVERS MARKED AS GUIDE FOR AVIATORS

By MAX HENRICI

When pilots of airplanes lose their way they often look for rivers to follow. River towns of Western Pennsylvania are now fairly well air-marked.

From Elizabeth, on the Monongahela, comes a letter with the information that a large sign for the guidance of aviators stands on the roof of the clubhouse of Alonzo L. Weigel, Post No. 553, American Legion. Postmaster John M. Thompson of Elizabeth writes:

LEGION AIDS WORK

"The Legion Post furnished the labor and painted the marker. The Town Council furnished the chrome traffic paint. The marker consists of the name ELIZABETH in eight-foot letters and an arrow pointing to Bettis Field.

"The Legion Post has one of the certificates of distinguished service to aviation from the Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics. This certificate has been framed and hangs in the Legion clubhouse."

From Beaver Falls, on the Beaver River, comes word that an air-mark 150 feet long has been painted on the roof of the Federal Title & Trust Company Building. L. G. McIntire, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of the Upper Beaver Valley, who furnishes the information, calls attention to the fact that that section is alert to the needs of aviation.

CHESWICK MARKED

James W. Armstrong, of Cheswick, on the Allegheny, reports that town is now air-marked. "The boys of the town have worked hard on the sign," he states, "and it is now completed."

The Sun-Telegraph wants to get every town in Western Pennsylvania air-marked, as a safety measure to help lost fliers to get back on their course and to show them where they may land without hazard.

The Pittsburgh Aviation Industries Corporation, Oliver Building, Pittsburgh, which is co-operating in the campaign, will furnish the Department of Commerce specifications as to air signs to those who apply for them.

MARK YOUR TOWN.

Dr. Versteeg Picks Freedom as Theme

The Rev. Dr. John M. Versteeg, pastor of the South Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, will have charge of both services tomorrow. The morning theme will be "With Freedom's Holy Light." At the evening service the theme will be "What Does God Mean?" This is one of the series, "The Modern Meaning of God."

Dr. Farmer Picks Homewood Topics

The Rev. Dr. William R. Farmer will preach at both services tomorrow in the Homewood Presbyterian Church. At the morning service his theme will be "What Is Sin?" and at 7:45 "If Thou Knewest." There will be an organ recital at 7:30 by Prof. A. R. Norton.

LIGHT PAGEANT GROUPS PLAN SPECTACLE

Design Garb for Actors Depicting Scenes in History of Pittsburgh

Designers and costumers have combined their talents to produce an eye-pleasing spectacle, to feature Light's Golden Jubilee pageant, October 24 and 25, at Forbes Field. Historical events in the rise of Pittsburgh from a pioneer city, the "Gateway to the West," to its present position of industrial and cultural prestige, will be portrayed by a large cast.

In the episode depicting the burning of Fort Duquesne, Montgomery's Highlanders and the Royal Americans will come to life again in the striking uniforms of the period. Against this will be the serviceable uniforms of the provincials, with semi-nude Cherokee Indians hovering about. French troops will be present in the garb worn during the French and Indian wars.

SHOW STYLES OF 1860

The period dealing with Andrew Carnegie's life will be featured by groups garbed in the styles of 1860. In the steel dance there has been created a striking garb for the dancers.

Dressed in shining costumes of steel, lights will reflect back the vari-hued colors of the ensemble. Another scene will be an allegorical figure watching workmen going and coming from a steel mill. Carnegie Tech students will enact this episode.

The Heinz Company will offer a colorful interlude when individuals depicting farmers from America, Italy, Spain, China, Morocco, Poland and Russia parade products of the soil.

Another striking scene will be the people of England, Poland, Russia and China, in peasant folk dances enacted by Shady Side academy students.

"BALLET OF SAFETY"

Students of the Pennsylvania College for Women will bring to the pageant the invention of the electric light. Women will be dressed in costumes representing the red glow of the lamp, with "Indians" taking part in a Fire and Light Prelude. Perry High School students will be the "Indians."

A "Ballet of Safety," in which Westinghouse High School students are to be the actors, will climax the pageant. The Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the project.

Minister Accepts Beaver Falls Call

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Oct. 5.—The Rev. John Hempstead, of Pittston, Pa., has accepted the call to the First Methodist Protestant Church and will assume his duties here October 20.

He succeeds the Rev. John W. Shell, who was transferred to Mt. Washington, Pittsburgh.

Lorenz Ave. Pastor Announces Themes

"The Girdle of Love" will be the morning theme of the Rev. E. A. Miles, pastor of the Lorenz Avenue Evangelical Church tomorrow. "Thunder or An Angel's Voice," will be the pastor's evening theme.

Salvation Army Fund Reaches $47,925

Approximately $47,925 was raised by the Salvation Army in the first three days of the annual home service appeal, it was announced by Adjutant W. B. Fowle. The drive opened Tuesday and will continue until October 12. It is hoped that the budget of $110,000 will be raised in the 12 days. Approximately 1,000 workers are in the field in behalf of the army, working under the direction of Attorney George E. Alter.

Saturday, October 12, the last day of the drive, is to be known as Red Shield Day and several hundred Army workers and prominent women here will be seen on the streets, selling the Salvation Army shield. The shield, a symbol of protection, was made famous as the insigna of the Salvation Army workers in France.

FIND ESCAPED CONVICT HERE

John Lawson, Negro, 23, said to have escaped from the Tennessee penitentiary at Nashville, where he was serving a term for murder, will be returned to that city from Pittsburgh. He was found here recently, just beginning a two-year sentence in the Allegheny County workhouse for shooting and wounding another Negro in the Hill district last August.

Lawson was convicted of murder in Shelby County, Tenn., in 1923. Being under 18 years of age he was sent to the Nashville reformatory under the Tennessee law, but when he reached 18 was transferred to the penitentiary. He escaped from the prison yard last year by concealing himself in a load of ashes, and came to Pittsburgh.

Here he shot and wounded L. Bond, Negro, of 10 Hubert way, on August 23. He pleaded guilty before Judge Harry H. Rowand September 26 and was sentenced to serve two to four years in the workhouse. S. L. Harper, of the Nashville prison, learned that Lawson had come to this city and located him in the workhouse.

Dr. Petty to Talk On 'Be Your Age'

The Rev. Dr. C. Wallace Petty, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Pittsburgh, will speak on the subject, "Misunderstood Because He Did Not Understand" at the morning service tomorrow. At the evening service the pastor will speak on the theme "Be Your Age." This sermon is designed especially for students.

Minister to Speak On "Our Problems"

The Rev. J. G. Rigby, pastor of the Calvary Methodist Episcopal Church, will have charge of both services tomorrow. At the morning service the theme will be "Our Problems." "An Evening With the Hymnal" will be the 7:45 p. m. sermon topic.

OPEN REVIVAL IN SHERADEN CHURCH

Prison Association Head Will Deliver Sermons Preparatory to Event

Prison Evangelist Thomas M. Carter, Jr., of Horseheads, N. Y., will speak under the auspices of the Sheraden Gospel Tabernacle of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, in the church building, Sherwood avenue and Bergman street, Sheraden, next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

Mrs. Mary B. Peacock is pastor of this church. Mr. Carter is an ex-convict and is the founder and president of the Prison Evangelistic Association. He is also a member of the American Prison Association of New York. His Association aims to give the gospel of Jesus Christ, either verbal or written, to every penal and semi-penal institution in the world. He will be in Sheraden three nights only, speaking each evening at 7:45 p. m.

Following Mr. Carter on Thursday night, October 10, Evangelist Hardy W. Mitchell of Los Angeles, Calif., will begin a revival campaign at the same church. The Rev. Mitchell needs no introduction to the people of Pittsburgh, having held various revival meetings in this city during the past seven years. The Evangelistic meetings under Rev. Mitchell's direction will be held each evening except Saturday at 7:45 and on Sunday at 11 o'clock. Each service will be featured by special musical selections.

Illustrated Sermon To Feature Service

Beginning tomorrow evening, St. Andrew's Lutheran Church will resume its evening services. The Rev. Dr. H. P. Eckhart's subject will be "Out of Egypt Have I Called My Son." This is the first of a series of illustrated sermons on Egypt and Palestine.

The subject of the morning service at 10:45 is "Putting Off the Old Man and Putting On the New Man." This service will be broadcast over WCAE.

Church to Observe The Lord's Supper

The Rev. Dr. Fred F. Shields, pastor of the Bellevue Baptist Church, will occupy his pulpit at both services tomorrow. At the morning service the Lord's Supper will be administered. The communion meditation theme will be "The Great Gift." At the evening service the theme will be "Changed and Kept." This is the first in a series on "Commanding Bible Characters."

PLAN PROGRAM OF EDUCATION

Because of the increasing importance of international relationships to national life and with a desire to do all it can to improve them, the Presbyterian Church of the United States, with more than 2,000,000 members, through its Board of Foreign Missions, is engaging in a year's program of education and information designed to bring the world and its needs to the attention of the American churches.

In preparation for this educational program, the Presbyterian Foreign Board has brought to the United States from the foreign field a number of outstanding educators and evangelists, and in addition is using every available worker who is in this country on a normal furlough. Representatives from every one of the 16 countries where the Presbyterian church has foreign work will participate. Pastors of home churches, with foreign fields, as well as board officers and members, will be available for addresses and conferences.

By direction of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, the Foreign Board will operate in what is known as the Eastern zone during October and November. This zone includes New England, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Baltimore and West Virginia synods. Missionaries have already spoken in many of the churches, but the church's program will be in full swing throughout the Eastern states beginning October 6.

WILL DEDICATE ORGAN CHIMES

Organ chimes, the gift of Mrs. Annie J. DeLong, 92, of 2540 Maple avenue, North Side, will be dedicated tomorrow morning at the Central Presbyterian Church, Sandusky avenue and Moody street.

The gift is in memory of Mrs. DeLong's mother, Mrs. Jane Sloan. The congregation also will celebrate the tenth anniversary of its present pastor, the Rev. Dr. Paul J. Sloanaker. Howard S. Finley, superintendent of the Sunday School, will accept the chimes in behalf of the church. The dedication organ program will be played by Miss Clara E. McCandless, of 608 Taylor avenue, church organist.

First M. P. Church To Hold Baptism

The Rev. J. Robert C. Clark, pastor of the First Methodist Protestant Church of Allegheny, will speak on "Where Is God?" at the morning service tomorrow. At 8 o'clock the pastor will speak on "Isaac." This is the second in the series "Mountain Top Men." There will be communion and baptism and reception of new members at both services. At the evening service there will be musical selections by Mrs. Annette Lion. There will also be illustrated hymns and motion pictures.

Will Devote Services To Young People

Tomorrow will be devoted to a consideration in service and sermon of young people and their problems in the First Unitarian Church, the Rev. Frank E. Smith, pastor. "The Spirit of Youth: Its Challenge" will be the subject. A special invitation has been extended to the young people and friends of the church and to the liberal students of the educational institutions of the city.

Craft Ave. Church To Show Films

The Rev. Waldo A. Amos, pastor of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, Forbes street and Craft avenue, will speak on "What Mean These Rites and Ceremonies?" at the morning service tomorrow. At the evening service there will be a hymn service and moving pictures. "The Sky Pilot," by Ralph Connors, will be shown.

Unity Center Will Hold Hotel Services

The Unity Center of Pittsburgh, which is conducted in the William Penn Hotel, will hold services tomorrow morning and evening. At the morning service, E. B. Anthony will speak on "The Lame Walk." At the evening service he will speak on "Practical Prayer."

Denials Will Be Subject of Pastor

At the Shadyside Presbyterian Church tomorrow morning the Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr, pastor, will speak on "The Man Who Would Not Be Denied." At the evening service the pastor will speak on "Supposing Him to Be the Gardener." Music will be under the direction of Earl Mitchell.

Victory Winning Subject of Sermon

The Rev. Dr. Walter Lowrie Ritter, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, will speak on "The Second Mile" at the morning service tomorrow. At the evening service the theme will be "How to Win Victories."

CHURCHES JOIN IN SERVICES

The Rev. Dr. Ralph W. McKenzie, pastor of the Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church, has returned from the Pittsburgh annual conference at Connellsville and will preach tomorrow morning on "The Man of the Ages."

Tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock the Asbury M. E. Church, the Sixth Presbyterian and the Third United Presbyterian churches will begin a series of community services which will continue during the winter.

During the month of October services will be held in the Asbury M. E. Church, Forbes and Murray. The combined quartets will be heard at each service and during the present month will be directed by H. Alan Floyd, director of music of the Asbury church.

Tomorrow evening the Rev. Dr. H. H. Forsyth, pastor of the Sixth Presbyterian Church, will speak on "The First Commandment and the Twentieth Century."

LUTHERAN FETE ARRANGED

The Lutheran Women's Missionary Conference of Western Pennsylvania will commemorate the four hundredth anniversary of the Lutheran catechism at its meeting in the St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Fortieth street and Howley avenue, on October 9. The Rev. Otto Ebert, pastor of the St. John's Church, will deliver the main address of the evening, and will be assisted in the service by the Rev. Herman Mees Meyer, of Carrick.

Delegations are expected from all the Lutheran churches in Western Pennsylvania. Plans for the event are being arranged by a committee composed of the officers of the missionary conference, Mrs. W. F. Fischer, preside"; Mrs. William Pappon, secretary, and Miss Flora Reiser, treasurer. This celebration is being held as a result of a resolution adopted at the spring conference of the Lutheran Women's Missionary Conference.

Holy Name Society Will Hold Retreat

Beginning October 10, a retreat for the members of the Holy Name Society will be given in the Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church. The retreat will consist of spiritual exercises for four days, morning and evening, closing Sunday evening, October 13, at 7:45 o'clock, when the papal benediction will be given. The Rev. E. Lawrence O'Connell will conduct the retreat, which will be open for all men of the parish.

Open Forum Will Feature Services

The Rev. John Ray Ewers, pastor of the East End Christian Church, will speak at both services tomorrow. At the morning service he will speak on "One of Five." This service will be broadcast by KDKA. At the evening service the theme will be "Money." An open forum will be held in connection with the sermon. This is the sixth season for the open forum at the East End Christian Church.

Church to Receive Members Sunday

Tomorrow morning at the 11 o'clock service in the Harris South Hills Theater, the Rev. Edward Bleakney, pastor of the Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church, will speak on "Ideals." At this service the ordinance of the Lord's Supper will be observed and new members received. At the evening service the subject will be "Thou Shalt Live on a Straight Street."

Calvary Church Will Dedicate Organ

The Rev. Dean Miller will preach at both service tomrorow in connection with the dedicatory services at the Calvary Presbyterian Church, Wilkinsburg. The new organ will be dedicated in the afternoon with a recital by Dr. Bell, of the First Presbyterian Church of Pittsburgh. Bertha Gross King is the organist and director of music at the church and has arranged an attractive musical program for the dedication exercises.

Sacred Heart Gets Conditional Gift

Tomorrow will mark the third anniversary of the occupancy of the Sacred Heart Church. At this time the congregation will receive a conditional gift of $10,000 from a benefactor of the church, provided the parish itself raises a like sum. Special envelopes have been provided the members of the congregation which they will use in making their contribution.

S. Hill's Pastor Will Speak in East End

The Rev. Dr. James E. Wagner, pastor of the Mt. Lebanon Methodist Episcopal Church, will preach the Sunday morning sermon at the Emory Methodist Episcopal Church, N. Highland avenue. The evening sermon will be by the Rev. Dr. W. Wofford T. Duncan, pastor, his subject being "The Young Man Immune."

Seminary Head Bellevue Speaker

The Rev. Dr. Gaius J. Slosser, professor of church history in the Western Theological Seminary, will be the speaker at both meetings tomorrow in the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. John Benjamin Magee, will preside at these meetings.

Wilkinsburg Church To Stage Canvass

"The Joy of Sharing" will be the morning theme of the Rev. O. H. Sisson, pastor of the Wilkinsburg Baptist Church, tomorrow. At the evening service the pastor will speak on "St Bridget of Ireland." During the afternoon an every-member canvass will be conducted.

COME TO CHURCH

The Church Is the Meeting Place of God and His People

SERMONETTE

"The Church's Task in This Generation"

By FRANK EDWIN SMITH, Minister, First Unitarian Church

Text: St. John 10:10—"I came that they may have life, and may have it abundantly"

Times change. Progress continues. Institutions become ineffective and die, or adapt themselves to the new concepts and needs of the group; thus they live and serve. The church, as an institution, must follow the general laws of mortal decay and human progress.

The primary emphasis of the church a generation or more ago was on the problem of death. The searching question then was, "Are you prepared to die?" Men's emotions were stirred by the exhortation, "Prepare to meet your God!" The primary emphasis, however, is changing, and is no longer so much a matter of death, but a matter of life. If life has any meaning, it must mean something right now, if not, it is lived in vain. To live now solely to meet certain demands at death does not meet the problems of life in this generation. If life is meaningless to many, it would seem that this condition in our midst creates a supreme problem, and, therefore, a supreme task. As we then view the task of the church in this generation, the chief emphasis is on life, not on death; on life's problems, not on death's problems.

The church is interested in life beyond death, but she knows very little about it. Her approach to the future life is through faith. However, she can neither condition the future life, nor change it. She can merely live toward it. Her approach is in becoming it through the Good Life here. The church has little control over the problems of the other side, which will face us when we face them, but she can have a large part in meeting the problems on this side of death; in other words, the problems of every day. The emphasis is on life, not on death.

Time has proved the wisdom of Jesus, who put the greatest emphasis on life, to be correct. The question he would ask men would not be, "Are you prepared to die?" but, "Are you prepared to live?" And this is the way that nature always solves the problem. Her test of an organism is not whether it is fit to die, but whether it is fit to live. Nature's evolutional processes eliminate those unfit to live. Death comes because the organism is not capable of living well and abundantly; nature places the emphasis on life. So did Jesus.

The question, "What is life?" demands definition. Life, however, like many other things, defies definition. We are able to say a great deal about life's behavior, but very little as to what life really is. Mr. C. Judson Herrick, in discussing Herbert Spencer's famous definition of life, said recently, "But when the verbiage is squeezed out it comes to this: 'Life is correspondence with environment.'" Life may be, and, perhaps, is much more than this, but as far as we know and are concerned with it as a vital problem here and now, it is correspondence with environment. But what does correspondence with environment mean? Mr. Herrick, in discussing this point further, says that the live animal takes everything it can get from its surroundings. "It keeps none of it indefinitely. Sooner or later everything it gets—food-stuffs, energy and its own pattern of behavior—it gives up again." It is different from the man-made machine, in that it repairs and nourishes itself, and does not wear out for a long time. It also creates machines of its own design before it is scrapped. Self-repair or self-preservation and reproduction are common to all living things. Each animal, or each bit of life lives in a "niche" or a given environment. It corresponds to it. If the environment changes it may die, unless it adapts itself through a period of time to the changes that continually take place. "This adaptation in structure and habit to meet the new situation is nothing more than evolution." It is also true that the life of the organism may change the environment to suit it, and thus survive, in which case we have an evolution of environment as well as an evolution of life. Perhaps death, in the sum total of things is nothing more than adaptation, a phase in the evolution of life in an approach to the life that is more abundant. This correspondence, this adaptation, this abundant life are all inclusive. Our emotions and reason; our likes; our joys and sorrows; our loved ones and friends; our philosophy and science; our morals and religion; our art and daily bread; our business and politics; are all a part of it.

REV. FRANK EDWIN SMITH

This is life then as we must face it now. It is just the largest task and most difficult problem with which we have to deal. It is in life and its well-being that the church is interested above everything else. Its chief concern is in the adaptation and behavior of all the things that will contribute to the creation of the Good Life. It becomes the church's task, therefore, to help life adjust and correspond to its environment in one way or another—I say help, because the church is one of the several agencies to bring such correspondence about. It must be clear from this that the church is interested in vastly more than adaptation and change and correspondence in the religious life alone. The church's task and interest are for adjustment and correspondence in all phases of life's behavior. Her interest must be manifested in politics, in education and economics, in capital and labor problems, in social relations, in fact, in all of life's problems, as well as in the matter of religion as it is generally understood. In other words, her task is to help solve the problems of adaptation and correspondence as they relate themselves generally to life. It may not always be the church's task to be the leader in all these social problems, but it is her task to play the role of one who helps, encourages, supports and furthers these life interests. This is the church's task—that we may be prepared to live. Preparedness to live the Good Life, and to see it steadily and to see it whole, fits one to meet whatever demands death may bring. In this connection the statement of Jesus is significant, when freed from its creedal interpretation and understood in its Galilean accent, "I come that they may have life, and may have it abundantly."

To this task and challenge the church invites the favorable consideration and earnest support of all.

Ann Marie Goes Home for Jeanie's Wedding and Her Auto Vanishes

CHAPTER XLIV.

ON THE morning of Jeanie's wedding Ann Marie had her first ride in her automobile.

She got up in the summer dawn, bathed and dressed and packed her little bag with the things she would need for the trip.

She had made a new dress to wear—a pure white muslin painted with corn-flowers and dandelions. It was a plain straight little thing, short and sleeveless, but it was beautiful in a simple girlish-looking way.

There was a pair of new white silk stockings tucked into one corner of the bag, too, and a wide white hat of some rough straw, so flexible that Ann Marie could roll it up and pack it away.

"I don't look like much now," she said gaily to Neal when they started away from Susquehanna Hall in the car, "but wait 'till you see me in the dress I'm going to wear to the wedding. I look like a bride, myself, in it!"

"I wish you were," Neal answered solemnly. "I wish you were mine . . . Then, maybe some of these consarned woman would let me alone for a while. They sure do run me ragged."

"You hate yourself, don't you?" Ann Marie burst into a laugh. But she knew that what he said was true enough . . . Girls did "run him ragged" . . . And they probably always would, so long as his gray eyes were clear and young, his body lean and hard and muscular, his hair black and thick.

"They fall in love with your looks, you handsome good-for-nix!" she told him cheerfully. "But I love—you!"

The wedding, like all weddings, was a very melancholy affair.

Jeanie had her white altar set against the rose-bushes in the side-yard, just where the slanting rays of the afternoon sun would strike it.

The wedding guests stood on the lawn in hushed silence and from within the house come the music of the wedding march. Alice was playing it as she never had played anything before.

"Here comes the bride" — and down the steps of the rickety old side-porch, hidden with vines at this time of the year, came Jeanie in her white satin dress and her tulle veil that floated behind her like a cloud.

She was on Mr. Macy's arm, and Ann Marie noticed with a thrill of pride how fine he looked today with his Sunday suit pressed until it looked like new, and a white carnation in his button-hole.

Mrs. Leezy had on a white dress, and so did Stella, standing with her arm linked through Howdy's and smiling up at him as if she were remembering their own wedding day—and probably she was.

"Our family looks just as well as the Walters do," Ann Marie went on thinking, "and it's a beautiful wedding, after all."

It was a beautiful wedding.

There was a tiny vase of white roses on all of the small white-covered tables in the house. The sandwiches were tied with white satin-ribbon. And on the dining room table was a three-tiered wedding cake, covered with white and silver icing.

But, somehow or other, no one seemed to be very gay . . . Not even after Brooke's champagne had been passed in wide-mouthed glasses and everyone had drunk to the health of the bride.

At 5 o'clock Jeanie went upstairs to dress and stopped a moment on the landing to throw her bouquet into the crowd of guests at the bottom of the stairs.

She turned with it pressed against her breast and called to Neal.

"I told you I was going to be the next bride!" she cried, and there was exultation in her shrill voice.

That night, when she was getting ready for bed, Ann Marie suddenly remembered that she had left her coin-purse in one pocket of her car.

She put on a kimono over her night-gown and opened the door of her room. The house was dark and quiet . . . Everyone had gone to bed.

The little car was parked in the driveway, a solid mass of shadow against the moonlit sideyard.

Ann Marie could see it through the open windows of the dining room as she started towards the side porch on slippered feet that made no sound.

She was just putting out her hand to unlock the door that led to the side porch when the sound of voices, coming from the yard, startled her . . . Two people were out there in the cool sweet darkness, talking to each other just above a whisper!

Noiselessly she crossed over to one of the windows and knelt down beside it . . . They were in the car—Alice and Neal! She could just make out the glimmer of Alice's white dress and the glowing tip of Neal's cigaret.

"I shouldn't have come back," she heard him say in a whisper.

An hour before he had kissed her goodnight and started down Pleasant street on foot. She had stood on the front steps and watched his tall figure vanish into the darkness.

And now here he was back again—not because of her, but to see Alice! And what could he be wanting to see Alice for at this time of the night? . . . And why should Alice be sneaking out of the house to see him at this hour? What was it all about, anyway?

"I know—but I just had to see you," Alice's whisper was hardly more than a sighing breath in the stillness.

Then there was a long silence—Ann Marie knew that Alice was in Neal's arm and that they were kissing each other.

A minute went by . . . And then she got up from he knees. For an instant she thought that she would just walk out to them and tell them she had come for her coin-purse and hated to disturb them.

"But I think you two might choose some place other than my car for your love-making!" she would say—

Oh, but what good would it do if she did say it? None. None at all.

"It would just make me look like a fool," she thought miserably, and she turned away from the window and went back up the stairs to bed.

She lay there, dry-eyed, wondering why she didn't cry . . . Wondering how long Alice would stay out there in the darkness of the little car with Neal . . . Wondering if a man really could love one woman, as Neal said he loved her, and still want to have little sneaking affairs with other women.

And so she fell asleep.

It was nine o'clock when she opened her eyes on Sunday morning.

Mrs. Leezy had come into her room and was setting the old painted tin breakfast tray down upon the chair by the side of the bed. It was covered with a fringed white napkin and there was a glass of orange juice on it and a little white pot filled with Mrs. Leezy's perfect coffee.

"Ann Marie," she said, "where did you put that car last night afore you went to bed? Out in the driveway by the side-porch, didn't you?"

Ann Marie nodded her tousled gold-brown head and began to blink the sleep out of her eyes.

'Neal put it there for me before he went home," she answered—and it was not until then that she remembered when she had last looked at the little car the night before.

"Why?" she asked. "What's wrong?"

"Well, I don't know—only that there car ain't there," said Mrs. Leezy. "I was up at six o'clock and 'twas gone then."

Like a flash Ann Marie was out of bed.

She had her kimono and slippers on in a second, and was running down the stairs.

Mr. Macy was sitting at the dining-room table, looking over the Sunday paper, when she came flying into the room and across it to the side porch.

Outside the yard was fresh from the night's dew and green with the soft young tender green or early June. The roses were clustered on the bushes against the fence, thick as stars.

The whole place was just as serene and familiar as it had been under the moon at midnight—but there was no little car standing beside the steps!

"What's the use of standing there, goggling at the yard? I told you the car wasn't there, didn't I?" Mrs. Leezy's voice asked sharply. "It ain't nowhere around this house, I told you!"

Ann Marie nodded. "Maybe Neal decided to drive back to New York this morning," she said. "It would have been just like him to. He's always doing things on the spur of the moment—"

"I'll say he is!" agreed Mrs. Leezy with spirit. "I've been watching that young feller for the last month—and he's just about as wild as they make them, if you ask me! He'd be here every hour of the day for a week or so 'til we thought we'd go crazy. Then he'd tell Alice he wasn't never coming here again—and next day he'd be back again, under our feet the hull time. Seems like he don't know which one of you girls to take—you or Alice. Both of you act like fools over him!"

Without a word in reply Ann Marie went upstairs.

Half Hose

A half-way proposition are the new half hose to be worn over lisle or silk stockings this winter. These woolen hose generally match an accompanying sweater of fine wool. Other details of this smart outfit are the scarf, cut in a smart and novel manner, and a flip little beret lined with silk.

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

—By ADELE GARRISON—

Mary Decides to Continue Engagement to Protect Noel

AS I finished outlining to Mary the reasons why her betrothal to Prince Georges and that of Princess Olina to Noel must stand until either the royal visitors themselves tired of the romances, or until Noel Veritzen achieved financial independence of his father, Mary twisted her fingers together, while her eyes showed the battle which was waging behind them.

But as I had foreseen—indeed I had counted upon it—there could be but one outcome to that conflict. The girl loved Noel wholeheartedly. She could do nothing which would injure his future, even when protecting him meant going on with her engagement to Prince Georges, into which she had entered in a fit of pique upon learning of the betrothal into which Princess Olina had inveigled Noel.

But it was a long two minutes before she finally unclasped her fingers, and stretching out her hand, laid it in mine.

"All right, Auntie Madge," she said with a wry little smile. "I'll take my medicine, although I'll tell the world it's an awful dose. What do you want me to do first?"

"Get up and dress yourself in that pretty sports rig which is so becoming to you," I answered promptly. "I'll run down and tell Aunt Katherine you're coming over to visit her patient, and then I'll come back to help you. You're sure you're able to get up?"

"Absolutely," she returned, and I hurried out of the room and down the hall to Dicky's room where Prince Georges was fretting for news of the lovely girl to whom he had betrothed himself.

"I'll have her here in less than 15 minutes," I told Katherine, when I had summoned her outside. "But she is very reluctant to come, and dreads seeing Georges. Will you make it easy for her to get away?"

"Trust me," Katherine retorted. "When I tell the young gentleman she is going to call upon him, which I shall do immediately, I shall also stipulate that she is to stay less than five minutes. Will that do?"

"Perfectly," I told her. "If you'll also make it rather difficult for him to see her often until he is recovered sufficiently to come downstairs, you'll help a lot."

"I'll do that little thing," she agreed, then she looked at me shrewdly.

"I haven't had time to get all the inside dope of this yet," she said, "but I judge from the general aspect of things that you have the sensations of a lady sitting near the crater of a volcano near eruption."

"Your perceptions are very keen," I retorted, and then sped back to Mary's room and helped her to dress and to arrange her beautiful hair so as best to hide the small bandage which Katherine had insisted upon her wearing over the cut upon her head. When we were finished I caught my breath at the loveliness of her wild rose face. No wonder that both Noel and Prince Georges had lost their heads over her.

Her hand was cold as I drew it through my arm at the end of the 15 minutes I had named to Katherine. But her head was held dauntlessly high, and her eyes and lips were determinedly smiling. I knew that she would go through with the interview with the same spirit that she would have faced an enemy barrage were she a soldier.

But I think the sight of Prince Georges' face turned so eagerly toward her from his pillows softened the irrational rancor she had felt upon being forced by my insistence to come to see him. The smile she gave him was so winsome, her eyes so filled with sympathy that I did not wonder at the light which leaped into the young prince's eyes to greet them.

He held out both hands to her, and she came over to the bedside and put hers into them as simply as a child might have done.

"My dearest!" he murmured, and then he looked at me beseechingly. I knew that he longed to kiss her, but that with his charming old world punctiliousness, he would not permit himself the caress unless I sanctioned it. But with the memory of Mary's protesting face upon me, I shook my head smilingly at him, and he lifted her hands and kissed them lingeringly before releasing them.

"I was so afraid something terrible had happened to you," he said. "I have been most rude to these dear ladies, actually doubting their assurance that you were all right. But your head—" looking at the bandage—"Are you sure you're all right?"

But Mary did not answer. The door was open, and from the hall below floated up a voice, beautifully modulated, but imperative.

"Where is Georges?" it asked. "I must see him at once."

Household Hints

Add a little sugar to the water in which potatoes are boiled, and their flavor will be improved.

Have you tried making mint sauce with lemon juice? You'll be surprised to find what an improvement it is.

A fork should never be stuck into a steak or chop that is being fried or grilled. This lets the juice out.

Borax provides an excellent means of softening water, and when washing fabrics, such as silk and wool, may be employed without danger to the material.

When baking a large cake in a gas oven the bottom of the cake is apt to get hard and black. This can be avoided by lining the tin with brown paper as well as the usual greaseproof paper, and standing it on an asbestos mat.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A POPULAR STYLE FOR A SUIT OR ENSEMBLE. JACKET FOR YOUTHFUL FIGURES.

Black velvet was selected for this pleasing model. Tweed, broadcloth and faille are also suggested. The fronts form narrow panels above inserted pocket sections. The closing is at the center, with fronts slightly lapped, and meeting a coat collar in notches, above the lapel portions. The sleeve is the regulation coat style.

This pattern is cut in three sizes: 16, 18 and 20 years. To make the jacket for an 18-year size will require 3 yards of 39-inch material. For facing on fronts and collar, of contrasting material, ½ yard 39 inches wide is required, cut crosswise. Two and seven-eighths yards 32 inches wide will be required for lining, for an 18-year size.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN.

Appreciative Visitor

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. I have just returned from a visit to a small town where I was wonderfully entertained. Is it proper for me to drop each hostess a few lines thanking them, and what shall I say?

2. Also one of the ladies became the proud mother of a son. Shall I send the baby a gift, or shall I write to the mother, as she was very nice to me. She was unable to entertain for me, but sent me a lovely gift. B. B.

YES, write a note of thanks to each of your kind hostesses. Tell her how much you appreciate her kindness and thoughtfulness to you, how deeply and heartily you thank her, and what her hospitality meant to you. Then, after this general thank you, tell her specifically of your appreciation for certain definite things that she planned for your happiness—a dance perhaps, a dinner, a luncheon, a tea, a bridge. Assure her of what a charming hostess she is, of how glad you were to meet her delightful friends, and so forth. In other words, try to make your letter definite as to her hospitality, and not vaguely thank her.

2. It would be generous-thoughted of you to send the baby a present, with a note of good wishes and thanks to the mother.

Wedding Details

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am to be married in the pastor's home. The ceremony is to be very informal and simple. Shall I wear a hat or remove it before the ceremony?

2. Does the bridegroom wear a wing collar and a black bow tie? I don't think he should at an informal wedding.

3. My mother is a widow. How should her name be written on the wedding announcements?

4. Would it be proper to send announcements to the directors of the school in which I have been teaching for a number of years?

5. How should the husband register at a hotel when accompanied by his wife? S. D.

FOR this informal kind of wedding, it would be more appropriate if you wear your hat, maintaining the ensemble.

2. If he is to wear a dark blue business suit, he wears the kind of collar and tie that he is accustomed to wear with such a suit. Usually the four in hand tie, with a dark background and either white stripes or a small, inconspicuous figure, is the most becoming and certainly the most appropriate.

3. Mrs. Henry Graham Bell. In other words, she uses the formal name that she used when your father was living.

4. Yes, if you wish.

5. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burke, Chicago.

Pupil and Instructor

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. I have studied art for two years. My instructor has gone abroad, this summer, and sent me a card saying "Kind regards." Would you kindly advise me as to what I should do? Should I send him a card when he returns, telling him that I received his card, and thank him for his kind remembrance, or wait until I return to school in the fall and then thank him? Kindly word a letter for me, if you think I should write a letter.

2. What do you think of my handwriting and paper? M. C. F.

1—It would be quite all right for you to wait until he returns to school in the fall, and then thank him for his kind thought of you.

2. Both are excellent—your handwriting is unusually good looking and charmingly legible. The paper is a good background for your letter, and your letter-form is perfect.

Ritzy Rosalie

Rosalie is going for a short trip via airplane with Penelope, and is just on her way to Penelope's house to call for her. Since air travel is almost on the same basis as train travel nowadays, aviation togs are not often worn in commercial planes. Rosalie is wearing a sports ensemble consisting of a short fur coat lined to match the cloth dress beneath it. Besides being worn for sports these short fur coats are seen in formal furs for afternoon wear and for wear over evening gowns.

Meditations of a Wife

—By HELEN ROWLAND—

Little Grains of Truth.

THE two longest intervals in a woman's life are when she is waiting for her first offer of marriage, and when she is waiting for her first decree of divorce. The rest comes easy.

HELEN ROWLAND

The old flame may smoulder along in a woman's heart; but there is never enough of the old spark left in a man's, to make it flare up again.

What a man never seems to think of, beforehand, is that a girl who "looks like a million dollars" is going to keep right on looking that way, after she has him signed up to foot the bills.

Lots of girls don't go to Father for advice, because they've seen Father acting as the Village Cut-up or the Life of the Party at the country club, and they can't take him seriously.

* * *

A husband who "bucks" may in time be broken to harness and tamed to domesticity; but WHAT can a woman do with a man who just buckles and lops down, after marriage?

* * *

If men continue to be "fed up" on kisses as they have been in the last few years, a girl will soon have to furnish all the petting as well as her own cigarets.

Heaven, for most of us, will be a place where nobody does "stunts," makes a wisecrack, plays a saxophone or tells an after-dinner story.

"Rising with alacrity" to offer a woman a seat in a street car, these days, means not waiting more than five minutes to see if some other man won't beat you to it.

A nagger is usually just an all-day-talkie" that doesn't synchronize.

How to Keep Well

—By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND—

Being 'On Edge' Is Warning of Trouble

EUGENE FIELD once wrote the following:

Where bells don't ring, nor whistles blow,
Nor clocks don't strike, nor gongs don't sound,
And I'd have stillness all around."

What one of us has not felt like this at some time or other?

DR. COPELAND

As a rule the sense of fatigue and boredom is the result of environment. Often it comes as a warning that you have not been treating your body as fairly as you should. You may be all "nerves and jumpy" and so on edge that neither your friends nor family can stand having you around. When this happens it it time to stop and take an inventory of your health stock.

Many business men appear always to be on the verge of a nervous breakdown. They have endless demands on their time. Whether in the office or at home or abroad, constant demands are made upon them.

The telephone can give warning that something is wrong. When you hate the sound of the telephone bell and can't bear to have one more discussion with a client or customer, it is time to take a rest. Put on your hat and go out for the afternoon. See different faces, do some frivolous thing!

A day, or a week, or a month, or as much time as you can spare, spent in the quiet of the country or in the woods will act as a tonic. The first day or two you may be somewhat bored. The stillness seems oppressive. The tree toads and bullfrogs will sound as annoying as did the telephone, whistles and motor horns of the city. But in a day or two, as you begin to relax, these new sounds are all soothing to your overwrought nerves.

Simple food, simply served, is bound to have its appeal. Fresh milk in quantities, new laid eggs and garden fruits and vegetables supply the rest of the cure. You will sleep long, untroubled hours and waken thoroughly refreshed in the morning.

Don't wait until the breakdown comes. Heed the warning of the telephone, the whistle or the gong, and go where "there is stillness all around."

Answers to Health Queries

H. O. S. Q.—What is the average cost of an operation for the correction of bowlegs?

A.—Since doctor's fees vary it would be impossible to give you definite information along these lines. Make inquiry at some of the hospitals.

K. B. Q.—What causes a crusty substance to appear on my eyelids every morning? Is there anything that will cure or help this condition? This started about a year ago.

A.—You are probably troubled with blepharitis marginalis or granulated eyelids. It would be advisable to consult an eye specialist for an examination. In the meantime use an eye wash of warm boracic acid.

HELEN. Q.—What will benefit high blood pressure? 2. Is the heart beating too slow or too fast when a person faints? Are yeast cakes fattening?

A.—Proper diet and general care. 2. The heart is sometimes slowed somewhat, but there may be rapid and very faint action. 3. Yeast cakes are not in themselves fattening, but the improvement of the health in general may lead to a proper increase of weight.

A. B. D. Q.—What is the cause of a condition called tic-douloureux? Is there a cure?

A.—May be due to decayed or abscessed tooth, possible sinus infection or neuralgia. The treatment depends upon the cause. Have an examination. In the meantime application of heat should give increased comfort.

M. E. W. Q.—What can be done for feet which have a very unpleasant odor in spite of the fact that they are bathed frequently?

A.—Probably due to perspiration. Bathe the feet in warm water to which a little powdered alum has been added and change the shoes and stockings frequently.

B. E. F. Q.—Will Epsom salts baths help to reduce the weight? Are they injurious in any way?

2.—How often should the preparation of lemon juice and peroxide be applied to bleach freckles?

A.—No, if taken to any extent they are apt to prove weakening. A restricted diet and proper exercise will reduce a superfluous weight.

2.—About every night until the desired result is obtained. If the preparation is drying to the skin, use a good cold cream after the treatment.

X. Y. Z. Q.—What causes a coated tongue?

2.—How much sleep should a girl of 16 years have every night?

3.—What do you advise to keep the hair from falling out?

A.—Constipation and indigestion is usually to blame. Try to correct the diet by proper eating.

2.—You should have about nine or 10 hours sleep every night.

3.—I would suggest a good stimulating ointment.

THANK YOU. Q.—What can be done for unpleasant breath where the patient has a catarrhal condition of the stomach?

A.—Correct the diet and keep the system clear and the symptom will disappear.

Horoscopes

Sunday, October 6.

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds encouragement for ecclesiastic pursuits and clerics, and, as well, fosters all that pertains to labor, industry and plodding perseverance. Letters, writings and contracts are under fortunate ruling.

Those whose birthday it is are under an encouraging sway for a year of steady progress and eminent return for application and diligence. Writings and contracts should bring profit, and should bring publicity and promotion of every character.

A child born on this day may rise to established position by its own enterprise, fine balance and steady application and dependability. It may excel in literary pursuits of a rather serious nature.

Monday October 7.

MONDAY'S astrological configurations presage a day of sudden upheaval and unforeseen activities, which may be of radical influence on the course of events. Abruptly presented openings, with change of employment, new interests and environment are seen, but with these there is a menace of sinister and secret attack. Be more than careful lest this duplicity or fraud undermine the advantages.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of very important change, with unusual activity suddenly precipitated. While the prospects are excellent, there is an omen of a furtive and sinister undermining of the best promises. There is need of extreme caution against this subtlety and menace.

A child born on this day may be endowed with many traits of genius, which may land it in high position.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

2 Pittsburgh Matrons at Wedding

AT NO time in the week is the pulse of the social world so faint as on Monday, and by Saturday, what with the excitement of hunt meetings, football games, dances, and best of all these fall days, weddings, it is at its highest peak.

Saturday has long been a popular day with brides because the young men of the social world may then attend weddings without leaving the stock markets unwatched.

Here at home the most important wedding today will be that of Margaret Heath Ramsburg, daughter of the Charles J. Ramsburgs, of Edgeworth, and Henry Gibson Carey Williams, son of T. Walley Williams. The event will take place tonight at 7 o'clock in the Ramsburg home.

AND two of our prominent young matrons, Mrs. John Jackson Bissell and Mrs. Graham McCargo, are in Hartford, Conn., today as members of the bridal party for the marriage this afternoon at 4 o'clock in St. John's Protestant Episcopal Church of Elizabeth Judd, daughter of the Edwin Young Judds, of Hartford, Conn., and Lester Peach Scheide, son of the William Cornell Scheides, also of Hartford.

The bride, who is being given in marriage by her uncle, Henry C. Bryant, is wearing a simple gown of old ivory satin with a veil of tulle and rose point lace, and is carrying calla lilies.

Mrs. Bissell and Mrs. McCargo, who are bridesmaids, are wearing chartreuse green satin period gowns with hats of velvet and felt in the same shade, and are carrying arm bouquets of fall flowers. Similar gowns are worn by the other bridesmaids, Anita Dewing, Helen Post, Meta Bunce, Mrs. Philip W. Scheide, Mrs. Winch W. Simpson and Mrs. J. Whitney Peterson, of Hartford and New York; Mrs. Charles Edward Grafmueller, of Scarsdale, and Mrs. Roger Gratwick, of Buffalo, N. Y.

Several weeks ago I mentioned, I believe, that Edward C. Scheide would be his brother's best man. The ushers will include Philip W. Scheide, another brother; John Harrison Whitfield, John H. Coyle, Ross Harden, Harvey L. Stockder, William L. Smith, Pierrepont D. Schreiber, of Short Hills, N. J.; Frederick S. Gates, of New York, and Merrill Lincoln, Henry E. Sage, John D. Britoon and A. F. P. Ward, of Hartford.

AND now the entire cast for the Sewickley Valley Hospital Cot Club's annual benefit play, to be produced October 22 in the Guildhall, Sewickley, has been named. And the players include Mrs. Frederick B. Hufnagel, Jane Joy Edson, Harriet Ramsburg, Ann Colby, Margaret McCready, Mrs. John B. Dumont, William Bradford, Joseph Porter, Morrison Fitch, J. B. Cullum, Jr., Robert McKnight, Philip P. Lantz, James Todd, Jr., and James A. Graham, Jr.

And I almost forgot to add that the play is to be Courtney Savage's "They All Want Something."

HAVE you heard that Peggy Milligan, debutante daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Milligan, is home again from Fisher's Island? She was the guest there of Col. and Mrs. A. J. Pendelton and their debutante daughter, Helen, at their summer home.

THE marriage of Lois Thompson, daughter of William D. Thompson, of Brighton road, North Side, and Dr. Joseph Murl Johnston, son of the Joseph E. Johnstons, of Dunmoyle street, was solemnized yesterday at 4:30 o'clock, in the Thompson home. The Rev. Dr. J. Alvin Orr, pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church of Allegheny, assisted by the Rev. Robert W. Gibson, pastor of the Beverly Hills United Presbyterian Church, performed the ceremony in the living room before a background of ferns and crotons. At each side were tall candelabre with orchid tapers. Autumn flowers banked the mantelpiece. Lois wore a gown of wood violet velvet, cut with the skirt draped longer at the sides, and having an orchid lined bowknot falling from the neck line at the back to the hem of the skirt. Her matching hat of velvet was trimmed at each side with ostrich feathers. Joan Hill roses formed her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Paul H. Dickey, of Baltimore, as her sister's matron of honor, wore a frock of orchid chiffon, with a note of violet in the double cape effect. Her felt hat matched her frock and she carried dahlias in orchid and violet shades. James P. Fitzwater, of Evanston, Ill., was Dr. Johnston's best man, and his cousin, Miss Annie Kurtz, played the wedding music. Following a motor trip to Montreal and through New England, Dr. and Mrs. Johnston will make their home in Roselawn street, Central square, Mt. Lebanon, where they will be at home after December 1. Lois is a graduate of Winchester School, and Pennsylvania College for Women, and Dr. Johnston, of Muskingum College, the University of Pittsburgh, and the Hahneman Medical College, of Philadelphia.

MR. AND MRS. EARLE A. HOSELTON, of Orlando, Fla., formerly of Pittsburgh, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Gladys G. Rodgers, to Earle P. Johnson, son of Mrs. Lee B. Johnson, of Homestead Park, Pa., on Monday, September 30.

The bride was attended by Miss Lorna Jane Burt, of Pittsburgh, with Kemball Riddle, of Tarentum, Pa., as best man. The wedding breakfast was served in the William Penn Hotel. After an extended motor trip through the South, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will reside in Pittsburgh.

MR. AND MRS. CLIFFORD R. VOSKAMP announce the marriage of their sister, Miss Alberta Congdon Speer, to Wray Grayson Zelt, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Wray Grayson Zelt, of Washington, Pa., on Saturday, September 28.

THE first meeting of the Kappa Kappa Gamma Alumnae Association is the annual founders' day luncheon to be held October 12 at 12:30 o'clock at the new fraternity house. Mrs. Samuel Watters is chairman, aided by Mrs. Hugh Murray, Mrs. C. F. Purdy, Mrs. Mortimer B. Camerson and Miss Coramabel Short.

The Kappa Kappa Gamma Association announces as its officers for the coming year: President, Miss Agnes T. Hewitt; vice president, Miss Virginia Niemann; secretary, Mrs. Harold F. Latham; treasurer, Mrs. George Graham.

MR. AND MRS. FRANK L. STEIN, of Brownsville road, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Lillian Stein, to Cleveland L. Cook, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Lawrence Ccok, of Club Drive, Brentwood. The wedding will take place Friday, October 18.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. J. H. DANIELS, of Hazelwood, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Sarah Katherine Daniels, to Vincent M. Stahl, of Graceton, Ky., which took place on September 11, in the Emory Methodist Episcopal Church, with the Rev. W. W. T. Duncan officiating.

* * *

MRS. FLORENCE CHISHOLM DOUGLASS returned Wednesday from New York, after having spent the month of September as the guest of her sister, Mrs. Catherine Chisholm Cushing.

ON Monday evening, October 7, Sterling Court No. 50, will hold a card party at Boyd Hall. Mrs. Grace E. Hinely, Mrs. Clara Moore and Mrs. Clara Taylor will be in charge.

ESPECIALLY lovely decorations of fall flowers marked the governors' tea given this afternoon by the Woman's City Club. Mrs. Henry Clay McEldowney, the president, received with the new members of the board. As the affair was formal, no program was given out but there was orchestral music during the receiving hours, from 3 until 5 o'clock.

MEMBERS of the bridge group of the University of Pittsburgh Women's Association will meet for luncheon and bridge at the Faculty Club, Monday at 1 o'clock. Mrs. Ralph Boots, chairman, announces as hostesses for the afternoon Mrs. F. W. Shockley, Mrs. George Carver, Mrs. W. S. Maulsby and Mrs. Gerald Yoakam. This will be the first in a series of bridge luncheons to be held the first Monday of each month.

INVITATIONS have been sent out for the reception and luncheon of the Mt. Lebanon Woman's Club in honor of the president, Mrs. C. C. Kochenderfer, on Monday, October 14, in the United Presbyterian Church.

Minister to Give Overbrook Sermon

The Rev. Dr. Alexander Mitchell, of Philadelphia, will be the speaker tomorrow morning at the Overbrook Presbyterian Church. His sermon theme will be "Working Together With God."

Churchman Scores Prohibition and Blue Laws

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—(AP).—Addressing the annual meeting of the Concord Society, the Rev. Dr. Victor W. Richter, of Chicago, criticized the government and the churches for what he termed the "invasion of men's inalienable rights." Prohibition, Sunday blue laws and the church in politics were scored sharply by the speaker.

"Prohibition infringes on inalienable right," Dr. Richter said. "The Jones law is not obeyed. Anarchy is resulting. Dry agents kill defenseless men and the government shields them.

"The church has a commission to carry out. Its place is not in politics, but in teaching children of the Higher Being from whom we derive our inalienable rights."

Mrs. Schott Feted at Crafton

ITS first year as a departmental organization was begun yesterday by the Woman's Club of Crafton with a reception for the president, Mrs. Val E. Schott, Jr. The affair was held in Wood Hall, Mrs. Schott and the other officers receiving the guests, among whom were representatives from many other organizations. Mrs. R. W. Johnston, president of the Congress of Clubs, offered the opening prayer which was followed by the salute to the flag.

In her annual message Mrs. Schott mentioned the three-fold purpose of the departments and introduced Mrs. Ira M. Smith, program chairman. There was an unusually fine program of trio music by Ruth Bowers Gibson, violin; Grace Blenko Martin, piano, and Alyce Martin, cello, one of the best of the many little musical groups formed within the last yeax or so. The same artists furnished the musical background for the pageant written by the drama department chairman, Mrs. J. R. Barclay, in which were depicted the founding of the club, its war work, the establishment of the kindergarten, scholarship work and last, the formation of the departments. Mrs. W. S. Fulton, the oldest member of the club and its second president, was introduced by Mrs. Schott and was presented with a basket of flowers. Tea followed the program.

OCTOBER 23 will see the curtain roll up on another year for the Wednesday Current Events Class. It will be president's day in charge of the social committee and with Mrs. J. H. Harrison as honor guest.

Miss Sara Soffel, who has lectured before the club for many years, will again discuss current events at several meetings, and other speakers will include Randall Jones, who will give a travel talk; Dr. A. P. James, who will discuss current events; Mrs. Edith R. Maize, whose book reviews are always popular; Dr. Roswell Johnson, Miss Martha B. Steckel and Miss Betty Lee. A Christmas party, the mid-year tea, and the spring luncheon are listed as the season's social events.

MRS. ELIZABETH B. MOTZ, of the Allegheny County League of Women Voters, will address a group of women from the Seventeenth Ward at a meeting to be held in Pransen Hall Monday evening. Mrs. Motz will speak on "The Policies and Accomplishments of the League of Women Voters." The Twenty-sixth Ward League will hold its monthly meeting on Tuesday afternoon in the American Legion rooms, Perrysville avenue, with the membership committee in charge of the program. Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, chairman of the County League, and Mrs. Ferdinand Fillion will speak. On Wednesday evening Mrs. Motz will address the American Mothers' Club of the Woods Run Settlement, speaking on the fundamentals of voting and the necessity of having the voting machine in Allegheny County.

HATS DESIGNED TO SHOW BROW TO BE NEW VOGUE THIS SEASON

Sketched in Paris

a Reboux beret of black velvet that may be manipulated into a multitude of soft becoming folds, according to individual requirements. With it is worn a coat by Paquin in beige wool, with black velvet loops and knots at the back of the neckline.

New Hats Quite Low at the Back

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Oct. 4.—Highbrow we are indeed this season, and those beautiful foreheads that concealed themselves in answer to the dictates of fashion, may now offer themselves serenely for public observation and approval. We wonder, incidentally, whether it was the law of compensation that prompted la mode to reveal the brow, while she urged concealment of the knees, and balanced the deep "V" decolletage with long trailing skirts. Perhaps, by the same token, many off-the-face hats are quite low at the back, in many cases reaching the nape of the neck. Anyway, there is much cause for speculation and analysis in the very new aspects of the mode.

WE find just now a tremendous vogue for soft velvet tams, toques and small hats that can be worn alike with sports costumes and more formal frocks. Such hats are flattering and not too elaborate and so they accentuate pleasantly almost any type of daytime costume. We show today

ANOTHER interpretation of the vogue for black velvet hats is the illustrated model from Marguerite Paray. The supple brim is rolled up sharply in front and held by a jeweled arrow. The close crown has transverse cordings of velvet and a thick tassel or two is placed at one side. This is another example of the hat that looks equally at home at luncheon or at a sporting event.

MOTOR COACHES OPEN SCENIC ROUTES

Historic Places on Way To Seaboard Reached By Blue Ridge Lines

Between Pittsburgh and the seaboard lies some of the most historic and beautiful country in the nation—a region which is associated with names that mark the course of history from far away colonial times to the present.

There was a day and not so long ago when many of these points were practically inaccessible, but the advent of the motor coach has changed this condition and opened a new world to the person who would see what may well be termed the historyland of America.

WHITE STAR LINE

The Blue Ridge Transportation Company and the White Star Lines, Inc., of the West Penn Motor Coach Lines offer to Pittsburghers a safe, luxurious and most economical means of covering this entire region.

A few of the points which mean much to every American may be briefly recalled. Baltimore, one of America's great cities, lies only a day's journey to the east beyond the barrier of the Alleghenies which for years retarded the march of progress. Baltmore is the seat of Johns Hopkins University and Fort McHenry, the defense of which inspired Francis Scott Key to write the Star Spangled Banner. Here, too, is located the grave of Edgar Allen Poe and many other points of literary and historic interest.

WASHINGTON

Washington is as easily reached as Baltimore, and little needs to be said regarding the wealth of associations which the name brings to mind. World renowned for its beauty the city is one which it is not only the desire but the duty of every American to visit.

Within a short distance of Washington lies Mt. Vernon, Washington's home, Arlington, the last resting place of the Nation's heroes, and Annapolis, seat of the Naval Academy, rich in history as well.

"Green walled by the hills of Maryland" stands Frederick, where Barbara Fritchie immortalized herself. Here is located Hood College for Women and the Maryland State School for the Deaf.

Gettysburg is probably the world's most famous battlefield. A quiet peace pervades a countryside where once the fields ran red with death and the wreckage of war.

TOLL GATE

Down the famous Shenandoah Valley are scenes of countless thrilling dramas. Winchester lies at the head of the valley, whence dashed Sheridan to Cedar Creek "20 miles away" to save his cause in battle. Incidentally, an arbitrary toll gate keeper on the Valley pike delayed Sheridan and forced him to pay 40 cents toll before he could complete his ride. Winchester changed hands some 20 times during the course of the war.

Winchester is well worth a visit and it leads on to the Shenandoah Caverns — a never-to-be-forgotten symphony in stone.

Harpers Ferry, where John Brown's raid took place is also nationally known for its scenery. Three states meet here and the beautiful Shenandoah joins the Potomac.

WESTERN GATEWAY

Cumberland—gateway to the west—guards the way through the mountains. Its scenery defies description and its history knows well the horror of the prowling Indian.

There are hundreds of other spots of equal interest but there are some of the better known in the historyland that bus transportation has opened up to everyone. The motor coaches of the West Penn System cover a territory of unsurpassed interest.

ALLEGHENY COUNTY
'Public Improvements Promote Progress'
Convinced that public improvements exert an important influence upon the progress of any community, the Board of County Commissioners of Allegheny County on January 1, 1924, initiated a program of major public works, many of which are already effectively serving the citizens, while others of vital importance are being rapidly brought to completion.
McKEES ROCKS BRIDGE over the Ohio River, now under construction, will connect Island avenue, McKees Rocks, with the new Ohio River Boulevard. As the roads for carrying automobiles increase, so must be increased the bridges to carry these roads across our rivers. The McKees Rocks Bridge will provide a much-needed river crossing for the interchange of the great volume of through traffic that naturally accumulates on the highways along the North and South banks of the Ohio River. It likewise will furnish a local connection for the industrial sections and residential environs of McKees Rocks and the Woods Run district of the North Side. With a roadway 40 feet wide and a total length of 5900 feet, it will become the largest and costliest bridge structure of Allegheny County. Its estimated cost is $6,885,000.00. It will be opened to traffic towards the end of 1931.

Reduction Shown In Surplus Cars

Class I railroads on September 15 had 147,845 surplus freight cars in good repair and immediately available for service, the Car Service Division of the American Railway Association reports.

This was a decrease of 9,761 cars compared with September 8, at which time there were 157,606 cars.

Surplus coal cars on September 15 totaled 26,325, a recrease of 6,454 cars within approximately a week, while surplus box cars totaled 83,853, a decrease of 3,037 for the same period.

New Financing for Week Increases

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—During week ended October 4, new financing aggrgeated $242,301,000, of which $192,753,000 was in new stock and $49,548,000 in new bonds versus $44,798,500 total week ago, of which $25,911,000 was in bonds and $18,887,500 in stocks.

Since beginning of year, new bond offerings totaled $2,502,441,108, against $3,958,428,840 in last year and $4,725,968,380 in same period two years ago. New stock flotations since January 1, to date amount to $2,847,577,282.

Railroad Car Buying Gains Sharply

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

WHILE there have been definite signs that the pace of business activity in the Pittsburgh district is slowing down, the past week has been marked by at least one favorable development of exceptional importance to many industrial organizations. The railroads, which are closing the best year since the war, have indicated that they are on the verge of one of the greatest equipment buying movements in recent years.

New equipment business definitely in sight calls for a total of about 30,000 railroad cars. Eastern roads will account for a large share of this buying, so that car builders and steel mills in this district will benefit to a marked extent.

This is in addition to the 31,898 freight cars which the Car Service Division of the American Railway Association reported that the carriers had on order on September 1.

Profits to Gain

THE rush of new business comes just at a period when the car builders are coming close to the time when old orders will have been filled. It gives the car companies a new lease on activity and insures the fact that their improved earnings of this year will continue into 1930. The cars now being placed on order cannot be delivered until next year so that a good rate of operations is insured for the early part of 1930.

While the car builders will be directly helped by the new orders, other organizations in this district will come in for increased sales of materials and parts. Westinghouse Air Brake has been showing expanding profits this year and the additional volume of business will keep the trend on the upward path.

August Sales

NEW orders by the railroads in September amounted to about 7,000 cars. This compared with only 2,854 in August. It brought the total for the first nine months of the year to nearly 70,000 cars against only 24,636 in the corresponding period of last year.

The equipment interests hoped to receive orders for a total of 100,000 cars this year. The 30,000 cars now in sight, added to the 70,000 already purchased, indicate that this expectation will be fulfilled. The volume of car buying this year is particularly important to the industry since the demand for railroad equipment reached its low point since the war early in 1928.

Trend Changed

THAT the downward trend in car buying has been definitely reversed is believed to be evidence of the fact that the railroads have reached the end of their supply of surplus equipmnt and will have to resume a regular replacement program. The increase in railroad efficiency in the years following the termination of government operation accelerated the movement of freight to such an extent that fewer cars were needed. Shipments which used to take weeks were made in days. One car was able to do the work of two or more.

This condition created such a surplus of equipment that the railroads dropped out of the market until the retirement of old cars used up this supply. Car buying started to pick up in the latter part of 1928 and, with a few minor periods of dullness, it has been in fairly good volume since that time.

Heavy Construction Declines for Week

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The money value of proposed work in the heavy construction field announced throughout the country in the past week totaled $51,955,000, according to reports received by McGraw-Hill construction daily.

While this figure is lower than the totals recorded a year ago and for the preceding week, it indicated greater activity in several classes of heavy construction operations, namely, apartment houses and hotels, educational buildings and industrial buildings. The total for the corresponding week a year ago was $78,900,000, which compares with a record high in the previous week, when the $100,000,000 elevated motor highway, planned for Michigan, raised the total to $166,304,000.

DR. W. L. HALBERSTADT

MEMORIAL WORK PROGRESSING

Over $1,000,000 is being spent on landscape and development work on the Allegheny County Memorial Park, of which Dr. W. L. Halberstadt is organization manager. Approximately $500,000 in addition will be spent on the buildings of the park, including the chapel, administration building and chimes tower, plans for which are being drawn by Janssen and Cocken, architects.

Operating under the terms of a contract awarded them recently, the construction firm of Freeland, McHale and Patten, Inc., is actively engaged in the construction work.

An unique feature of the Memorial Park is the fact that its advertising program includes a weekly concert, broadcast over Station KDKA. Dr. Halberstadt is master of ceremonies for the radio broadcast.

At first glance the preparation of programs advertising a burial place, something most people do not like to even think about, would seem to present insurmountable obstacles. In spite of this, however, the task has been so cleverly done that the Sunday afternoon concerts of the Memorial Park have become one of the real features of KDKA and a wide and enthusiastic audience has been built up.

This radio broadcasting has played a large part in the remarkable success of the Memorial Park from a sales standpoint. Over three-quarters of a million dollars worth of the property has been sold in Pittsburgh in the past few months. Business is increasing by a large margin monthly.

Investment Bankers To Meet at Quebec

The eighteenth annual convention of the Investment Bankers' Association of America, which will bring more than 800 foremost representatives of the world's largest buy-and-sell business to Quebec, October 12 to 18, gives assurance of being one of the most productive meetings in the history of that organization.

Following precedent, the major portion of each business session will be devoted to the presentation and discussion of the reports and studies of the association's 22 standing committees and four important subcommittees. Thirty reports, dealing with every major form of business and governmental activity wherein finance is involved, with taxation and legislation as they affect securities, and with the problems, trends and ethics of the investment banking business, are scheduled to be laid before this meeting. These report, to which some 400 men have given their time and effort, will undoubtedly reflect the enormous expansion and bewildering array of changes which the business of supplying long-term credit has faced within the last few years.

Drop in Tonnage Expected for September

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—While estimates are not yet obtainable, it is practically certain there will be another large decrease in U. S. Steel Corporation's unfilled orders as of September 30. Much depends on whether or not there were many orders from railroads added to the books in the last two or three days of the month. The report will be issued at noon next Thursday.

For the current month, however, it is now indicated a substantial increase will be reported. In fact, the extent of railroad buying this month is expected to more than offset any decrease for September. November also promises to bring about a gain.

RETAIL TRADE ACTIVE HERE

Industrial Operations Show But Little Change; Steel Mill Output Slightly Up

There was slightly more activity in retail trade, which is being stimulated by cooler weather, and the larger stores have been transacting a volume of business which is somewhat better than a year ago, says R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Trade Review.

Jobbers of men's and women's clothing report sales rather small, buying being generally for immediate needs and of a hand-to-mouth nature. Dry goods sales are in larger volume, some houses reporting sales quite a little better than a year ago. There is also an increasing demand for shoes, men's furnishings and notions, and a fairly good fall business is anticipated in these lines. The demand for hardware, paints, etc., is fairly steady, but there is less activity in lumber and builders supplies. The sale of groceries and provisions shows a moderate improvement.

Industrial operations in this district are not showing much change with steel mills operating at a slightly higher rate than last week, and approximately the same as a year ago. New business is rather light, and backlogs are quite low with some of the mills.

ELECTRICS IN DEMAND

The annual radio show is in progress this week, and activity in that line is quite pronounced. Manufacturers of electrical equipment are operating at close to capacity, and the larger manufacturers generally have a large volume of business booked.

The situation in the plate glass industry continues quite satisfactory with production being well maintained, and the demand above the seasonal average. Production during August totaled 14,716,476 square feet, which is gain of 2,557,000 square feet over August, 1928. The demand for window glass continues below normal and production is still at a low rate for this time of the year.

CRUDE OUTPUT OFF

The production of crude oil shows a moderate decrease. Price of Pennsylvania grades of crude oil have again been reduced 25 cents per barrel, with the highest grade quoted $3.05. This is the fourth reduction this year.

Production of bituminous coal shows little change and buying continues rather slow, although domestic sizes are improving in demand. Western Pennsylvania grades of run-of-mine coal are quoted as follows per net ton at mines: Steam coal, $1.25 to $1.75; coking coal, $1.50 to $1.75; gas coal, $1.65 to $1.75; steam slack, 80c to 90c, and gas slack, $1 to $1.10.

Oil Company Strikes New Field in Texas

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 5.—Transcontinental Oil Company officials believe they have brought in an important new oil field in Young County, Texas, and that the company owns the greater part of the structure. The new well, Corbett No. 1, has been drilled through two feet of hard shell and just touched another pay sand, believed to be the high-grade Ranger, increasing its gas flow from 2,000,000 to 8,000,000 cubic feet and flow of oil from seven to 20 barrels an hour. The well is in the center of the company's 1,300-acre lease in Young and Stevens counties, on the Ruth Campbell survey, two and one-half miles east of South Bend, Tex.

Canada Trade Shows Gain for Quarter

OTTAWA, Oct. 5.—Canada's total trade for the first quarter of the current fiscal year amounted to $626,164,064; an increase from $592,647,659 for the corresponding period last year. This is shown in the quarterly report issued today by the Department of Trade and Commerce. For the three months imports into Canada exceeded exports by $43,999,622.

Imports totaled $335,081,843 as compared with $291,082,221 in exports. In comparison with the figures for the first three months of the previous fiscal year the quarterly imports into Canada increased by over $32,000,000 while exports rose slightly over $1,000,000.

ROUND TABLE OF BUSINESS

STEEL OUTPUT TO DECLINE FURTHER

Falling Off of Automobile And Equipment Demands Will Cause Curtailment

By B. E. V. LUTY.

News items of the steel trade are so varied in character as to their being favorable or otherwise that a quantative appraisal of each is necessary to obtain a correct composite. Thus there is very bad news about automobiles and very good news about fabricated structural steel, involving different tonnages.

There is news of freight car buying and rail buying, of quite different degrees of importance. To make the study still more intricate, when a final appraisal of total volume is made there is the divergence between a long and a short range comparison. There has been quite a decrease in the last few months, but only from the recent big bulge, there being no visible prospect of volume going below the general trend line established by the course of steel up to 15 months ago. It was just about July 1, 1928, that steel demand entered on a great and special bulge. The bulge was unfortunate in that it had to have an aftermath when comparisons would be unfavorable.

FARRELL'S APPEAL

President Farrell, of the U. S. Steel Corporation, frankly referred to that matter. Just as the bulge in production had reached its height, speaking before the American Iron and Steel Institute meeting late in May, he said: "Let us spread out this business. Do not let us try to do all the business that we can possibly do in three or four months of the year and have nothing left." He advocated more conservative salesmanship. That of course would help, but one can see now that the greatest reaction is in connection with the automobile trade, which the steel industry cannot control.

To take up the current news items and measure their bearing upon the total of steel demand one considers first the automobile industry, which last year passed the first place as a steel consumer, being rated at 18 per cent of the total, while in the first half of this year it may be estimated to have accounted for about 23 per cent of the steel. The preliminary report for September shows 417,000 cars and trucks produced in the United States and Canada, representing 19 per cent decrease from August, 37 per cent decrease from April, the peak month, and 27 per cent decrease from the monthly average in the first half of the year. Furthermore, there was a larger proportion of light cars last month, production is growing lighter still, and when a factory is curtailing its production it calls for particularly little steel because it has steel and parts in progress through the works. A fair guess is that this month and next the steel industry loses in this connection about 12 per cent of the total steel demand it had in the first half of the year.

FABRICATED DEMANDS

In complete contrast there is fabricated structural steel. Lettings informally reported weekly show three of the last four weeks to have been well above the average, and the official report for August was record high for all time. In the first half of the year shipments of the fabricating shops represented about 8 per cent of all the steel made, and with concrete reinforcements, elevators, piping, etc., fully 10 per cent of the steel was represented. The statistics showed that during the period the order books of the fabricating shops increased. Altogether, there is now no loss, but a gain, in that direction. It is a gain in a 10 per cent industry, slightly offsetting the large loss in a 23 per cent industry.

Line pipe and agricultural implements show slight decreases. Miscellaneous lines have some decreases but there is no evidence of large decreases. A test of that is the sheet industry, which of all finishing branches of the steel trade has the widest and most diversified distribution. The sheet industry has lost surprisingly little in total tonnage, considering its large loss in connection with the automobile industry.

RAILROAD ORDERS

One may now weigh the importance of two items of railroad buying, in rails and freight cars. Stressing the importance of rail buying is quite unintelligent. There is an annual movement of buying for replacement purposes, occurring at about the same time each year and in about the same volume. It is a routine matter with the railroads. In the first place, this is the steadiest line of demand the steel trade has. In the second place, it represents no large proportion of the total steel made. In the third place, the trend of requirements has lately been downward rather than upward. From 1926 to 1928 total production of rails decreased 18 per cent, while total production of all rolled steed increased 7 per cent. Rails were 7 per cent of the total last year, while the annual buying for replacement represented no more than 5 per cent. From one year to the next the movement is unlikely to vary 10 per cent, but a 10 per cent variation would represent only one-half per cent of the total steel.

This year the Pennsylvania Railroad has authorized 3 per cent more rails than two years ago, 310,000 tons for 1930 against 300,000 tons for 1928. On the other hand, the Santa Fe has just ordered 87,187 tons, against 119,637 tons a year ago and 121,300 tons two years ago.

Freight cars built in the last six months absorbed about 5 per cent of the steel made in the same period. The old orders are practically played out. New orders are coming in, but give no promise of providing as heavy a rate of car building in the next few months as there has been in the last few.

DECLINE IN OUTPUT

As to the general total, steel production declined slightly to September 1 and has since been declining somewhat more rapidly. May and June production was at over 99 per cent. October may be forecast at 80 per cent or perhaps a trifle less and December at somewhat under 70 per cent. All precedents promise an increase in January.

At 75 per cent the quarter's rate, 46,000,000 tons a year, would approximate the highest annual total prior to 1928, nearly 47,000,000 tons having been made in 1926.

Steel prices are more or less unsteady, but there have been no outright declines of importance recorded thus far. On all hands it is admitted that the price situation is a delicate one.

Gains Reported In Flint Glass

The present week has been one of real encouragement in the flint glass trade, not because the amount of business done in that branch of the industry has been unsatisfactory, but for the reason that what has been a rather good business continues to improve, according to the National Glass Budget.

The improvement covers the complete line of flint ware with special activity in lines such as stem ware and individual pieces as well as the less attractive but quite useful kitchen glassware.

There is also considerable buying in holiday ware. This is not confined to any special lines, but has a tendency towards ware that is attractive in color and design.

Manufacturers of this line of glassware continue to be busy with good prospects for this condition continuing for some time.

N. Y. Shippers Ask Rate Case Rehearing

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Representatives of Greater New York and other eastern shippers decided to file a petition with the Interstate Commerce Commission asking for a reopening of the eastern class rate. The shippers will ask that the net operating profits of carriers for the first seven months of 1929 be incorporated in the record before the commission renders its decision in the case which is now pending.

E. E. Williamson, counsel for the shippers' committee, read a report compiled from an investigation he made, pointing out that the new rate sought by the railroads would increase the carriers' revenue $80,000,000 a year on the basis of his figures. The new rate, he said, would be unjust and excessive insofar as the shippers were concerned.

Amn. Power Denies Issuing Warrants

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—It is officially denied by American Commonwealth Power Corporation that it has issued a new series of warrants as reported a few days ago. There is a limited number of warrants still outstanding which entitle holders to purchase class "A" stock at $24 a share between October 1, 1929, and June 30, 1930, it was stated. Corporation issued these warrants early this year, when it absorbed American States Securities Company.

Agent

HOLGAR J. JOHNSON

MUTUAL GAINS RAPID

Possibly no insurance representative in the Pittsburgh area has created a more favorable impression as to his ability and ingenuity than Holgar J. Johnson, general agent for the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, whose offices occupy suite 1307 to 1309 in the Clark Building and are the center of the activities of a corps of 55 salesmen who service 17 Pennsylvania counties; six counties in West Virginia and two in Ohio.

The Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company first opened its offices here 65 years ago. For 52 years J. C. Biggert was actively in charge as general agent. Since the appointment, on May 1, 1928, of Mr. Johnson as general agent, Mr. Biggert has remained as an active associate and has contributed Mr. Johnson's success to his shrewd counsel as a veteran insurance agent.

STARTS BUSINESS

Mr. Johnson launched into business with the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company in 1922, immediately following his graduation from the University of Pittsburgh. His unusual ability as an organizer soon brought him recognition, and he was ordered to the home office of his company at Hartford, Conn., in 1926.

For two years he was assistant superintendent of agencies. His work in this field was followed by his appointment by the Penn Mutual to take over the Pittsburgh territory and he began his service with the latter company in 1928 with only 12 counties in Pennsylvania as his territory. In the short time he has had control, Mr. Johnson has built his organization from one using but two salesmen and two office employes into one that taxes the efforts of 55 salesmen and an office personnel of seven headed by Miss Ethel M. Beltz, cashier.

TEACHER

Despite his responsibility in his company, Mr. Johnson has also taught in the Insurance School of the University of Pittsburgh, is a member of the University Club, Union Club, Chamber of Commerce, vice president of the Underwriters' Association and a director in the Metropolitan Y. M. C. A.

He saw active service aboard the U. S. S. Moccasin for two years during the World War and in 1925 married Miss Muriel Cole, daughter of E. E. Cole, president of the National Union Fire Insurance Company.

Company to Produce Fire Extinguishers

Production is being started on a fire extinguisher of revolutionary design by the National Extinguisher Company, a new organization in this city. The extinguisher uses carbon tetra-chloride under an air pressure of 300 pounds. It represents the first time that the chemical has been used for fire-fighting purposes on such a large scale. The inventor, John R. Boyd, has overcome difficulties which formerly limited the chemical to small hand-operated extinguishers.

WINDOW GLASS BETTER

The position of the window glass market, while admittedly less favorable than at this time a year ago, is showing some improvement. Orders from the jobbing trade were reported in better volume this week, but are still considerably below normal for early October, according to the American Glass Review.

Production of this commodity is at an exceptionally low figure for this, the advent of the busiest season of the year, and during September was probably not in excess of 600,000 boxes. As a consequence the demand, even though well below the seasonal average, is ample to absorb output and is cutting in some on manufacturers' warehouse stocks. Orders for the popular sizes, in view of this situation, cannot always be filled immediately. It would seem, therefore, that it behooves the jobbing trade to anticipate to some extent the demand for these sizes if disappointments are to be averted.

PLATE GLASS

Distribution of plate glass is along quite satisfactory lines. Demand on the part of the mirror manufacturers is in very good volume, in fact, appreciably above the average for early fall. New business from the jobbing trade is also holding up exceptionally well. Automobile manufacturers are not using plate glass in such large quantities now, however, and orders from that source are in smaller volume. Production in all units now in operation is being maintained at relatively high seasonal levels.

While manufacturers of rough rolled and wire glass products are experiencing a fairly satisfactory demand, marketing conditions in this branch are viewed as none too reassuring. An early improvement in the situation is anticipated by leading factors, however.

IMPORTS

Imports of plate glass into this country during the week ended September 28 were well above the preceding week's volume, according to the latest unofficial compilations. Incoming shipments of window glass, on the other hand, registered a decline. Plate Glass importations totaled 272 cases and 148,233 pounds, as against 456 cases received the week of September 21. Receipts of window glass for the comparative periods were 13,559 boxes, 271,321 pounds, and 14,028 boxes, 302,655 pounds, respectively.

SEARS MAY SET NEW RECORD

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—With only the last quarter of the year ahead, and that the best quarter, Sears, Roebuck & Co., seems assured of sales volume of more than $425,000,000. The nine months' sales of Sears, Roebuck amounted to $298,312,262, as compared with $231,365,458 for the corresponding period of 1928, showing a gain of 28.9 per cent. September sales totaled $36,950,342, as compared with $30,004,137 for the same month a year ago, displaying an increase of 23.1 per cent.

A glance at the heavy sales for the last three months combined with the total for the final period of 1928, when more than $115,000,000 was reported, shows that with no increase over that amount for the rest of the year the volume for 1929 would be more than $413,000,000. There does not seem to be any good reason, however, why Sears, Roebuck will not continue to display a business gain for the last quarter of this year at least equivalent to that registered for the past nine months, which would mean a gain approximating 30 per cent. Such a gain would bring sales for 1929 well over $425,000,000.

It should be noted in regard to percentage sales gains of companies reporting monthly sales of the size of those registered by Sears, Roebuck that percentage increases tend to shrink as the volume in dollars swells. An example of this may be seen in that a little more than 3 per cent sales gain for Sears, Roebuck nine months ago meant an increase in dollar volume of about $750,000, while at the present rate of business such an increase would mean an added dollar volume of more than $1,000,000.

Sears, Roebuck is still expanding, not so much to increase the number of retail units distributing its articles, as to complete as well a diversified system of distribution as possible. At present the company operates about 300 stores, together with 45 units devoted to sale of ready-built house supplies and mill work. It is difficult to say just how many stores will be operating by the end of the current year. The occasions for new openings are arising at a pace that will apparently add a substantial number before the close of 1929.

In some circles Sears, Roebuck is expected to earn more than $7 a share on the common stock this year, provided the company returns a ratio of net to sales equal to that registered last year. The prepayment policies in freight and postage inaugurated in the spring have been productive of increased sales, but just what the cost of these policies will be can not now be determined. Consequently any earnings estimate made at this time without official sanction may prove wide of the mark. Last year the company reported a net of $26,907,902, which was equal after all charges to $6.28 a share on 4,284,418 shares of common stock outstanding.

Public Has Big Investments In Trusts

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 5. — The American public invested upwards of $1,500,000,000 in investment trusts in the first eight months of this year and the total investment has now reached the huge sum of $2,500,000,000, but despite this phenomenal growth the investment trust is till in its infancy and the much greater investment of $10,000,000,000 may be anticipated in the near future, John Scott Lansill, president of the United States Shares Corporation, told a gathering of security dealers here.

Approximately 1 per cent of the total wealth of the United Kingdom is represented in investment trusts, whereas only six-tenths of 1 per cent of the wealth of the United States can be accounted for in this manner. This difference Mr. Lansill attributed in the main to the fact that investment trusts have been in existence here only seven years as compared with 60 years in England, the country of origin. If the same proportion of America's wealth were to be placed in investment trusts as is now found in the United Kingdom our total investments would aggregate about $4,000,000,000.

BUSINESS FALLS IN WEEK

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The volume of money turnover during the week ended September 28, is indicated by check payments, was smaller than in the preceding week but greater than a year ago, according to the weekly statement of the Department of Commerce. Steel plant operations were on a lower level than in either the preceding week or the same period of last year. The output of bituminous coal during the latest reported week showed no change from the preceding week, but was greater than a year ago. Crude petroleum production showed a recession from the previous week and a gain over the same week of 1928. Receipts of cotton into sight were smaller than in the corresponding week of last year. Cattle receipts at primary markets were lower than a year ago, while hog receipts showed a gain. The movement of freight by rail as indicated by data on carloadings covering the latest reported week continued to show gains over the corresponding period of last year.

The general index of wholesale prices showed declines from both the preceding week and the same week of last year. Iron and steel prices averaged lower than in the previous week, but were higher than a year ago. Cotton prices and prices for copper showed no change from the previous week, but as compared with a year ago cotton prices were lower and copper prices higher.

Grant and Seventh
Operators of retail stores should study the possibilities of Grant Street and Seventh Avenue. The Koppers Building is an accomplished fact. The Gulf Building will be occupied by May 1, 1932. The New Federal Building will be started next year. This means that the three of the four corners in this location will be occupied by magnificent buildings by May 1, 1932. Automobile and pedestrian traffic in this area is increasing rapidly. The district has adequate parking facilities. It is well served by street car and bus lines. The Pennsylvania suburban trains haul a large number of prospective customers daily. There is a spendid opportunity to secure excellent locations for retail stores in this district, which will be represented by Pittsburgh's finest buildings. Why not investigate?

STOCK MARKET PRICES RACE UPWARD

Strong Buying Support Causes Brisk Recovery; Advances 2 to 40 Points

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Strong buying support developed in today's stock market and prices staged a brisk recovery, active issues rising 2 to 10 points while a few high-priced specialties soared 12 to nearly 40 points. Trading was in heavy volume, with the ticker showing an average delay of about 18 minutes behind the market.

The sharp rally indicated the completion, at least temporarily, of forced liquidation, which had undermined the market earlier in the week. Weekly mercantile reviews indicated that general business had not been affected by the decline in stock values, and that operations of the basic industries were proceeding in fair volume.

FUNDS IN SUPPLY

Heavy liquidation during the last week also is believed to have released a large volume of funds, assuring easier credit conditions unless there was a sudden revival of speculation for the advance. Call money dropped from 10 to 6 per cent this week and loans in the "outside market" were available Friday as low as 5½.

American Tobacco issues were the spectacular features, the B stock soaring nearly 40 points and the A 28 on the announcement of an increase in cigaret prices. Liggett and Myers issues jumped about 18 points each, and Lorillard Tobacco 7.

WIDE GAINS MADE

Columbian Carbon jumped 20 points, Motor Products 10 and General Electric extended its gain to 9. A. M. Byers, American Water Works, Westinghouse Electric, American Machine and Foundry, Delaware and Hudson, United Aircraft, National Biscuit, Electric Auto Lite, American Telephone, Air Reduction, Western Union and Simmons extended their gains to 6 or more. Scores of others sold 2 to 5 points above yesterday's final quotations.

CIGARET PRICE RAISED

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company has advanced price of cigarets 40 cents per thousand to $6.40.

Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company has advanced Chesterfield and Piedmont cigarets 40 cents a thousand to $6.40 a thousand, less usual discounts.

American Tobacco Company has advanced Lucky Strike cigarets 40 cents a thousand to $6.40, less usual discounts.

U. S. Lead Stocks Increase in August

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Stocks of lead in the United States and Mexico on September 1, 1929, totaled 175,641 tons in August, up 2,092 over 173,549 tons on August 1, according to the American Bureau of Metal Statistics. On July 1, stocks of lead were 173,612 tons. The total on September 1 was highest for any month in several years.

Plan to Stabilize Crude Rubber Price

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—President Sieberling, of Sieberling Rubber Company, back from Europe, says plans have been concluded to stabilize crude rubber price on a basis to encourage planting and approved by 25 members of Rubber Growers Association in a London conference.

Hatry Settlement Plans Postponed

LONDON, Oct. 5.—It is understood that stock exchange settlement of transactions in the Hatry shares arranged for October 24 will be further postponed owing to difficulties in clearing up the complicated position so far disclosed.

Fewer Business Failures Reported

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Business failures in the United States this week declined to 396, 32 less than the 428 last week, R. G. Dun & Co. reported today. Failures for the corresponding week last year totaled 429.

Auburn Shipments Increase Sharply

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—September shipments of Auburn Auto Company totaled 1,867 cars of which 1,223 were Auburns and 644 Cord models, against shipments of 850 cars in September, 1928. Production for October calls for 1,100 Auburns and 1,200 Cords.

Standard of Ohio Reduces Gasoline

CLEVELAND, Oct. 5.—The Standard Oil Company of Ohio has reduced the price of service station gasoline 2 cents a gallon and tank wagon 1 cent a gallon.

Don't Sell When Buying Is Poorest.

—By B. C. FORBES—

THE time to sell stocks is not when everybody else is rushing to sell. The time to sell is when everybody is rushing to buy.

JUST because over-boomed stocks have tumbled disastrously, inflicting serious losses on many speculators, don't conclude that our national prosperity has vanished overnight. It hasn't. Industry and business and agriculture are just as sound at this moment as they were when stocks were being excitedly bought at rising prices. The change has consisted of a change of mind in speculative circles.

That such a change of mind was bound to come was freely proclaimed in this column. When it would come no human being could foresee. Only the blind could fail to see that many stocks were selling, not on actual value, but on fanciful hopes. Optimistic speculators were drawing too heavily on their imaginations.

When the yield on favorite common shares was only about 3 per cent and money was costing 9 per cent, the situation manifestly was untenable, impermanent, fantastic. The gulf between dividend returns and rental price of money was altogether too great.

IF WALL STREET runs true to to form, this week's debacle should be followed by a more or less vigorous recovery. If and when this develops, then it will be for each stockholder to decide for himself how to act. It usually proves poor judgment to throw stocks on a demoralized market such we had on Thursday, when 25 representative industrial and utility issues fell 20 points.

THE American Bankers' Association does well to recommended a thorough investigation of brokers' loans. The total of $6,804,000,000, the new high record reported by the Federal Reserve Board, and the total of $8,549,383,979, reported by the New York Stock Exchange, should be "broken down," to use a now popular business expression—meaning that these totals should be split into their component parts. It would be extremely useful to know just how many billions are employed to carry stocks purchased on margin, how much is borrowed by investment houses against partly-distributed security offerings, etc.

How much money is being borrowed by investment trusts and how much is being lent by investmen trusts from time to time would also be illuminating. That investment trusts are attracting the notice of legislators is revealed by the agitation at Albany that an official investigation be conducted for the purpose of framing new legislation dealing with them.

Incidentally, although it is known that the flotation of gigantic investment trusts is not over, the cream is off this method of attracting enormous investment capital.

The sponsors of not a few investment trusts have had hard sledding during recent weeks.

The next boom contemplated is in the organization of companies to acquire control of banks. Provided stock market conditions do not forbid, you will see spectacular developments in this direction.

A RESPONSIBLY sponsored investment trust covering the important field of office appliance companies is on the fire and should be shortly announced.

A NEW natural gas enterprise of record-breaking magnitude is scheduled to be announced shortly.

National City Bank interests, I learn, have acquired a very substantial interest in the New York, Rio and Buenos Aires Airline, which has landed valuable mail concessions in South America and for which there was delivered this week the largest commercial seaplane ever built in this country.

THE newspapers yesterday agreed that banks rushed support into the stock market at the opening in order to prevent renewed demoralization by the selling out of margin accounts which had not been protected overnight. Concerted banking support is extended only at critical times. When banks buy stocks on such emergencies, they don't buy to hold but to resell as soon as the market is in a position to absorb them. An artificial rally thus engineered is never regarded as particularly reassuring.

THE writer still believes that money will become considerably easier before the end-of-the-year pinch comes.

Harbison-Walker Gets Tax Refund

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—A refund of $39,403 to Harbison-Walker Refractories Company, Pittsburgh, for over-assessment of income tax in 1926 was announced by the Internal Revenue Bureau. The over-assessment was due to additional deductions for depreciation and depletion, amortization and exclusion of certain non-taxable income.

James L. Barren, Philadelphia, received an abatement of $93,530 for over-assessment of income taxes, penalties and interest in 1921-23-24 and 1925. The over-assessments were due to the recomputation of the net income.

Lancashire Cotton Spindles Stopped

MANCHESTER, Oct. 5.—It was reported by the committee at a meeting of the Federation of Master Cotton Spinners that mills containing over 5,500,000 spindles in Lancashire have stopped indefinitely. This is equal to 9.8 per cent of spindles in members' federation and within 750,000 of the total spindleage of Japan.

THE PRODUCE MARKET

The demand for fruit and vegetables was slow today at the wholesale produce markets in Pittsburgh.

The poultry markets rested steady, demand fair, supply adequate as the markets showed no change in quotations.

The butter, eggs and cheese markets were firm, supply adequate, demand fair as no changes occurred in quotations.

Car lot supplies were light with 278 cars on track. Arrivals included 11 cars of apples, 7 cabbage, 3 cantaloupes, 2 grapefruits, 90 grapes, 1 lemons, 2 lettuce, 3 onions, 3 oranges, 2 pears, 2 peppers, 26 potatoes, 3 prunes, 3 sweet potatoes, 1 tomatoes.

Corn Products Has Record Quarter

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—With returns for July and August showing a substantial increase over corresponding 1928 months, present indications are that Corn Prodducts Refrigerating Company will display earnings of record proportions for September quarter. In corresponding 1928 period net earnings of $3,832,000 equal to 97 cents a common share were shown.

In 1928 December quarter net of $6,800,000 was earned accounting for about one-half the profits reported for that year. Should current quarter favorably correspond, as there is reason to believe, Corn Products will show net earnings for year of $5.75, or better, a share on 2,530,000 common shares outstanding.

Declaration of an extra cash dividend is expected at December meeting. For some time it has

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

By HAVEY J. BOYLE

IRA HURWICK, the old globe-trotter, was back in town long enough to view the firemen's parade here the other day. He sends in a letter filled with grief:

"With keen disappointment and deep regret I stood for an hour watching the firemen's parade, always expecting to see you and some of your fellow citizens heading a delegation from the Carrick Volunteer Fire Brigade. Hundreds of other less prominent places than your home town and certainly less publicized places had the public spirit to show Pittsburghers what they had in the way of fire protection, yet you, one of the foremost proponents of the famous Carrick Volunteers, were absent. Was it because your public spirit has waned or was it because Carrick is now a part of Pittsburgh and you don't care any more? This is a vital question and the public demands an answer."

Havey J. Boyle

I knew when they asked me to carry that big banner: "Carrick's Finest," that no one would see me in the parade. I saw Mr. Hurwick and was tempted to wave to him, but I knew that the banner was too heavy to be held with one hand and another thing just as I passed Mr. Hurwick I stumbled just a trifle.

IF ANYONE doesn't think I was there let him ask Mark Roberts, a Carrick pioneer, and one of the best known volunteer firemen in the state.

Yellow Taxi Driver No. 46, writing from Box 103, says:

"Noticed your paragraph concerning the new taxicabs. I don't know where you get that information. For your benefit and the benefit of the public: New cars are given to the men who have served the longest. Rookies must drive the old cars until the new fleet is completed. Please excuse pencil. No ill feelings."

THE campaign to make the Liberty tubes safer, or less dangerous, is coming along nicely, what with appropriations for more policemen to patrol the tubes, and just when the city seemed o. k. along comes a complaint that Highland Park is in dire need of better lights. The other night only two of the gas lamps in the park were lighted, Spy 768-B reports, and motorists had a hard time finding their way. It was the night of the big rain and the supposition is that the village lamp lighter didn't want to get wet. Council next week will be petitioned to appropriate enough for a much-needed umbrella.

Hovering over one of the nastiest traffic corners in town, Seventh avenue and Grant street, is the electric sign of a bank, admonishing somewhat ominously: "Make Your Will." A figure of a skeleton might help a little, too.

New Theatrical Attractions and Events in Movie Studios

PLAYER NARROWLY ESCAPES WITH LIFE SECOND TIME ON SAME LOCATION

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 5.

MONTE BLUE and his indignant ribs are home again, after nigh a week's sojourn in the Hollywood Hospital. And Monte, who is an active soul, prowls the house restlessly, anxious to be sufficiently rekuped to finish the five days more work on the picture wherein he was injured while shooting water scenes at Laguna. Said outloud being "The Isle of Escape."

This is the second time that Monte narrowly escaped with his life at Laguna. Some five years ago, he and Evelyn Brent traipsed in a Peter B. Kyne movie yclept "Loving Lies." During the course of location action at Laguna, Monte was called upon to row a boat to shore. Along thundered a gigantic wave, swiping the boat, knocking an oar from Monte's hand, socking him overboard and the darn boat atop him. Quick action saved his life that time.

Monte Blue.

The more recent accident occurred in almost the exact spot of its predecessor. Naturally, this boy Blue looks unkindly on future Laguna locations. In terms of darkest superstition, the third time is the charm.

If you will bear with a wee bit of reminiscing, it was "Loving Lies" that bowed Joan Lowell, "The Cradle of the Deep" gal, into attempted sinema renown. The titles are not synonymous. She played a rambunctious maid of buoyant manners in this film. Thompson Buchanan supervised, Mr. Buchanan and Miss Lowell found plenty of time between scenes to fall for each other in a big way. Shortly after the picture's completion, Miss Lowell trekked East to combat the cliff-dwelling land-lubbers. Mr. Buchanan followed and they formally took each other for better or worse.

Carlotta King In Vaudeville

WHICH detours us a long way from Mr. Blue's oceanic accident. To loop to a conclusion, when Monte winds up work in "Isle of Escape," he and Mrs. Blue vacation on to Seattle, where Mrs. Blue anticipates visiting with old friends. They will be gone two weeks, Monte returning to traipse in a First National vocalloid, "Murder Will Out." Now where have I heard that title before? smacks rawther autobiographical . . . .

Carlotta King.

Carlotta King, the "Desert Song" girl, has evidently wearied of months of studio waiting and hies herself to San Francisco to open at the Orpheum tomorrow eve for a week's run. Then back to Los Angeles for a final week. After the "Desert Song" was released, M. G. M. signed Miss King. But a song-story for her seems to have evaded the most concentrated search. She has been idle about six months now, which is a pretty long time. 'Twasn't so bad during the summer, for Miss King and her husband beached at Santa Monica the day long. They've given up the house with fall whisking in Pacific fogs and moved to Hollywood.

Barbara Speaks Six Languages

NAME: Barbara Leonard. NICKNAME: "League of Nation's Girl." REASON: She speaks six languages. PROOF: With George Jessel in "Hurdy Gurdy."

Lillian Gish is due in town today or tomorrow. Awaiting her is a vocalloid. Verily and likewise of a truth, "The Swan." Miss Gish gets the first celluloid shot the 21st of this month, with Rod LaRocque and Conrad Nagel preparing to make love to the erstwhile screen Duse.

Lillian Gish.

It is to be even more passionately hoped that Director Paul Stein will exile all bushes, all trees, and all caged or uncaged birds from the lot prior and during work on "The Swan." Miss Gish has a penchant for running around bushes and trees, with a gay and impersonal lover chasing her ala Charlie Paddock. When he catches her, she is conveniently close-upped cooing to a lil' bird just as conveniently around. Leave us have no celluoid race of the century in "The Swan" and no bird acts. All those in favor say aye.

Lina and George Together Again

SCREENALITIES: Festivities in ye Roosevelt Hall 'tother eve when Jack Warner entertained in duo host style the entire "Gold Diggers" cast and likewise his parents. The latter celebrated their fifty-third wedding anniversary, which is a headline in Hollywood. . . . Bryan Foy and Frank Ray, master of ceremonies, amused with a skit. Winnie Lightner and Nancy Welford warbled. Ann Pennington brought the house down with a specialty dance. Um, more fun. The screen alphabet very much present . . . . Lina Basquette and George Duryea playing those big parts in Mrs. Wallace Reid's new production, "The Dude Wrangler," with Francis X. Bushman, Sr., also in foreground. First time Lina and Duryea have teamed since "The Godless Girl." . . . . Rudy Vallee is on the last lap of his initial musik talky for RKO. Direction Mickey Neilan. Rudy seems to like Hollywood. Did ja know the boy blower receives $8,000 a week for his screen hectivities? Lotta dough in or out of a bakery . . . . And—that's all.

Legion to Honor Dr. Herbert Dewar

Dr. Herbert Dewar, past county commander of the American Legion, will be tendered a testimonial dinner by the county committee of the Legion Tuesday night in the William Penn Hotel. The Observatory Post quartet will sing and the Legion orchestra will play. There also will be a vaudeville program. Edward Crump, Jr., is the newly elected county commander.

Guild Hears Talk By J. J. Gorrell

John J. Gorrell, faithful navigator of Fort Pitt General Assembly, Knights of Columbus, and charter member and executive secretary of the Catholic Evidence Guild, spoke at the weekly meeting of the guild last night in the William Penn Hotel. His subject was "The Holiness of the Church." His talk preceded the usual weekly lecture of the Rev. Dr. Jerome D. Hannan.

Mayor Proclaims Grand Opera Week

Mayor Charles H. Kline has issued a proclamation designating the week beginning October 6 as "Grand Opera Week." He requested that "all commercial organizations, cultural and educational centers co-operate by supporting the opening presentation of 'Rigoletto' by the Pittsburgh Grand Opera Company on October 14 in Syria Mosque."

Plays Piano

Manuel Strand, pianist, next week will present special piano arrangements as a new feature of the entertainment in Tracy-Brown's Plaza.

JUST BEFORE DEATH

JEANNE EAGELS

MISS DAVIES SINGS ON SCREEN

Marion Davies, who proved anew her right to be classed as the screen's greatest comedian by her singing and dancing number in "The Hollywood Revue," has a vehicle that offers unusual possibilities for both romance and comedy in "Marianne."

"Marianne," which was directed by Robert Z. Leonard, is Miss Davies' first individual dialogue starring film and presents the star of "The Patsy" and "The Fair Co-ed" in the role of a French peasant girl. The setting of the new production is post-war France, and the two suitors contending for Marianne's affections are a Yankee doughboy and a French soldier.

SIX NEW SONGS

"Marianne" has a male chorus that is said to be reminiscent of the swing and lilt of "The Student Prince" and has a group of six new song numbers that have already become outstanding hits of the day in Los Angeles, where the new film played to capacity attendance at the Mayan Theater. "Blondy," "Just You, Just Me" and "Hang On to Me" are among the most popular of the new numbers, composed by Roy Turk and Fred E. Ahlert, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio staff song writers. Miss Davies not only sings several songs herself, but also shows some of the dancing ability by which she demonstrated her versatility in "The Hollywood Revue."

HAS FRENCH ACCENT

Throughout "Marianne" Miss Davies speaks with a French accent, while Lawrence Gray, who appeared with the star in "The Patsy," has the part of the American after-the-war soldier and sings several of the song numbers. Cliff Edwards, better known to musical comedy followers throughout the country as "Ukulele Ike," has a role in the new picture.

Following the completion of "Marianne," Miss Davies was given one of the most important dialogue parts of the year at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio—that of the title role in "Dulcy," an all-talking adaptation of the stage success of the same name.

Delaplaine, Former Ambassador, Dies

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 5.—Louis S. Delaplaine, 62, last member of a prominent pioneer family and United States ambassador to Demerara, British Guiana, under President Grover Cleveland, died here following a three-day illness.

He gained international fame when he uncovered a plot being formed within the British government to seize the valuable platinum mines near the border of Dutch Guiana. He was granted an American battleship to enforce the rights in behalf of the British. As a result, he was granted two islands in Crane Lake, near Perry Sound, Canada, by Queen Victoria.

Fire in the lampblack department of the Eagle Paint Works, South avenue, North Side, early today damaged the building to the extent of $200.

EAGELS' DEATH LAID TO DRUG

NEW YORK, Oct. 5. — (AP.) — Chemical analysis showed today that Jeanne Eagels, the Sadie Thompson of "Rain," died of an overdose of a drug taken to induce sleep and thus free the actress temporarily from hallucinations due to an alcoholic psychosis.

For four days Miss Eagels had been suffering from these hallucinations. For two days she had not taken a drink, although a quantity of alcohol still remained in her body when it was analyzed yesterday.

She went with her secretary Thursday night to the office of her doctor, who had been treating her for a nervous disorder, to undergo an examination. In his reception room she fell dead. An autopsy performed immediately indicated that the alcoholic psychosis was the cause of death, but the laboratory analysis showed that it was the drug that actually killed.

Her body lay today in a bronze and silver casket in a funeral parlor in the theatrical district, on view to the many who wished to bid her a last farewell. This afternoon the body will be sent for burial to Kansas City where a mass will be conducted next Tuesday.

8 Arrested in Dry Drive in Russellton

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Oct. 5.—"We're out to clean up Russellton," declared G. W. Hutchinson today, in reporting the first of a series of raids planned against violators of the liquor laws, which resulted in eight persons being bound over to court by Justice Chester Sproul, Blawnox.

Hutchinson led 20 state police in raids against eight places in Russellton and vicinity, which netted large quantities of intoxicants and paraphernalia.

BILLY HOUSE ONCE ON RANCH

Billy House, the rotund comedian in "Luckee Girl," the musical comedy to be presented here next week, hails from the Lone Star state. He started out to ride bronchos and devote his career to the cattle country, but Dame Nature stepped in and Billy could not find horses of adequate size and patience to tote his huge bulk with sufficient speed. House then became a member of the "stake and chain" gang with one of the "big tops." From then on, his rise in the world of amusements was rapid, and today he occupies a high place in the realm of comedy. The opening performance of "Luckee Girl" takes place at Syria Mosque and beginning Tuesday it will be shown in the Shubert Alvin.

One of the outstanding features of "A Connecticut Yankee," which comes to the Nixon Monday is its musical score. Several of the songs are familiarly known here. The story has to do with the wanderings of a 1928 American through the Court of King Arthur in the year 528, when knights were in flower and men were men. It is made possible by the dream world route and the various episodes are treated with satire, humor and subtle comedy.

COMEDY IN PITT

Laurence E. Johnson's three-act comedy drama, "What Anne Brought Home," will be presented next week in the Pitt by the George Sharp Players. The cast will include Kenneth Daigneau, Pauline MacLean, Alice Ann Baker, Lucette Parker, Gus Forbes, Myra Lehr, Robert Fiske, Allen Moore and Frank R. Armstrong.

"Four Devils" comes to the Penn screen Monday. This is a F. W. Murnau production with Fox Movietone sequences. The story deals with back-stage life of circus folk. The cast includes Janet Gaynor, Mary Duncan, Charles Morton, Nancy Drexel, Barry Norton and Farrell Macdonald.

LOST SHIPS IN STANLEY

Should she marry a loathsome brute of a man or a condemned murderer? That's the choice that confronts Virginia Valli in "The Isle of Lost Ships," current film in the Stanley. Noah Beery and Jason Robards are cast in prominent roles. It is an all-talkie. The stage show is "In Old Japan."

Edmund Lowe, who so realistically handles the role of the slangy, leathernecked Sergt. Quirt in "The Cock-Eyed World," which will open a second week Monday in the Aldine, is really a very dressy and refined chap in private life, having been graduated from one of our leading universities. Off screen one of his favorite pastimes is reading the very best literature. Fact!

NEW BILLS TODAY

Complete new shows open in the Sheridan Square and Harris today. The new feature all-talking picture in both theaters will be "Oh Yeah," with Robert Armstrong and James Gleason. Victor Graff, in the Sheridan Square, and Lou Parker, in the Harris, will handle the stage shows.

The infatuation of a young medical student for a very sophisticated actress, forms the basis for the plot of "The Careless Age," all-talking film, opening in the Enright today. On the stage Dick Powell presents "Bells and Belles."

"Gold Diggers of Broadway" will continue as the attraction on the

S. HILLS POST ELECTS

Commander, Wm. M. Stieren, Jr.; vice-commander, Edward A. Zc; fel; vice-commander, C. E. Hartzel; adjutant, Ronald L. Thompson; financial officer, Arch B. Charles; chaplain, Edmund E. Puhlman; sergeant at arms, Wm. W. Lapsley; historian, J. R. Breen; director, three years, Robt. C. Kelley; director, one year, Robt. Steele, Jr.; county delegates, Walter Kelly and John B. Nicklas, Jr., county alternates, Dr. T. M. Stahlman, Ralph W. Creps and M. B. Potochnik.

The newly installed executive committee will meet Tuesday, October 15, to formulate a program and select committees for the coming year. Past Commander Ronald L. Thompson reported a successful year.

Steiner Fined $250 On Gambling Charge

Emil Steiner, of Shady avenue, alleged slot machine racketeer, convicted March 11, last, of maintaining a gambling device, was haled into Criminal Court before Judge Elder W. Marshall yesterday, nearly seven months later and sentenced to pay $250 fine and the costs. Congressman Harry Estep, his attorney, was in Washington when others were sentenced last spring. It was testified Steiner had placed a slot machine in a road house.

Will Rogers Says

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Oct. 5.

Mr. Hoover certainly ought to feel relieved to have the Senate say to him, "you have nothing to do with this tariff, let us fix it." What a hole that let him out of. The best he could get was the worst of it.

Even Mr. Coolidge, as cautious as he was when he was the head man, got in wrong by just lowering the tariff on some kind of quail (I think it was bass-singing quail) or something.

That's the only change he made in six years with the tariff just on the poor little innocent quails. Yet it brought down on him the wrath of the Catholic, the Protestant, the Kiwanis, Daughters of all Revolutions, Home for Snowbound Birds Association, Senator Borah and the Democrats, so the Senate accidentally favored the President.

Yours, WILL.

Bush Praised by Boss. Called Second McGraw. Add Seats to Stadium.

HONUS RATES GRIMM'S RETURN FACTOR

THE only Pirate world series heroes of the past who remain in business here are picking the Cubs to defeat the Athletics for the big title. They are Honus Wagner and Charles (Deacon) Phillippe, staid businessmen now, but in years gone by two of the greatest of the great in baseball. Both think that the Bruins have an edge, but that the series will go the limit, or come very close to doing so, before a decision is reached.

Honus Wagner.

And these two must be classed among the few conservative baseball men who do not permit their old league affiliations to influence their judgment. They like the chances of the Chicago club because they believe it is slightly the better team and not merely because it is representing the circuit in which they won their fame.

In fact, it took three weeks to pry an opinion out of Wagner. He would not commit himself until the pennant races were practically over, saying that the outlook might be changed by an injury to some star player of one club or the other.

LAST night Honus consented to talk, and it developed that he had been waiting for assurance that Charley Grimm would be able to appear at first base for the National Leaguers. "If Grimm is in good playing trim I think that the Cubs will have a slight edge," said the immortal ex-Pirate. "I consider him a big factor in the series. The Bruins would have had a chance without him, perhaps, but they'll have a better one with him in there.

"It isn't merely Grimm's fielding ability that counts, nor the fact that he is a fine mark for the Cub infielders to throw at. It is his experience and steadiness, big items in a money series, that will help the Cubs, together with the certainty that his presence in the lineup will increase the confidence of every other member of the team. True, the Pirates won the world series of 1909 against Detroit in spite of a change at first base, but that change—Hyatt for Abstein—was not made until the final game, when Babe Adams gave us shutout pitching.

"THE teams are evenly matched, and I think the series will very nearly go the limit. McCarthy's pitching on the whole may not shape up as likely to be quite as good as Mack's, but I believe that will be offset by the possession of such a hitter as Hornsby and the superiority of the Chicago outfield.

"Neither club is well fixed in all departments, as championship clubs go. Each has its weak spots. There is no question that the A's will have the better catching, but otherwise it looks to me as if the National Leaguers will have a slight advantage.

Charley Grimm.

"FAST-BALL pitching is likely to cut a figure in the result. It always does in a world series, because in October there is something in the air that makes speed hard to hit. That's what makes Malone look to me like Chicago's best pitching bet. Grove and Walberg, of course, have terrific speed, and Earnshaw is fast, too, though he mixes them up to a greater extent than the two left-handers. But the Cubs have shown that they like speed more than the A's like it, and consequently they will not be so greatly handicaped against fast-ball pitching under October conditions as their opponents will be. It will be a hard fight, but I like the chances of the Bruins."

PHILLIPPE also looks for a tough tussle that will not fall very far short of going the full distance of seven games. "The clubs are very evenly matched in my opinion," said the once great hurler who almost won the world title single-handed for the Pirates in 1903, "but I think the Cubs have a little the better of it.

"The A's best pitchers are left-handers, and the Cub lineup is made up of right-hand hitters with the exception of Grimm. Right-hand batters naturally like to hit against southpaws. Only eight National League left-handers have beaten the Chicago club this year, and though it is assumed that Grove and Walberg are better than the left-handers in the older league, that is something that remains to be proved.

"IT HAS been shown that speed will not stop the cubs, so unless Mack's fast-ball pitching is extraordinary it will be a hard job for Grove and Walberg to check McCarthy's hitters. A slow ball or a spitball pitcher, not a left-hand fast-ball specialist is the kind that will bother the Cubs.

"For that reason I think that a good Philadelphia bet being generally overlooked is old Jack Quinn. You know what Grimes did to the Cubs this year. Well, Quinn might make just as much trouble for them with a spitter, and a slow ball kept over the plate."

Charles A. Comiskey.

THE highest tribute yet paid to Donie Bush since he signed to manage the Chicago White Sox for the next two years comes from the man who hired him and gave him what Bush says is the best contract he ever had in his life. Charles A. Comiskey, veteran owner of the Sox, goes so far as to express the belief that he has in Bush another John McGraw, and is lavish in his praise of the former Pirate leader. When Comiskey calls Bush a second McGraw it is an idea of the biggest boost that can be given to any one in baseball, for not only does the Chicago magnate rate McGraw as "the greatest ball player of all time," but adds: 'McGraw was a wonderful man for a ball club and he has proved as valuable as a manager. He inspires, teaches, and holds the respect of his players."

IN DISCUSSING Bush at his summer home near Rhinelander, Wis., Comiskey said: "I used to love to watch him play. He was a smart, clever, knowing player. Nothing escaped him. I admired him also as manager of the Pirates. I am glad to have signed him, and I know he will give Chicago and me the ball club the city deserves.

"Bush is a second John McGraw. It's the first move in bringing back a championship team to the South Side of Chicago. Our team is a good team, a young team. It is ready now for the right leader—a man who can inspire, teach and direct, a man on the order of John McGraw. I have that man in Donie Bush."

SIGNS continue to indicate that when Notre Dame's famous football stars come here to meet Carnegie Tech at The Stadium three weeks from today, the crowd in attendance will come close to being the largest that ever witnessed a sport event of any kind in this city.

Huge advance sales are reported both at the Schenley Park school athletic offices and in South Bend, and many mail orders are being received daily from graduates of the two institutions residing in various parts of the country.

Bernard W. Conroy.

THE demand for box seats, in particular, has been so heavy that Clarence Overend, graduate manager of athletics at Carnegie Tech, finds it necessary to provide extra accommodations. In front of four central sections on each side of the big field special boxes will be erected. These will seat 500 persons, 250 on each side. It will be the first time that extra seats have been built for any sport attraction at The Stadium. The big allotment of tickets sent to South Bend is being disposed of rapidly, according to word received from Bernard W. Conroy, associate manager of football at Notre Dame this year. Conroy is a New Kensington boy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Conroy, of 1109 Kenneth avenue, that place. He is secretary of the senior class at Notre Dame, and will be graduated next spring with a Bachelor of Arts degree.

ALL-STAR GRID CARD TODAY

CARDINALS FACE PETTY IN OPENER

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

The Pirates will close their home season this afternoon with a double-header, the Cardinls being the attraction. As the Buccos prepared for the bargain bill they were just about assured of second-place honors. The Giants, rained out yesterday, can play only three more games.

Today's Lineup

First Game.

CARDINALS	PIRATES
Douthit, mf.	Bartell, 2b.
Orsatti, 1b.	L. Waner, mf.
Wilson, c.	P. Waner, rf.
Hafey, lf.	Traynor, 3b.
High, 2b.	Mosolf, lf.
Roettger, rf.	Hemsley, c.
Butler, 3b.	Sheely, 1b.
Gelbert, ss.	Clarke, ss.
Johnson, p.	Petty, p.

They are the same number behind the Buccos, who also have three to stage. Therefore, the best the Giants can expect is a tie for the runner-up money, and the Pirates will try to see to it that there will be no likelihood of a tie before this day is over. The first game starts at 1:30.

MANY HURLERS READY

Manager Ens has a flock of pitchers ready for the two clashes with the Redbirds, the first-string sharpshooters enjoying much rest since the two clubs competed in St. Louis last Sunday. Jess Petty is likely to get the task of making second money sure for the Oaklanders. Grimes, Brame, Kremer and others also are available, but if the first battle ends in a triumph for the home team the second position will have been clinched and the boss of the team may use Ralph Erickson or Leon Chagnon in the second game.

The Pirates enjoyed an off day yesterday on top of their long and tiresome barnstorming tour. The members of the club are all anxious for the curtain which will be rung down tomorrow in Chicago in a single game with the Cubs.

Quite a few players already have been dismissed for the year and it is likely that several others will be foot loose after the dual bill of this afternoon.

ENS TO STAY OVER

Manager Ens will remain over in Pittsburgh for something like two weeks. Jewel has a family of two children, he having made his home in the East End during the summer. Ens' home town is St. Louis, but Mrs Ens is a Pittsburgher so that the pilot may see his way clear to spend a part of his off-season time in Pittsburgh in deference to his helpmate's wishes. They may leave for St. Louis about the middle of the month.

Ens and Owner Dreyfuss probably will have a series of conferences with regard to strengthening the club for next year. Pilot Jewel is fully aware of the fact that the club needs at least one more dependable infielder and he would like to pickup a couple who could hit run and field.

The pitching situation also will come in for much study. Jewel has the nucleus of a good staff, but there is plenty of room for improvement was what evidenced when Grimes was out for five weeks.

Tronia Britton Wins Grand Circuit Stake

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Good, but not sensational racing was seen on the fifth day of the grand circuit meeting here yesterday. Tronia Britton, owned by James P. Berry, of Hartford, Conn., and driven by W. T. Crozier, of the same city, winning the Ashland Stake.

Second in point of interest was the 2:13 pace in which the Indiana Gelding, Enoch Guy, Paced the final heat in 2:01½, the fastest heat of the meeting to date.

Shannopin Women Lead Highlanders

The women's team of the Shannopin Country Club defeated the Highland Country Club, 9 to 0, in the first 18-hole round of the 36-hole golf match for the championship of the two clubs. It was played at Highland yesterday. The last 18 holes will be played at Shannopin next Wednesday.

KISER SCORES EASY WIN OVER GANS

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Fighting his customary going-away-from-there fight, refusing to lead and constantly cocking his right for counter punches, California Joe Gans, Negro lightweight, of McKeesport, dropped a 10-round decision to Ray Kiser, larruping Chicagoan, in the windup at the Moose Temple last night. As usual, Gans coasted right down to the finish, even ignoring the referee's injunctions to open up and do some leading. All he wanted to do was to stab out his left from time to time and throw that right. He absorbed a bad pasting, which he might have avoided if he hadn't been so right-hand crazy and downright lazy in his fighting, and the final bell was a welcome sound to his ears. He was in trouble at the finish of the ninth round and again midway in the last session, when, for almost a half-minute, he covered and dodged and squirmed on the ropes as Kiser assaulted him with everything he could throw, and, when the fight was over, it was a tired and badly battered Gans that turned to his corner for a rest.

Kiser, a lusty swinger who appears to like to fight, didn't impress one as being a good enough ringman to do those things to a veteran of Gans' craginess and skill, but he did them just the same, and probably half of his success was due to the beaten man himself. If Gans ever wakes up and starts to do some leading, few opponents will be able to reach him effectively. As matters stand now, however, he is a mark for any strong-jawed youngster who can take a right on the chin coming in and then keep blazing away. Kiser won every round last night by the simple expedient of doing all of the fighting.

COLLECTION FOR WIDOW

Just before the main bout went on, a collection was taken up for the widow and child of Johnny Michaels, the boxer who died a few days ago as a result of injuries received in an automobile accident downtown last Sunday morning. The crowd responded liberally, contributing $211.20. The collection was engineered by Announcer Ray Eberle and a committee including George Kelly, A. R. Millay, Goodie Sulken, William (Socks) Powell and Charles Comoroda, all friends of the dead boxer, who also made an earlier collection totaling approxi-

35,000 TO VIEW PITT-DUKE BATTLE

By JESS CARVER,
Staff Correspondent.

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 5.—Before a colorful crowd which is expected to number more than 35,000, a new attendance record for the South, the varsity elevens of Pitt and Duke will battle here today in the latter's new stadium. The game is the feature presentation of the dedicatory ceremony of the local school's new stadium, and has attracted a veritable mob which has filled every local hotel and rooming house and spread to the hospitable hostelries of Chapel Hill, home of the University of North Carolina, a dozen miles distant.

Special trains from New York, Washington and Baltimore came bearing returning alumni of Duke, most of whom were students here when Duke was known as Trinity College. Heading this influx of prominent easterners are the John J. Raskob and the Tony Biddle, Jr. They are all here to see the new stadium and cheer their heads off for Duke, but from the way in which they have been trying to crash the doors of Carolina Inn, exclusive Chapel Hill Hotel, where Pitt has been in seclusion, I think they are very anxious to get a peep or two at the highly-touted Pitt eleven.

PANTHERS FAMED

Pitt rules a strong favorite to down the local Southerners. Jimmy DeHarts' club is considered to be many degrees stronger than any other eleven Duke has ever boasted, but they tell me, folks who should know, that the team lacks experience, and that the line is not the sort of forward wall calculated to checkmate the power of a Pitt eleven's attack. There isn't much betting, but what there is favors Pitt to win by three touchdowns. I

PITT, TARTANS AND DUKES IN ACTION

Headed by the feature Duquesne-West Virginia game at Morgantown, the tristate district presents an all-star collegiate football card today as its share of the nation's sweeping program. With the Dukes playing in Morgantown and Pitt in Durham, N. C., it remains for Carnegie Tech to furnish Pittsburgh proper with its gridiron entertainment at the stadium.

Every eleven in the section will see action this afternoon, the first time this year that such has been the case. St. Francis attends to this, making a belated opening with Grove City.

The Panthers are assisting Duke University, coached by Jimmy DeHart, former Pitt all-America quarterback, to dedicate a new stadium. The occasion marks the first time in history that a Pitt football team has invaded below the Mason-Dixon line, and also marks the first athletic meeting between Duke and the local university.

DUKES IN BIG TEST

Thiel comes here for a game with the Tartans, the first and only time that the Lutherans will show here this season. A year ago the team made three distinct trips here, playing Pitt, Tech and the Dukes. The game today will be the second for both elevens, Carnegie having opened up a week ago against Bethany in Wheeling, and Thiel hopping off with Temple, in Philadelphia.

Duquesne's game with West Virginia occupies an important niche in the Eastern program for the day. If the Dukes win, they'll be sitting pretty for the remainder of the year, for a victory over the Mountaineers will boost the Bluff stock to a higher point than last year's win over Wash-Jeff. On the other hand, the Mountaineers, still feeling the sting of last week's setback at the hands of small but powerful Davis-Elkins, is determined to turn back the aspiring threat of the Catholics.

Allegheny having opened its season by playing Geneva to a 13-13 tie, meets another tri-state rival in Westminster. This game is booked

PIE WRITES STORY

PIE TRAYNOR

Traynor, captain and third base star of the Pittsburgh Pirates, writing the first of his series of exclusive stories for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph on the world series. It will appear in Sunday's issue. Don't miss it. He'll leave with Charley Doyle and Jim Long tonight for Chicago to be on the ground early for the series opener Tuesday and will have a daily story.

THIEL ELEVEN STRONGER THAN IN 1928

LUTHERANS SET TO GIVE ALL FOES BATTLE

(This is the sixteenth of an annual series of special articles, written by Jess Carver, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph football writer, dealing with the prospects of tri-state college and preparatory school teams. The article on Grove City, with photos of the Crimson in action, will appear in Sunday's issue.)

Any tears you may have been prepared to shed for the football cause at Thiel College may as well be saved for a more worthy object. The Lutherans, under the direction of jovial Tink Rowley, are going to do very well, thank you, and will admit, with little persuasion, that the eleven figures to be stronger than that of 1928.

Aware that the great Stan Berkman was gone, and that Bliston and Thompson, two fine tackles, also had graduated, there were those who voiced the belief that Thiel was in for a touch campaign. Until I had a chance to talk with Tink and Jack Stober, and a few of the boys themselves, I too was a bit inclined toward the pessimistic side with regards to Thiel.

WILL BE TOUGH

Thiel will not win all of its games, by far, for Temple, Fordham and Carnegie Tech hardly figure to take smackings at the paws of Rowley's charges, but Geneva, Allegheny, Grove City and Waynesburg, to say nothing of Ashland, appear to be in for some torrid Saturday afternoons.

Thiel won only one game last fall, beating Juniata, but the eleven carried Pitt three periods before the Panthers could score; tallied twice on Carnegie Tech and tied both Grove City and Allegheny, elevens doped as sure winners over the Lutherans.

The squad with which Coach Rowley is working this fall isn't a large one, but it includes some pretty good sticks of football timber. The line figures to be a rugged one, with two light and fast backs combined with two heavier ball toters running behind. Defensively, Thiel looks to be a great deal stronger than last year.

THE ENDS

Two of the 14 lettermen on the squad of about twice that number are ends, and so far, have the starting jobs well in hand. Kurtz and Paluselli are a fast and experienced set of wingmen. Kurtz especially, having won no little regard i.n the tri-state section by his fine terminal play for the last three years.

This duo will be understudied by Garthwaite, a sophomore, and Colp and Bane, two hefty freshmen. Colp gives indication of developing into a star of the first magnitude.

THE TACKLES

Dimperio, a junior, Frank, a sturdy sophomore, Costin, another second-year man, Lowe, a squad member last year, and Elwood, a 190-pound freshman, are the babies after the tackle jobs. Dimperio and Frank, with the greatest experience, and possibly a step ahead of the others in class, have drawn down the starting jobs.

Costin rates a third choice, but is certain to see enough service to assure him of his second football letter.

THE GUARDS

Leonard, playing his third year of varsity ball, a letterman, and Frampton, a 195-pound fella, are in there at the guards, harder than ever. Both are fine defensively, with Frampton making out well as a running guard.

Reimold is close on the heels of the starting pair, seeking his third letter, and Hahne and Knopp, the latter having had some experience last fall, are the first-string reservists.

THE CENTER

Red Lindquist, a veteran, is back again at center, and is being counted upon heavily by Coach Rowley. In the past, his one weakness has been his passing. Corrective measures, stringent ones, have been taken, with the result that Red looks to be in for a big year. He will be assisted by Stelzer, a freshman, and Holl, a sophomore.

THE BACKFIELD

Little Mike Mitchell, weighing hardly 140 pounds soaking wet, has been sent to quarterback in the place of Beckman, his usual place at halfback being taken by Wardle, another light but elusive back. Schilling, another veteran and a fine kicker, is paired off with Wardle and Shemick, a 185-pound freshman, is at fullback.

Coach Rowley, who intends to continue to employ the Pitt style of play, with variations of his own (making his game a bit more open), will find Schilling and Mitchell well adapted to his style of play. The entire backfield can pass, everyone of the four.

Patrini, a freshman, is being developed as a reserve quarterback. Morris and Suscavish, lettermen, are the reserve halves and Myers, another monogram winner, is at halfback.

THE SCHEDULE

There isn't a soft spot on the entire schedule. Temple University, played last Saturday, opened the campaign. The game with Tech today follows, and next week, Waynesburg will be in Greenville for a Conference battle. Geneva follows, to be played at Beaver Falls, and then comes the annual clash with Westminster, at Greenville.

Meeting Allegheny at Meadville, Ashland, at Ashland, O., and then drilling a week, the Lutherans will go back to the East for a game in New York with Fordham. The season will close Thanksgiving Day with the annual game against Grove City.

RACES OFF

BOSTON, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—The races for the National championship of the American Power Boat Association were postponed yesterday when a strong wind made the Charles River waters too choppy.

PITT, DUKES IN ACTION

for Meadville. Westminster was defeated a week ago by Fordham, and can hardly hope to down the strong Methodist eleven today.

TOUGH NUT FOR GENEVA

Geneva also has another tough nut to crack. The Covenanters are hosts to St. Canisus at Beaver Falls. St. Canisus is said to be extra strong this fall and figures to give Mack Flenniken's lads a bit of an argument.

Grove City engages St. Francis at Grove City, seeking redress for the 7-7 tie of a year ago. Bethany meets the Fairmont Teachers, at Bethany, and Waynesburg takes on another set of Teachers in Indiana.

Davis-Elkins, with two victories and no defeat to date, begins its hard road schedule by playing St. Louis University, in St. Louis. West Virginia Wesleyan will send its crack backfield combination of Battles, Bachtel, Miller and Rodriguez against New York University at the Polo Grounds in New York. So popular is the Bobcat eleven in New York that the game is expected to be played before a crowd of 30,000.

LIONS PLAY LEBANON

Penn State plays dangerous Lebanon Valley, one of the old established early-season foes that always gives the Lions a ball game.

Wash-Jeff., with one triumph over an Ohio opponent on the books, essays to make it two in a row by conquering Ashland at Washington. St. Vincent's plays Edinboro, at Latrobe.

Other important games scheduled for the day throughout the country include the Nebraska-Southern Methodist game at Lincoln; Notre Dame's clash with the Indians at Bloomington; the Amherst-Princeton clash at Princeton; the Georgia Tech-Mississippi Aggie battle at Atlanta; the Wisconsin-Colgate intersectional morsel at Madison, and Stanford's test against Oregon, at Palo Alto.

W. VA. TO USE RESERVES

MORGANTOWN, Oct. 5.—West Virginia University's eleven which will meet Duquesne University here this afternoon, will be spotted with reserves in all probability. A report from Dr. Sam Morris, team physician, indicated that Nelson Lang, veteran right end; Ike Lewis, regular right guard; Clint Carrico, veteran center, and two veteran left halfbacks, Eddie Stumpp and Bus Larue, will not be fit to start, but will likely be ready for duty if absolutely needed.

PANTHERS SET FOR DUKE

think the Panthers will do that well without great trouble.

On top of this, the Blue Devils may take the field against Pitt this afternoon minus three of their star performers, including the captain of the eleven, Walter Brewer, halfback, suffered a broken ankle in practice Wednesday, and can hardly be called on for action today. Captain Kistler, toting a pair of bum knees and ill most of the past week, is an extremely doubtful starter. Johnny Janoski, the regular fullback, will have to leave his sick bed to get in the lineup, he having been confined there with an attack of grippe following the game with Mercer last Saturday.

As matters stand at present, Duke figures to line up somewhat in this fashion: Hyatt and Peelet, ends; Carpenter and Thorne, tackles; Friedman, center and Warren and Taylor, guards.

BUIE PASSING ACE

In the backfield, the passing ace, Sammy Buie, will be posted at one half, paired off with the other member of the passing act, Glenn Roberson. Buzz Rosky is to play quarterback and run the team and O. C. Godfrey will be at fullback.

The Pitt lineup stands as it has since the final week of training camp. Joe Donchess and Bill Loehr are to start as ends; Tully and Jimmy McMurdo at tackles; Capt. Al Dimeolo and Ray Montgomery at the guards and Ralph Daugherty at center.

Eddie Baker will be at quarterback, with Williams and Uansa at the halves and Tom Parkinson, the season's all-America backfield, hope, at full.

The game is expected to develop into the Duke's testing the all-around power of an unusually strong Pitt attack, with Pitt stressing its defense against the aerial attack of the Blue Devils.

The town is decorated in gala attire, every window has gridiron display of one sort or other. Some of them are fine. Hotels are crowded, restaurants advertising special meal schedules so as to be able to handle the big crowd of outsiders. Pre-game dances, three or four of 'em, enlivened the celebrating last night. The arrival of the second Pitt contingent, led by the Panther band, and a subsequent parade through the streets of the town kept interest at high pitch this morning. Both teams are in seclusion.

Governor Max Gardner and a number of guests from Raliegh, Walter P. Andrews, grand exalted ruler of the Elks, and other prominent southern personages led the invasion of Southland people and mingled in general football whoopee with those from the North.

GOVERNOR TO ATTEND

The game is scheduled for two o'clock. Both bands, Pitt and Duke will be in the stands an hour previous and will alternate in offering musical diversion for the early arrivals. The raising of the American Flag and the ceremonies attending the dedication of the stadium will take place beginning at 1:30 p. m.

Maxie Strub Wins Over Sammy Lupica

ERIE, Pa., Oct. 5.—Maxie Strub, Erie lightweight, outclassed Sammy Lupica, Toledo, in the 10-round main bout here last night. It was the Erie boy's fight all the way.

In the six-round semi-final, Johnny Sacco, Buffalo Negro, gained the decision over Ray Collins, Erie, by a whirlwind finish in the last two rounds, after the local boy had piled up an early margin.

Johnny Pial, Greenville, Pa., was awarded the decision over Jack Lewis, Buffalo Negro, in another six-rounder, while in the curtain raiser Jack Hernandez, Erie, registered a technical knockout over Al Jennings Buffalo Negro, in the third.

Mitchell is the quarterback star of the Thiel College eleven, of Greenville, Pa., which battles Carnegie Tech in The Stadium this afternoon in the Plaid's first appearance of the season on the home soil. He weighs less than 150 pounds, but is a dangerous veteran player.

GOOD SANDLOT CARD TODAY

GAMES TODAY

Blawnox at Hope-Harvey Majestics (Phipps Grounds.)
Arnold Independents at Glasport Odds.
Homewood Tylers at East Liverpool.
Pleasant Valley Smilers at Ambridge Mystics.

Followers of the independent gridiron will have a number of good games this afternoon. On the North Side, the ever-popular Art Rooney will flash the makeup, of his 1929 Hope-Harvey Majestics for the fans' approval. There is every indication Rooney will have one of the best independent clubs in the district with a number of college stars in his lineup. Andy Cutler, former Pitt star, Cad Reese, Pete Calec, Woofty Wild, Noggler, Sweeney and Karcis, brother of the Carnegie Tech star, will be under the famous Hope-Harvey colors, and fans will see a real machine stack up against Blawnox.

McKeesport fans will have the Arnold Independents to look over, opposed to the Glassport Odds. Jimmy Hess handles the Arnold club and this peppery boy from Tarentum feels he has an aggregation capable of beating the Odds.

The Ambridge Mystics, showing at the Junior High School Field, will meet the Pleasant Valley Smilers. Seeing that the Richardson-coached club has made great showings against Burns and McKeesport Olympics, it may be assumed Ambridge is going to have a battle. Pat Connore is getting together another good club, and is considering a championship aspirant.

The other game will find the Homewood Tylers meeting East Liverpool at the pottery town. East Liverpool has the reputation of a real club, one that is going to play quite a part in the title race this fall. Pat Daley feels his club can make them all step.

Oklahoma Aggies Bow to Drake, 18-6

DES MOINES, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Drake University opened the defense of its Missouri Valley football title by defeating the Oklahoma Aggies, 18 to 6, here last night. Lynn King, Bulldog quarterback, intercepted a pass and raced 65 yards to a touchdown in the only spectacular play on the contest.

Arsenal and South Hills Soccer Victors

Arsenal and South Hills High Schools captured scholastic soccer games yesterday. The Arsenal eleven nosed out Herron Hill, 2 to 1, while the Tunnelites walloped Latimer, 5 to 0.

NATIONAL CUP TIES ON TAP

GAMES TODAY.

NATIONAL CUP.

Thomas Run at Pierpont Motors.
Cecil at Pittsburgh Celtics.

National Tube at Union Switch.
Pittsburgh Rovers at Lewis A. C.
Clan Douglas at Crafton Heights.

BEAVER VALLEY LEAGUE.

Midland at Sewickly.
Beaver Falls at New Castle.

By TOM BIRKS.

Local soccerites will have a number of well-balanced games this afternoon to become enthused over. Leading the list will be two National cup ties and both give the idea that 90 minutes of hectic soccer will be on tap.

The first will be played at the Homewood playgrounds, where the Thomas Run team of the Chartiers Valley League, will oppose the Pierpont Motors. The other battle will be played at Leslie Park, Cecil A. C., another Chartiers Valley stalwart, meeting the Pittsburgh Celtics. One thing nice about the Chartiers Valley clubs, they give the fans much to think about while on the soccer field.

The District League finds Union Switch stacking up with the McKeesport Tubers, and seeing that the Switch boys struck a good stride last Saturday, Swissvale fans want to see this form kept up.

The Pittsburgh Rovers will invade new territory, meeting the Lewis A. C. at Blaw-Knox. The other game will find Clan Douglas, also in new stamping grounds, opposing Crafton Heights, at Crafton. Steve Horlick's Beaver Valley League will swing into action with two games. The Beaver Falls outfit opens at New Castle, and Midland plays at Sewickley.

WESTINGHOUSE HIGH SHOWS GREAT FORM

Westinghouse High School handed Allegheny High School a 30-to-0 drubbing in their intersectional battle on the Oliver High field yesterday afternoon. The Silver Lakers, city champions, showed all of the form that swept them through to the title last year, and Allegheny, despite the fact it proved a courageous outfit, was hardly its match. Benze and Showboat Ware, Westinghouse backs, were the outstanding players. Ware had three touchdowns, Gahagen and Rentler scoring one each. McIlveen missed five points after touchdown.

PEABODY SURPRISED

Peabody High was surprised when Scott High, of North Braddock, ended their engagement on the long end of an 18-6 score on the North Braddock gridiron. The teams were deadlocked in the first half, Kliskey, Berthold, Coulter, Orris and Sulley combining to score the win in the latter period. North Braddock registered 12 first downs to the East Enders' none in the last two quarters.

Shady Side Academy continued its good work, Coach Howard Harpster's Fox Chapel Road eleven whipping Perry High, 51 to 0, scoring in every period. The game was featured by the 60-yard run for touchdown made by Reuter after receiving a forward pass. Martin intercepted a forward pass and ran 65 yards to score.

Hasson, Hayes and Patrizio combined to give Oakmont High an overwhelming 20-0 win over Ben Avon, while Stowe Township high nosed out Crafton by a 7-0 score.

NEW CASTLE VICTOR

In its second night game, New Castle set down a fighting Aliquippa High outfit, 13 to 6, at New Castle. It was New Castle's nine that stopped the Beaver Valley eleven. Forward passing was used extensively, Hannon and Crevar were the stars. The lineup:

JAMES (CHIPPY) DE STOUT

DeStout, star shortstop of the Mine Safety team, champion of the East End Commercial and Industrial Baseball League for two successive seasons, has just signed a contract to play for Casey Stengel's Toledo club, of the American Association, next season. He is one of the best ground-coverers in this section and a good hitter.

HORAN GETS ACE

M. F. Horan scored a hole in one on the 152-yard seventh hole at the Castle Shannon Golf Club yesterday. He was playing with J. D. Counahan.

KISER SCORES EASY WIN

Frankie Porto, veteran featherweight, of Glassport, used all of his resourcefulness to go the limit of six rounds with Johnny Dunn, New Kensington star, in the semi-final. He ducked and dodged and used every inch of the new 18-foot square ring and kept flashing in and out with punches to keep the bout interesting, although onesided in view of Dunn's clever boxing and stiff straight punching.

The announcer was unable to introduce the principals in this bout for the boxing that following the decision in the second bout, in which Andy Andrucci, East End lightweight, outboxed and outhit Eddie Brannon, Negro, of the Hill, in every round but the first, which was even, only to have the judges disagree and the referee's decision go to Brannon. It was a ridiculous verdict and the crowd had a right to howl loud and long.

Judge Red Robinson's vote went to Andrucci, but Judge Frank Ferris and the referee both agreed on Brannon.

NEW REFEREE APPEARS

In the six-round opener, Tom Malco, of Soho, proved too rugged for Cowboy De Luca, of Lawrenceville, and handed him a bad body beating to win the decision.

Jim McLaughlin, of Braddock, erstwhile judge, made his bout as a referee and handled all of the bouts. He was a bit slow warming up to his task, but improved as he went along and appears to have the makings of another efficient arbiter.

The club is trying to line up an opponent for Young Rudy, of Charleroi, in the windup next Friday night. Last night's house was close to capacity.

The Perlick Twins, of Milwaukee, Herman and Henry, who box Marty Silvers, of Brooklyn, and Joey Goodman, of Cleveland, respectively, in the double windup at Motor Square Garden Monday night, arrived today and worked out in the Garden gym this afternoon. Silvers will get in tomorrow and Goodman on Monday morning. K. O. Blackburn, of Louisville, the opponent of George Panka, the heavyweight knockout sensation, of Homestead, is expected in tomorrow morning. U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington, and Young Corsey, of Canton, O., will come in Monday in time to weigh in for their opening bout.

Heine Blaustein, of Baltimore, trainer of Joe and Vince Dundee, the welterweight stars, attended the Moose Club show last night. He came in from Chicago, where he seconded Vince against Jackie Fields a few nights ago. Heine is managing Sylvan Bass, also of Baltimore, and may bring him in here for a bout soon.

Paul Balint and Johnny Haggerty have been matched to box in one of the preliminaries to the Tiger Joe Randall-Joe Corelli bout at Johnstown, October 17.

PERRY NOW MANAGER

Harry Smith and Harry Martone box a 10-round bout in New York tonight.

SALEM BOWS TO BROADDUS

SALEM, W. Va., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Broaddus College defeated Salem College, 6 to 0, yesterday, the line touchdown of the game having been scored in the last period. Matia, Broaddus quarterback, returned a punt from the Salem 45-yard line to make the tally.

In addition to the showing of Matia, the performance of Snow, Broaddus fullback, was outstanding. Coach Meredith's newly-assembled Salem machine worked fairly smooth, but lacked the punch to combat a stubborn defense.

The contest was close throughout, first downs being five to four in favor of the visitors.

GLENNA PLAYS MRS. PRESSLER IN FINAL

BULLETIN.

BIRMINGHAM, Mich., Oct. 5.—Glenna Collett, the defending champion, was leading Mrs. Leona Pressler, 2 up, after three holes in their final-round match in the women's national golf tournament here today.

BIRMINGHAM, Mich., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—A par-cracking rival and the jinx that has pursued virtually all of America's golf monarchs this year failed to halt Glenna Collett's march toward her fourth national women's championship on the billowy expanse of Oakland Hills yesterday.

Doggedly refusing to join the ranks of the defeated champions, Miss Collett came back with a great burst of golf in the last seven holes to overcome a two-down disadvantage and ultimately conquer her opponent, Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, 3 and 2.

Her triumphs sent her to the 36-hole final today, when she will face a fighter from her own state of California, Mrs. Leona Pressler, of Los Angeles. Mrs. Pressler, twice holder of the western championship, hurdled into the final skirmish by eliminating Bernice Wall, of Oshkosh, Wis., by the identical margin of 3 and 2.

Mrs. Pressler is one of the most sterling match players in the royal and ancient game, but is granted only an outside chance to stop the champion in such a long stretch today. Miss Collett, like Bobby Jones, often falls in short matches, but rarely is conquered over 36 holes. In the near decade Miss Collett has been competing in the national championship, she has never been defeated in the final.

BROWN SIGNS KELLEHER

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—John P. Kelleher, former manager of the St. Louis Baseball team of the National League, was appointed baseball coach at Brown University today, succeeding Jean Debuc. Kelleher is a former manager of the Chicago Cubs, Boston Braves and Kansas City. He was assistant coach at Harvard last spring.

Fight Results

At Moose Temple—Ray Kiser defeated California Joe Gans, 10 rounds; Johnny Dunn defeated Frankie Porto, 6 rounds; Eddie Brannon won referee's decision over Andy Andrucci, 6 rounds; Tom Malco defeated Cowboy De Luca, 6 rounds.

SCALPERS BUSY IN PHILLY

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—As the first batch of world series tickets were distributed yesterday at Shibe Park, speculators actively began business. They offered to pay $50 for a $33 set of tickets and then announced they would sell the same set, good for three game here, for $100.

Speculators admitted they have few tickets actually on hand now, but declared there will be plenty available today when the Athletics' management begins distribution of tickets allotted to those whose applications were approved.

When fans present their application slips today and Monday, they must sign their names to a pledge that they will not sell the tickets, which will be void if they are sold.

Poker Alice Tubbs Off to See Series

RAPID CITY, S. D., Oct. 5.—(AP.)—Poker Alice Tubbs, who used to deal faro in mining camp gambling houses and still enjoys a good cigar, started for Chicago today to see the world series.

"Most women of my age," said Poker Alice, who has spent more than three score years in western mining camps, "would probably be packing up to attend some civic club meeting, but not for mine. I'm going to Chicago and I want to see them Chicago Cubs win the pennant."

Poker Alice also is an ardent fight fan and seldom misses a good card staged in the Black Hills.

A. A. May Adopt 154-Game Schedule

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 5.—(AP.)—T. J. Hickey, president of the American Association, announced last night the league would adopt a 154-game schedule next year in place of the 168-game schedule in force the last 10 or 12 seasons. The season next year will end around September 17, according to Hickey.

MONESSEN AT MIDLAND

The Monessen football team will play at Midland tomorrow instead of Greensburg, according to an announcement today by the Midland management.

Football Strategy

By Howard Harpster

All-America Quarterback, 1928
Now Coach at Shady Side Academy

(Note.—Harpster, as the quarterback of the Carnegie Tech eleven last fall, gained national recognition as one of the most brilliant leaders of all time in the football realm. Experts hailed him as "the player with the mind of a coach." He captained the All-East team that defeated the All-West team in California at the end of the season, and was generally picked as captain of the mythical all-America selections.)

NO. 3—PITT'S SHORT END RUN.

HERE is shown the University of Pittsburgh's powerful short end run. The Pitt end and the outside halfback box the opposing tackle. The opponent's end is taken to the outside by the quarterback, while the Pitt left end goes through and clips the defensive back.

Guard and tackle come out of the line, the tackle helping at end if necessary. Guard runs shoulder to shoulder with the fullback and they lead the play just inside of end. Runner starts out slowly and then comes in fast behind his interference. Because the play starts as a wide end run, the defensive half must play the outside, practically putting himself out of the play.

11,000 See Radio Show; Simpson Wins Praise

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

JAMES A. SIMPSON'S magic wand brought to Duquesne Garden last night the largest crowd in the history of the Oakland arena. From early evening until late at night the turnstiles clicked merrily, recording no less than 11,000 paid admissions to the Pittsburgh Radio Show.

New York, Chicago, Detroit, Los Angeles have recognized the genius of the Pittsburgh showmaster and there is a strong probability that Mr. Simpson will manage the Radio World's Fair in Gotham next fall.

Representatives from several cities have gazed upon the fourth annual exhibition in Duquesne Garden and it is known that Detroit and Los Angeles already have bid for Mr. Simpson's service.

We give "Jim" credit. Back in 1926 when the Pittsburgh Radio Council first discussed radio show, "Jim" was the only Pittsburgh promoter who could see the thing as a success. And if "Jim" Simpson sees a thing as a success there is no turning him. His spirit of optimism pervades the atmosphere wherever he goes and before a fellow knows it, "Jim" has gone over the top.

COURAGE NEEDED

It took lots of courage for "Jim" to stage the first radio show in Pittsburgh. We understand that a failure would have meant $20,000 to him.

The Radio Show went over—BIG! And it was our pleasure last night to see more people crowded in Duquesne Garde than packed that showplace the opening night of the first show four years ago.

Partially responsible for this record breaker was the excellent program presented by Madame Valentinova, Matt Thompkins and his assistant, Mary Schramm's Orchestra and Virginia Harmon.

SHOW ENDS TONIGHT

When the Fourth Annual Pittsburgh Radio Show ends tonight about 10 p. m. and the carpenter boys start packing more than $750,000 worth of exhibits, scores of radio men will drift into Mr. Simpson's office to congratulate him on his latest success. Pittsburgh fans will appreciate, too, Mr. Simpson's success in bringing to this city the best known stars of the radio firmament.

But a few hours remain of the Fourth Annual Pittsburgh Radio Show. This afternoon the kiddies will be entertained and this evening KDKA will send messages to the Far North. Madame Valentinova will sing a Russian program.

The affair has been a big success.

DISTRIBUTING SHOWS BIG PROFITS

Nine Months' Earnings for Common More Than Twice That for Full Year 1928

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Earnings of United States Distributing Corporation continued to gain during the quarter ended September 30, and it is probable that the period will show an increase in profits at least as large as that shown by the second quarter of the year.

In that period net profit was $217,171, a gain of $67,210 over the $149,961 earned in the second quarter of 1928.

With such a gain for the third quarter this year, net profit for the period would be at least $260,000 or roughly 20 cents a share on the 384,434 common shares after allowing for dividends on the 104,226 shares of 7 per cent preferred stock. In the third quarter of 1928, net profit was $189,349 or $1.79 a share on the preferred stock. This is after allowing for dividends on the 4,000 minority shares of Pattison & Bowns 6 per cent preferred stock.

RECORD NOT SEEN

This would bring net profit for the nine months to roughly $800,000 or 62 cents a common share, which would compare with net profit for the first nine months last year of $476,118 or $4.39 a share on the preferred stock. Net profit for all 1928 was only $868,315, or 28 cents a common share. In light of the results for the six months and the prospects for the third quarter, it is reasonable to expect that net profit for the full year will not only far exceed last year's results, but will also surpass the $1,069,277 or 78 cents a share earned on the common stock in 1927.

GOOD FIRST QUARTER

First six months of the year showed a gain in income of $252,000 or almost a 100 per cent increase. Major part of this gain occurred in the first quarter, when net profit was $321,696 or 35 cents a share, compared with only $136,807 or $1.25 a share on preferred stock in the first quarter of 1928. Much better coal business last winter was the main reason for the sharp rise in income. The second and third quarters are normally the slowest of the year, since coal business is at the low point during these periods. The end of September brings a resumption of coal buying and this business continues active during the rest of the winter.

OPERATES 1,200 TRUCKS

Fact that company could show a 50 per cent gain in income during the second quarter and may show a similar gain in the third quarter demonstrates the growth of its trucking and warehouse business. U. S. Distributing, through its subsidiary, U. S. Trucking Company, operates a fleet of 1,200 motor trucks. Such operations permit economies which show to best effect when operations are at levels reached during the past summer.

Profits for the final quarter last year were under the final quarter of 1927, totaling $392,197, or 53 cents a share on the common stock, against $437,123, or 65 cents a common share in the final quarter of 1927.

SEE $1.15 FOR YEAR

Even if profits during the final quarter failed to show any gain over the final quarter of last year, net for the full year would be equal to $1.15 a share, and undoubtedly net income will show a further substantial gain during the final three months.

It was considered that earnings last year reached their low ebb, and that consistent improvement in other lines of business alone made it certain that there would be a gain in profits this year. In the final quarter this year Distributing will have the added business of Shanferoke Coal nad Supply Company, distributors of Hudson Coal Company's coal, which it recently acquired.

NASH INCOME DROPS OFF

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Nash Motors Company announced that net earnings for the quarter ending August 31 totaled $3,068,657. This compared with $6,666,853 in the same period of last year. Net earnings for the nine months ended August 31 totaled $13,810,857, however, against $12,039,704 in the like period of last year.

President C. W. Nash said the statement presented is very satisfactory to the management when full consideration is given to the fact that during the third quarter the company completely closed down its plants for a period of about six weeks in preparation for bringing out a new line.

It is also to be noted that the company was under heavy expenses during months of July and August in preparation for a new line, and that much of these expenses were paid out of third quarter's earnings, he added. Management is very optimistic with reference to fourth quarter's operations in view of reception of new models by public. Orders now on hand for shipment of new models lead the company to believe they will be very busy during fourth quarter and that showing for that period will be most satisfactory.

De Forest Radio Patents Upheld

United States Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia handed down a decision upholding the De Forest Radio Company in three patent suits. The litigation was instituted by the General Electric Company against De Forest in 1926, when a decision was handed down in favor of De Forest.

Claims Proposed Rates Show Favoritism

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—F. S. Jackson, of Topeka, Kan., representing Missouri River livestock producers told the Interstate Commerce Commission that freight rates on livestock proposed by examiners for the commission would result in rank discrimination.

Appearing at the commission's investigation of Western livestock rates, Jackson contended the rates should progress uniformly as the distance increases. Explaining the effect of the proposed rates, Jackson said he owned three farms in the Kansas City region and that the freight rate on hogs from the farm the greatest distance from Chicago would be less than from the nearest farm.

Jackson contended that proposed increases in rates on short hauls were not justified, that inequalities would result and that the railroads probably would lose a large share of the traffic to motor trucks.

SHE LEARNS ABOUT THE DEVIL

THE devil is a woman with a mouth like heavy fruit,
Sad it is, but so it is, that my own mouth is small,
And quietly she waits the lad who goes in her pursuit—
As quietly I wait, but me he does not see at all.
Fair she is and fine she is and smooth and white of limb;
Brown my arms as hickory bark and sober is my tread,
Dark and potent as a charm the eyes she casts on him.
Why couldn't she have looked upon some other man instead?
The devil is a woman with fireflies in her hair,
With perfume on her fingers and perfume on her lips;
The soft and subtle curving of her brows is my despair
And my despair the soft and subtle curving of her hips.
Oh, hard she is and false she is for any eye to see,
Why must a man be witless, why must a man be blind?
Yet gladly would I change with her if she would change with me.
The devil take the devil and others of her kind.
—Selma Robinson.

A FORM OF CRITICISM

THE Messrs George Jean Nathan and Robert C. Benchley halted another dramatic critic who was featuring colored spectacles the other evening and Nathan queried:

"Why are you wearing those specs?"

"Oh," responded the sore-orbed one, "I got kleig-eyes watching a show called 'Candle-light' last night."

"Gee," flipped Nathan, "you got off easy!"

INCIDENTALLY

Speaking of dramatic critics, Gilbert Gabriel, of Mr. Hearst's New York American, is an honest commentator, indeed. Last year when five of his pals collaborated on a play, he roasted it severely, beginning his notice with: "Here's where a critic needs a friend and loses five."

But what we started out to chronicle was that Mr. Gabriel uses the Times Square office and Remington of Lewis E. Gensler, the producer, to jot down his opinions, and that when Gabriel reviewed Gensler's "See Naples and Die" show recently, it was on Gensler's typewriter that Gabriel prepared the sourest notice of his career.

NOVELETTE

If you haven't had your irony today pass over your plate. One of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film salesmen, whose territory was upstate, made the various small towns in his Ford. About four weeks ago he was killed when his car stalled on the railroad track at an unguarded crossing by the only train that passed through once every 24 hours. It was a train operated by oil and it always was the boast of the engineer that he never had any kind of an accident in his long career.

The widow proceeded to the hamlet to collect information and witnesses. Hoping, of course, she could prove that her husband was killed because the railroad was negligent. That remains to be seen, however.

But her personal inquiry brought out these facts. Her husband might have passed the crossing at least 15 minutes before the train was due had he not paused to pick up two tramps who asked for a lift and had he not also paused on the way to help a girl start the motor of her Chevrolet.

In fewer words, the man did two good deeds that day—for which he died.

HAW!

RUTH ELDER, who flew in the recent Los Angeles-Cleveland Air derby, had a forced landing in a small field.

To make matters worse, the field was filled with cattle. She got away with it, however.

At the celebration in Cleveland, when all the women fliers were guests of honor, somebody asked Ruth how she felt when she found herself over the field and realized that she ran a chance of "cracking up" very badly. They especially wanted to know whether she said a prayer or not.

"Yes, I said a prayer," said Ruth, "and at the same time I hoped to Heaven that there wasn't a bull in the crowd."

HE PASSED ME BY

Love passed me in the dusk,
And I could feel his fingers trace
A lover's smile upon my face.
Upon my cheek I felt his sigh,
So close to me did Love...pass by.

They were discussing Gilbert Miller, the producer of shows for the tall millinery clientele.

"I see that Gilbert Miller put on two attractions in one week," said a Broadway rounder. "Wasn't he the bird who last year said he would confine his activities to London, and never again give New York a play?"

"Yes," was the retort terrible, "and he's kept his word."

UNSCRAMBLE THESE ANAGRAMBLES
DAILY ANAGRAM PUZZLES

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d," to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

A Thrilling Story Of Gang Life

LITTLE CAESAR

By W. R. Burnett

Detectives Kill Rico as He Tries to Escape From Them

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

"GOD," said Rico, "if that boy didn't almost pull one on me."

One of the cooks opened the back door and put his head out.

"What the hell!" he said.

"Damned if I know," said Rico; "a couple of guys was popping at each other out here in the alley."

"Some of them bootleggers," said the cook.

Rico took a cab back to Chiggi's. He was very much perturbed. Whoever that boy was he certainly meant business.

"Well," said Rico, "somebody has sure spilled something."

As soon as he came in Chiggi rushed up to him and grabbed him by the arm.

"Louis," he said, "Red's drunk and we can't do nothing with him."

Rico started at Chiggi.

"Where's he been?"

"Hell," cried Rico, "where is he?"

Chiggi led Rico back into one of the private rooms. Red was sitting at a table with a half empty quart of whisky on the table beside him. When he saw Rico he cried:

"If it ain't old Rico himself! By God, I been drinking all day. I can hardly see but nobody can put me under the table, ain't that so, boss. Yes, sir, I'd like to see the stiff that could drink Rico's buddy under the table."

Rico turned to Chiggi.

"A guy tried to pop me over at Frank's. This bird has spilled something. I got to be moving."

Chiggi's eyes got big.

"You gonna pull out, Louis?"

"I got to," said Rico; "somebody's looking for that seven grand."

"Damn, Louis," said Chiggi, "what we gonna do without you?"

"Best you can," said Rico.

Chiggi went out of the room. Rico took Red by the shoulders and shook him. Red blinked his eyes.

"Was I?" cried Red; "spent a hundred bucks on them birds."

"Any of them know me?"

Red rolled his head from side to side, and sang, then he smashed his fists down on the table.

"Rico," he said, "old Red's going back to the big burg, yes, sir, old Red's tired of this tank town. Old Red's got a good stake now and he's moving. They run me out once, but I ain't scairt of them no more. I'm going back and show 'em who Red Hackett is. Yeah, bo!"

Rico shook him.

"Listen, Red," he said, "did any of them birds know me?"

Red lolled his head, trying to focus his eyes on Rico.

"One of them guys was a personal friend of yours," said Red; "fact, he asked me if you wasn't laying up here, see, he knew all right, wasn't no harm in telling him nothing."

"Who was he?" shouted Rico.

Red thought for a moment, then he said:

"I can't seem to remember. He's a wop, all right, a bald-headed wop."

"Scabby!" Rico exclaimed.

Chiggi came in.

"Cab out in front, Louis," he said.

Rico pointed at Red.

"That guy spilled the works. For two bits I'd bump him off."

Rico was furious. He made a move toward his armpit, but one of the bartenders opened the door and yelled:

"The bulls!"

"What!" cried Rico.

The bartender was trembling all over and his face was white.

"Police car out in front, boss."

"Out the back, Louis."

Chiggi leapt across the room and pulled a switch and all the lights in the place went out. Then he took Rico by the arm and led him through the hall and out into a little court at the rear.

"So long, Louis," he said.

Chiggi slammed the door. Rico was in utter darkness.

"A hell of a chance I got," he said.

He stepped cautiously out into the alley back of the court and took a look around. The alley was blind to his right; to his left it came out onto a main thoroughfare and there was a bright arc light at that end. Rico took out his gun and moved slowly toward the arc light.

"You can't never tell," he said; then, in an excess of rage: "They'll never put no cuffs on this baby."

When he was within 50 feet of the main thoroughfare a man appeared at the end of the alleyway, a big man in a derby hat. He saw Rico and immediately blew a blast on his whistle. Rico raised his gun and pulled the trigger; it missed fire.

Rico was frantic. He wanted to live. For the first time in his life he addressed a vague power which he felt to be stronger than himself.

"Give me a break! Give me a break!" he implored.

The man in the derby hat raised his arm, and Rico rushed him, pumping lead. Rico saw a long spurt of flame and then something hit him a sledgehammer blow in the chest. He took two steps, dropped his gun, and fell flat on his face. He heard a rush of feet up the alley.

"Mother of God," he said, "is this the end of Rico?"

(THE END.)

138-Foot Oil Well Produces, Boom On

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 5.—A well in which oil was struck at a depth of only 138 feet is responsible for an oil boom in Lewis County, W. Va. The Philadelphia Company drilled in a producer on the Bennett farm, near Walkersville, Lewis County, oil being struck at 138 feet. Drilling was continued until a flow of 100 barrels of oil daily was obtained. The strike caused a rush of drilling contractors to the Walkersville field, where efforts are being made to obtain leases on what is said to be West Virginia's shallowest oil field.

Man Killed by Auto, Two Ministers Held

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 5.—Held after his car was alleged to have struck and killed Joseph Pastor, 65, of Crabtree, on the highway near here, the Rev. Earnest A. Tappert, 45, pastor of a Johnstown Methodist Episcopal church, has been released under $1,000 bail. The Rev. Paul W. Heist, 30, also of Johnstown, has been held as a material witness.

North Borough's Y Increases Staff

James Speer, of Erie, Pa., a student at the Pittsburgh Theological Seminary, has been added to the staff of the North Boroughs branch, Y. M. C. A. He will give part time to the work among the boys of Ben Avon and Emsworth. Robert French, also a seminary student, will devote part of his time to this service.

Draws 90 Days In Auto Theft

James Wright, 21, of 3 Ormsby avenue, was committed to the county workhouse for 90 days by Magistrate John J. Sweeney in South Side Police Court yesterday, after it was testified that he attempted to steal an automobile in Carrick late Thursday night. Wright was committed to the workhouse when he was unable to pay a $50 fine imposed by the magistrate.

Farrell Man Shot, One Held for Quiz

SHARON, Pa., Oct. 5.—Walter McNamara, 24, of Sharon, is being held while police investigate the shooting of Edward Lacamera, 24, of Farrell, in a restaurant here. Lacamera is in the local hospital with a bullet in his left thigh.

McNamara claims the revolver was discharged while several young men were examining it.

Extend 'Happy New Year' To Jewish Friends Today

If you greet a Jewish friend today or tomorrow with a cheery "Happy New Year" you will be helping to make him happy as a celebrant of the most joyous festival in the Jewish calendar, Rosh Hashanah—the New Year. This festival, a religious one, began with sundown Friday and continues until the descent of the sun Sunday evening.

Today marks the beginning of the year 5690 in the Jewish calendar and the festival in observance of the beginning of a new period of time is solemn in its religious aspect. Its ecclesiastical significance is that of passing before the Judgment Seat, a time of contemplation and introspection—and amendment to make all right with the soul.

But it also is an occasion of festivity as well as of prayer and repentance, a time of good cheer and good feeling to be expressed in happiness and good wishes. The 122,000 Jews of Pittsburgh will say "Lashona Tovo Tikosavo," or its English equivalent, "Happy New Year," many thousands of times today, and send and receive the same greeting by card and telegraph. Socially the festival is a time of gladness.

Christian friends of our Jewish people will join with them in the festive events and at the same time have a feeling of sympathy for the members of this race because of recent occurrences in Palestine, ancient home of the Jew, that surely bring a tinge of sadness to a kindly, worthy, charitable people who are celebrating what should be to them the happiest day in the year.

We extend a wish for a Happy and Prosperous New Year to our Jewish friends and neighbors.

Usefulness of Our Tech International in Scope

An announcement that catches our interest is that the enrollment of students at Carnegie Institute represents 39 states, District of Columbia, Canal Zone and 13 foreign states. The significance of this is seen when it is considered that the institution was established primarily for the youth of the Pittsburgh district. Its fame as an institution of learning has extended to such an extent in the few years since it was founded that it now is of nation-wide and international usefulness instead of merely local.

That Pittsburgh appreciates its opportunity, however, is indicated in the fact that 30 per cent of the students are residents here. Allegheny County, including Pittsburgh, accounts for 68 per cent. Among the states Ohio ranks second and New York third in students enrolled.

Tech can be proud of its reputation that has brought such results, and it is assured that Pittsburgh is very proud of Tech, as it is of its two other universities, Pitt and Duquesne.

The Place for Psychopathic Personality

In Jail, for Life

Alienists say that young Mr. Peacox was insane when he strangled his wife, later sprinkling her with kerosene, trying to burn her body "to protect her mother from the unpleasant shock of seeing her daughter's corpse."

It seems that Mr. Peacox, and at least one-third of the men in big prisons, have a "psychopathic personality."

If that be true, the hangman has been engaged in eliminating psychopathic personalities that strangle their wives.

If you cannot stop strangling without eliminating the psychopathic personality, then that personality should be locked up for the rest of its life—capital punishment being barbarous.

The Channel Lobbyist

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

EVERYBODY seems to be plenty sore against Mr. Bill Shearer, the famous channel lobbyist.

Principally because he seems to have accomplished something.

"Bugs" Baer

Mr. Shearer is a big navy man which enrages little navy men who failed to make the Olympic emolument team.

Mr. Shearer is for a bigger and lobbier navy. He gets paid for having the courage of his salary.

Shearer has been bobbing around Geneva disguised as an Alpine echo. And the burden of his yodel has been parity by lobbyism.

They say he got 25 grand for ghost sniping at European conferences.

All he did was to drop a little hint there and snatch it back here.

We cannot exactly define a lobbyist. He is a man who thinks the national flag should be indorsed by the Secretary of Treasury.

Still, you cannot condemn Mr. Shearer for his efforts to prevent the glory and power of the American navy from being crowded into one rowboat.

We understand that he was apprehended in citizen's clothing. We might stand him up against a wall and shoot him. Or we could make the punishment worse by making him read Ambassador Gerard's book, "My Four Years in Germany."

As to ruining understanding between America and Europe, a little ruining might be an improvement.

Mr. Shearer's pioneer work in fallow fields has opened up a new set of diplomatic posts in foreign lands:

Propagandist Plenipotentiary to the Island of Bimini.

Payroll sniper at The Hague.

Bible Passages

Parable of the Vine

(St. John 15; 1-11)

I AM the true vine, and my Father is the husbandman.

Every branch in me that beareth not fruit he taketh away: and every branch that beareth fruit, he purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit.

Now ye are clean through the word which I have spoken unto you.

Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself except it abide in the vine; no more can ye, except ye abide in me.

I am the vine, ye are the branches: He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit: for without me ye can do nothing.

If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered; and men gather them, and cast them into the fire, and they are burned.

If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ye shall seek what ye will, and it shall be done unto you.

Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit; so shall ye be my disciples.

As the Father hath loved me, so have I loved you: continue ye in my love.

If ye keep my commandments, ye shall abide in my love; even as I have kept my Father's commandments, and abide in his love.

These things have I spoken unto you, that my joy might remain in you, and that your joy might be full.

The Rhyming Optimist

Carved Jade

MEN love it more because they find
A subtle charm that lurks behind
Its matchless color and the way
A cunning carver of Cathay
Wrought there an intricate design
Of flowers in a temple shrine.
For jade brings vanished things to view
And sweeps away the crude, the new.
Men love it well because they see
A glimpse of what Earth used to be
In distant lands for alien men;
Jade's magic wakes old thoughts again.
A castle by the Eastern Wall,
A cassia-tree whose branches tall
Cast shadows in the courtyard there
That sway with scented candles' flare.
Two say farewell, a man and maid,
His parting gift, perhaps this jade!

A CONFIDENCE GAME

By Herbert Kaufman

PROSPERITY and success are largely attitudes of mind. The Imperial Valley is an attitude of mind; Nature didn't give it a second thought, and abandoned the spot in disgust to sagebrush, cactus and side-winders.

But Harriman, the empire builder, believed he could change that drear patch of desert to flourishing orchards and lush fields.

The waters that since irrigate and fructify those once-dead sands—which crowd them with fig trees and orange groves and date palms and garden truck—flowed from the well-springs of his vision.

Present Los Angeles is LIKEWISE an attitude of mind; it's the same Los Angeles, in the same location, with the same possibilities that it had before, PLUS only the wits and wills of a few optimists who first filled the NEIGHBORHOOD with their enthusiasms, and then thrilled the nation with faith in Southern California.

FLORIDA had nothing to sell the world in 1922 that she DIDN'T possess in 1892, EXCEPT a different attitude of mind.

Kansas was once the official Jeremiah of America—the stronghold of the Greenbacker, the Populist—AND THE UNPAID MORTGAGE.

Her folk were ALWAYS searching for a Philosopher's Stone—too busy snooping for agricultural cure-alls to earn livings and raise crops.

When she dropped her false PROPHETS, she began to gather real PROFITS.

As soon as freak legislation ceased muddling matters, Kansas began to hit the high spots and break bumper records.

Political quackery never yet increased grain yields or bettered market prices.

Commonsense and productive effort run agriculture, business and finance, alike. Where neither is in charge, creditors ARE.

IF LAND is haphazardly handled, people go broke—as they do in haphazard retailing and wholesaling, haphazard mining and haphazard newspaper publishing, haphazard steel making and haphazard banking.

Every game's a LOSING game if it isn't played for all it's worth. Nine storekeepers out of ten don't make the grade. Ninety per cent of professionals are a half jump ahead of monthly rent and living expenses.

Farming offers the same chances as any other trade, and the same mis-chances.

There's too much loose, depressive talk about the future of agriculture.

Irresponsible statement and pessimistic propaganda are groaning the value out of sound acreage, frightening investment and holding back the further settlement of the land.

FEDERAL RELIEF, alone, can't furnish the silver polish for rural cloud-linings. The right ATTITUDE OF MIND is needed too.

Population keeps growing, and with each rise in the birth rate, there are just that many more mouths to feed. Cities MUST eat and pay the FAIR value of food-stuffs.

Year by year the labor of production is being lightened by efficient tillage tools, improved traffic facilities and power substitutes for expensive human labor.

The rigors and isolations of pre-robot, pre-electrical, pre-telephone, pre-radio and pre-automobile days have vanished. Husbandry ISN'T in the doldrums, but on the THRESHHOLD of a long-awaited kingdom.

Necessity is the farmer's UNESCAPABLE customer. There are no equivalents for milk and butter, wool and flour, fruit and greens and grains.

And there's no alternative for stick-to-itiveness, management or thrift, EITHER.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

IF they aren't squabbling over one thing, it's another. This time it's whether PEOPLE HAVE A RIGHT TO BRING INNOCENT BABES INTO THIS VALE OF TEARS.

IS BIRTH SUCH A GREAT GIFT TO A CHILD OR ARE PARENTS SELFISH OLD MEANIES WHO GRATIFY THEMSELVES AT THE EXPENSE OF THEIR HELPLESS OFFSPRING?

Here's Mrs. O. L.'s opinion: "I cannot see," says she, "how any sensitive, conscientious person can deliberately subject a poor child to the misery of this world. I have no children and do not intend to have any for that reason. I admit my own life has been quite easy and pleasant, but when I look around and see the troubles of others I know that I would rather never give a child life than have him go through it all. And I am sure that I would die a thousand deaths myself if I had to see him going through it."

Now, undoubtedly many will consider that a mighty noble speech, but personally I suspect that the lady is just putting up a high-powered argument to camouflage her own laziness and cowardice. And it wouldn't be worth a moment's consideration were it not for the fact that this argument is becoming the best alibi, among our intelligentsia, for Not Having Babies.

At this point let's hastily concede their right NOT to have babies if they don't want 'em. In fact, I'm all for appointing a committee to go around and urge them to abstain from progeny, for the sake of the children themselves. PARENTS WITH IDEAS LIKE THAT ARE NO TREAT FOR ANY AMBITIOUS CHILD. So I, for one, am quite willing that Mrs. O. L. should never be a mamma. But how about her theory?

Has life its bad moments? Sure it has! But, given a fair start, the chances are that life will be a glorious adventure for any youngster. And its very hardships are part of that glory. HARDSHIPS ARE AS NATURAL AS HALLELUJAHS. THEY ARE ALL PART OF THE NORMAL SCHEME OF GROWTH, AND ANY HEALTHY NATURE ACCEPTS THEM AS SUCH. The gravest risk most children have to face is their own parents. If they can survive them, and they generally do, the rest is easy. And it's amazing how tickled little tads are with life as soon as they realize that it has happened to them. Mamma may wring her hands at the thought of her possible progeny going through bankruptcy and boils. BUT I BET IF IT WERE PUT UP TO THE KID HE'D VOTE TO BE BORN, IN SPITE OF THE SCRAMBLE AHEAD.

And how about mamma herself? If life is too terrible for the little darlings she must be pretty well fed up with it herself—yes? BUT JUST TRY TO TAKE IT FROM HER! Just let her get a good, hard cold, or even a dose of hives, and watch her holler and hang on. Yeah—her argument against reproducing the species certainly looks suspicious.

And even if she means it, isn't she taking her job a lot too seriously? We humans act as if we'd invented Birth, and ought to do something about it. We didn't. And it's not up to us to decide whether or not life is a worthwhile performance any more than it's up to an apple tree to decide whether sap shall rise or blossoms blow. God started the whole performance when He made Adam, and He certainly knew what it was all about.

IF HE COULD TAKE THAT RISK WITH THE FIRST MAN, I GUESS THE REST OF US CAN 'TAKE A CHANCE AND HAVE LITTLE WILLIE.

The Wailing Wall

The ancient wall of which a small part is shown in this photograph, is the remnant of Solomon's Temple, long since destroyed.

On the site of the Temple, 700 years ago, Mohammedans built a mosque for their religion, and for 1,300 years Mohammedan Arabs have ruled and owned Jerusalem, the "Holy City," of various religions.

The Holy Wall itself stands on Mohammedan property, and Jews standing at the Wall, or "sitting in solitude to mourn" approach the Wall only by permission of the Arabs, an arrangement made through the British government.

Here, not long ago, the frightful outbreak of religious and racial hatred began in Jerusalem. Jews wailing at the Wall, unarmed and unprotected, were stricken down and killed by fanatical Arabs.

For centuries devout Jews living in Jerusalem, and many returning to Jerusalem in their old age from the most distant parts of the earth, have mourned at this Wailing Wall, the departed glory of the Temple and the ruin of the Jewish nation.

There had been no interference by the Arabs, except unimportant occasional conflicts, until the highly successful colonization of the Zionists aroused Arab jealousies.

The work of Zionists had greatly increased Arab prosperity, multiplying their wages by three, giving them employment, eliminating disease and death by fighting malaria and other sickness.

But all of this, in the estimation of fanatical Arabs, could not outweigh the fact that a religion other than their own, and a race different from theirs, was becoming powerful and dominant in the city held by them for 1,300 years, and considered their own for all time.

For the time being peace has been restored, and Great Britain has promised to carry out the duty of maintaining order when she took the mandate for Palestine.

Once again devout Jews are permitted to approach this old Wall with the strange huge stones, and there bewail departed glory.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Horseback riding in New York touched a new peak of popularity this year. Riding academies in Manhattan and Brooklyn had long waiting lists and bridle paths bristled with spirited mounts. Two millionaires sent to far off Arabia for blooded steeds.

Central Park is the metropolitan riding mecca, and around tea time in the thicket of hotels in the Plaza fountain zone, costumed riders are in profusion. Ocean Parkway, in Brooklyn, and Van Cortlandt Park, in the Bronx, also have their steady stream of gallopers.

The riding begins at 5 a. m. Most of these are enthusiasts who want to avoid the crush which sets in between 7 and 10 a. m. Among those who may be seen at dawn on caracoling chargers are famous surgeons, stage stars, novelists, editors, merchant princes and foreign diplomats.

Wall street, too, finds a great relaxation in swinging around the circuit several times before braving the shifting fortunes of the day. Clubmen who used to hurry to clubs for Scotch and sodas in the late afternoon, now slip into butter-bean pants and dash hell-for-leather about the park.

While the female riders are mostly young girls, there are a number of sedate, long-skirted women sitting primly in side saddles. And there are any number of children who seem as much at home horseback as little Miss Tomasino Mix.

For saddle horses are becoming more and more a rare luxury. They range in price from $400 to $4,000, and their upkeep in fashionable sections is comparable to the maintenance of an expensive automobile. Three shops deal exclusively in outfitting riders.

Most riding instructors are Englishmen with drawling Mayfair accents. Many are aristocrats of impoverished families who saw America as the promised land, and failing on lean days, commercialized their riding skill.

One of the Ye Olde English inns in the 50's, featuring dark panelings, racks of pewter tankards, candle prints and candle-lit brass lanterns, has become a rendezvous for a group of young men flowering with literary ambitions. To heighten the atmosphere, the proprietress lists writing names on the menus—pineapple fritter a la Sinclair Lewis, steak Mencken, salad Dorothy Parker and a dessert has become Hergesheimer tootsies.

* * *

A big New York jewel robbery chase has suddenly been called off with a shuddery de Maupassant twist. The husband, after spending $25,000 with private detectives, learns missing gems are in a Southern pawn shop—pledged by a gigolo to whom they were "loaned" by the wife. Ugh!

Another sub rose story concerns a "Parisian hair dresser" with an elaborate salon. Fifteen years ago he conducted a barber shop on Second avenue patronized by Gyp the Blood, Dago Frank, Lefty Louis and Whitey Lewis, notorious gangsters. He has never been out of New York.

I am touched by a struggling young writer who in a letter admits: "So far I have only sold a couple of those he-she cracks to the funny papers."

And still it is pretty difficult to squeeze out even a crocodile tear for the literary novice these flushed times. In the last 10 months eight young men and women under 25 not only finished first novels but all were immediately published.

Nor is anything more difficult than to persuade a writer to give up his ambitions and turn to something else. One might as well ask Parsifal to give up the Holy Grail. I got that out of a book. Such advice is dangerous, too. A featured writer in a certain magazine is one the editor catalogued six years ago as impossible. He has three successful novels and a play to his credit.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

DO YOU make more effort to be friendly with those working with you, in your department, than you do to please your boss?

When there are discussions concerning him do you add words of censure rather than those of a complimentary nature?

If there is a movement against the boss, who has always treated you fairly, do you join right in with the rest?

Even though you may feel that actions he has taken are really right, do you object to them because most of those working with you take a position against them?

Be loyal to the one who pays you wages and to whom you are responsible.

An employer has every reason to expect loyalty from his organization.

There must be a loyal feeling—the right sort of feeling toward your work and your employer—or you cannot do your best.

It requires your best to warrant and gain advancement.

If you are not sold on your employer and your job, the very thing is lacking which is needed to enable you to make progress.

Your personal efforts would be better served by a connection with a firm to which you can be loyal.
